SWACHH BHARAT ABHIYAN AND GANDHIAN CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAMMES

Prof. N. Radhakrishnan

It is generally believed that the strength, vitality and relevance of a philosophy or vision associated with a great person is measured on the basis of the extent to which his philosophy is interpreted in such a manner that has the power to explode intellectually, leading to social change. The Aristotle-Plato explorations, Sree Ramakrishna-Vivekananda spiritual affinity, the Karl Marx-Lenin political teaming up are a few of the most outstanding examples of daring and courageous efforts to reinterpret or adapt the philosophy of their mentors or masters. Vinoba Bhave's efforts in India through the Bhoodan Movement rekindled the magic of the Gandhian Revolution but it was short-lived and it is generally perceived that Gandhi remains now an academic subject and an iconic figure to be worshipped but difficult to be followed in daily life.

The task before the nation as it gears to celebrate the 150th birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi should be therefore, to examine ways and means to discover the Gandhi in each of us and to understand what his legacy means to the nation particularly.

Swachh Bharat Abhiyan rekindles Gandhian vision of a healthy nation.

The Swachh Bharat Abhiyan, a very imaginative and creative national initiative answers several unanswered questions Indians in the post-Gandhian period have been raising from time to time.

It quickly captured the imagination of the nation and has become a 'Jan Andolan' receiving tremendous and massive people's participation reflecting its acceptance as a brave and comprehensive step towards a cleaner and healthier India from bottom up. Citizens too have turned out in large numbers and pledged for a cleaner India of Gandhi's dream.

"A clean India would be the best tribute India could pay to Mahatma Gandhi on his 150th birth anniversary in 2019," said the Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi as he launched the Swachh Bharat Mission at Rajpath in New Delhi. On 2nd October 2014, Swachh Bharat Mission was launched throughout length and breadth of the country as a national movement. The campaign aims to achieve the vision of a 'Clean India' by 2nd October 2019. Shri Narendra Modi led a cleanliness pledge at India Gate, which about thirty lakh government employees across the country joined. He also flagged off a walkathon at Rajpath and surprised people by joining in not just for a token few steps, but

In Gandhiji's concept of society, youth would be working right from his/her days of schooling. He was a votary of productive work at school. In fact, his philosophy was 'Nai Tai Lim' and the method was 'learning by doing'. Gandhiji was certain that no person who wanted to work could remain unemployed. The system of education that was introduced by British in India was with the twin purpose of turning out clerks for their administration and intellectuals who could think the British way. The first purpose was utterly selfish to get cheap labour and the second purpose was born out of arrogance about the superiority of their modern civilisation. Gandhiji opposed both.

Gandhiji wrote his treatise in Hind Swaraj in 1909. I would urge the youth to read it with patience and decipher the message today because what he wrote for European civilisation in 1909 is to be witnessed in our country today. He wrote:

"Let us first consider what state of things is described by the word 'civilization'. Its true test lies in the fact that people living in it make bodily welfare the object of life. We will take some examples. The people of Europe today live in better-build houses than they did a hundred years ago. This is considered an emblem of civilization, and this is also a matter to promote bodily happiness. Formerly, they wore skins and used spears as their weapons. Now, they wear long trousers, and, for embellishing their bodies, they wear a variety of clothing, and, instead of spears, they carry with them revolvers containing five or more chambers... Formerly, in Europe, people ploughed their lands mainly by manual labour. Now, one man can plough a vast tract by means of steam engines and can thus amass great wealth. This is called a sign of civilization... Formerly, only a few men wrote valuable books. Now, anybody writes and prints anything he likes and poisons people's minds... Men will not need the use of their hands and feet. They will press a button, and they will have their clothing by their side. They will press another button, and they will have their newspaper. A third, and a motor-car will be in waiting for them. They will have a variety of delicately dished up food. Everything will be done by machinery.

Prime Minister launches 'Swachhata Hi Seva' movement Performs Shramdaan at a school in Delhi

The Prime Minister, Shri Narendra Modi, launched the 'Swachhata Hi Seva' Movement on September 15, 2018, to boost nationwide public participation in the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan, and catalyse the fulfilment of Bapu's dream of a Clean India. The Swachhata Hi Seva movement aims at generating greater public participation towards Swachhata. It is being organized in the run up to the fourth anniversary of the Swachh Bharat Mission, on October 2nd, 2018, which also marks the commencement of the 150th year celebrations of Mahatma Gandhi. The Prime Minister urged everyone to be a part of this movement and strengthen the efforts to create a 'Swachh Bharat'. He interacted with a cross-section of people from 17 locations across the country, via video conferencing. Initiating the interaction, the Prime Minister shared some key achievements, including how 450 districts in India have become Open Defecation Free within four years. Similarly, 20 States and Union Territories have declared themselves ODF in this period. He emphasized that providing facilities such as toilets or dustbins is not enough, and added that cleanliness or Swachhata is a habit that can be inculcated. He said people from across the country are now participating in the development of this habit. School children from Dibrugarh in Assam, explained to the Prime Minister, their contributions towards making their school and area, clean. The PM noted that youngsters are ambassadors of social change. The way they have furthered the message of cleanliness is commendable, he added.

Members of milk and agriculture cooperatives assembled in Mehsana, Gujarat, to interact with the PM on their initiatives towards Swachhata. The Prime Minister noted that Swachh the interaction. It is a great honour and privilege to help launch a movement which should be the dream of every citizen of India, he added. The Prime Minister expressed his belief that the private sector has a big role to play in the creation of a Clean India.

Senior media persons from Dainik Jagran, including Shri Sanjay Gupta, joined the interaction from Noida, and shared their efforts to further cleanliness. Jawans of the ITBP joined the interaction from the high altitude Pangong Lake in Ladakh. The Bharat Abhiyaan has led to a decrease in cases of diseases such as diarrhoea.

marching with the participants for a long way. People from different sections of the society have come forward and joined this mass movement of cleanliness. From government officials to jawans, bollywood actors to sportspersons, industrialists to spiritual leaders, all have lined up for the noble work. Millions of people across the country have been day after day joining the cleanliness initiatives of the government departments, NGOs and local community centres to make India clean. While leading the mass movement for cleanliness, the Prime Minister exhorted people to fulfil Mahatma Gandhi's dream of a clean and hygienic India. Shri Narendra Modi himself initiated the cleanliness drive at Mandir Marg Police Station. Picking up the broom to clean dirt, making Swachh Bharat Abhiyan a mass movement across the nation, the Prime Minister said people should neither litter, nor let others litter. Taking the broom to sweep the streets, cleaning up the garbage, focusing on sanitation and maintaining a hygienic environment have become a practice after the launch of the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan by the Prime Minister of India. People have started to take part and are helping spread the message of 'Cleanliness is next to Godliness'. Forward with Gandhi Notwithstanding Gandhi's suggestion to bury with him his writings , now there is a greater debate leading to a serious examination of the significance of his work, his thoughts and vision in the emerging scenario all over the world. What is known today as 'Gandhian Philosophy' is what has grown out of his life, work and his views on life, men, matters and society. Gandhi's life, work and vision reveal that he is a great confluence of ideas. Deeply rooted in his tradition he learnt from the west very heavily, and absorbed intimately insights and teachings of most of the major regions of the world. He borrowed ideas from Tolstoy, Ruskin and many other western thinkers and practitioners besides from many Indian masters and visionaries. In this process, he became the meeting ground of several ideas and persons of eminence. 'A practical idealist' as he described himself, he left a rich legacy for human emancipation and sustainable living. When pressed for a message he offered the now-famous quote, 'My life is my Message'. To call or describe Gandhi a philosopher in the conventional sense of the term will be thus erroneous. No doubt, he had his own philosophy of life. Gandhiji's vision of a social order where all are equal and are eligible for equal opportunities is known today as Sarvodaya Samaj: Gandhi described such a society, as Ram Rajya. Unfortunately, the term Ram Rajya acquired religious overtones and has become a suspect in the eyes of non-Hindus. Gandhi explained that his efforts were geared to ensure a just society.The Ramraj of his dream was a kingdom of Truth--Kingdom of Justice where nobody will be discriminated. It was a kingdom of God on earth. Constructive Programmes The development models Gandhi suggested, and the strategies he adopted for non-violent social transformation individual emancipation and empowerment, were not guided by the exigencies of time or were impulsive in any sense. What are known today as Constructive Programmes which Gandhi submitted to the nation to rebuild it and restore its lost glory will amply suggest how comprehensive and holistic were the Gandhian initiatives for non-violent social change. However, Gandhi himself indicated that these programmes were just illustrative. Let us take a quick look at these programmes which, according to the distinguished scholar and activist Prof. Gene Sharp, have three main parts: 1.Improvement of individuals in their own lives and ways of living 2.Constructive programme to begin building a new social order even as the old one still exists; and 3.The practice of various forms of non-violent action against specific social evils. Gene Sharp, after careful analysis of the various programmes, further explained Gandhi's approach as follows: "He assumed that a just social order characterized by self-reliance and freedom must be produced by a movement with those same characteristics. Gandhi, therefore developed the idea of creating a new social order through a voluntary constructive programme functioning independently of the State and other institutions of the old order. His efforts were experimental; he would be the last to call them adequate. 1. Equality of all Religions Gandhi fully realized the creative role, religions could play in integrating social values. Advocating a new approach, he reminded people that religions are different roads converging to the same goal. And as such it should not make any difference if we take different roads, so long as we reach the same point. All religions preach the gospel love. Still what we see around is a growing tendency to look down upon other's religion and to extol the virtues of one's own religion. Many lack even the basic understanding that in a diverse situation tolerance acts like a glue that keeps the fabric of society together. They forget the simple truth that tolerance gives us spiritual insight and arms us with courage of conviction which will eventually break all barriers between faith and faith. It will also extend the frontiers of human understanding. Gandhi, hence advocated a new approach- Sarvadharm Sambhava (equal respect for all religions). 2 Removal of Untouchability Segregation of any segment of population on the basis of its birth in a particular community, or colour of skin or the vocation it follows tantamount to violation of human rights and is a sin against humanity. Gandhi argued. Hence, the individual and social efforts are to be undertaken with courage and conviction to undo the wrongs perpetrated towards those deprived sections. From obscurantism and inhuman practices, these suppressed people are to be liberated, he pointed out. The 21 years of Gandhiji's work in South Africa is now understood as a crusade for ensuring human rights to all. The South African period, which was very crucial in Gandhiji's life, also witnessed a young lawyer blossoming into a Mahatma. The Indian period witnessed amongst many other things Gurudev Tagore conferring on Gandhi, Mahatmahood and Netaji Subash Chandra Bose hailing Gandhi as the Father of the Nation in recognition of Gandhi's contribution. 1. Prohibition The evil of drinking alcohol, the misery it brings into the lives of men, and women and children, the ruin of the family the drain of the hard earned money into, arrack sellers', and the health hazards drinking creates, attracted Gandhiji's attention and he wanted to attack this evil comprehensively. The prohibition Council initiated by Gandhi while undertaking the massive education campaign highlighting this evil, no doubt created a considerable general awareness. This was followed by a vigorous campaign to enforce prohibition in all parts of the country under Gandhi's leadership. 2. Khadi Khadi has been rightly hailed as the soul of the Gandhian revolution and to Gandhi, Khadi was the symbol of both the individuals and nation's emancipation. Gandhi described khadi as "the beginning of economic freedom and equality of all in the country. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Let everyone try, and he or she will find out for himself or herself the truth of what I am saying. Khadi must be taken with all its implications. It means a wholesale Swadeshi mentality, a determination to find all the necessities of life in India and that too through the labour and intellect of the villagers. That means a reversal of the existing process." 3. Village Industries Gandhi's views on production by the masses, as a necessary condition for development, equality and peace, rested on his insistence that each village be treated as an independent, self-sufficient unit where the craftsman, artisans, labourers, would find enough opportunities for engaging in meaningful activities which will enable them to continue both their hereditary and acquired means of living. These different activities would generate not only employment but also ensure higher individual income in the villages. Weaving, oil pressing, honey-making, papad making hand-pounding of rice, handmade paper, soap making, to list a few of the in exhaustive list of village industries that can be undertaken in the villages. 4. Basic Education While Gandhi had no quarrel with the traditional approach to education, he believed that what was required through education was that it should offer the child creative opportunities to discover himself and provide him with tools to relate himself to the society and social needs. He insisted that the education system should draw out the best in the child rather than making a child a mechanical tool. The basic education or the Nai Talim emphasizes on the synthesis of the three 'H's -'H' for head, 'H' for heart and 'H' for hand. The child should think with his head, react with his heart and work with hands. So what was required was a combination of these three faculties which would bring out the best in the child and would make the child independent, self-sufficient and creative. 5. Adult Education A country of unlettered and ignorant adults, who are unaware of their duties and rights, leave alone unfamiliar with letters, is a sin and shame. Gandhi, realizing this, emphasized the value of adult education which should become a social responsibility of every individual. He did not want the state to undertake adult education programmes. On the contrary, every educated member has to shoulder the responsibility of involving himself/herself in adult education activities. 6. Women In all his campaigns for justice, liberty, human dignity, it might be worth remembering that Gandhi brought women to the front-line of fighters. Never before in Indian history women joyfully participated in public activities as they did under the clarion call of the Mahatma. It may not be out of place here to recall the half-humorous comments attributed to Kasturba that women understood Gandhi much better than men. Gandhi's respect for women was infinite because he believed that they have superior inner capacity for non-violence. Gandhi brought women into the centre stage of the awareness campaign and political struggle against discrimination. He initiated this both in South Africa and India to ensure human rights at a time when the now-familiar and oft-quoted word 'human rights' was not at all in use this shows how he treated women and what his expectations were about the creative role women could

GANDHIJI ON SANITATION

Our cleanliness must be both internal and external. The former means truthfulness. Truthfulness is the essence of purity, and is also another name for neatness.
(Collected Works of Mahatma Gandhi (CWMG) Vol XLIX, P414; 9-5-1932, published by Publications Division, Ministry of I&B)

Cleanliness of the mind and body is the first step in education. Prayer does for the purification of the mind what the bucket and the broom do for the cleaning up of your physical surroundings. That is why, we always commence our proceedings with prayer. No matter whether the prayer we recite is the Hindu prayer or the Muslim or the Parsi, its function is essentially the same, namely, purification of the heart.
(CWMG; Volume LXXVIII; p.320, published by Publications Division, Ministry of I&B)

Both excretory functions should be performed only at fixed places. To pass urine anywhere in a street, at any place not meant for the purpose should be regarded as an offence. After passing urine at any selected place, one should cover up the spot well with dry earth. Lavatories should be kept very clean. Even the part, through which the water flows, should be kept clean. Our lavatories bring our civilization into discredit; they violate the rules of hygiene. If my suggestion is followed, no one would need to remove night-soil, the air would not become polluted and the villages would remain very clean."
(‘Our Dirty Ways’ in Navajivan on 13-9-1925)

What is true of lack of order and method is also true of uncleanness. A person who loves simplicity will never be unclean. There ought to be cleanliness in simplicity.
(CWMG Vol XXVII. P116; 17-5-1925, published by Publications Division, Ministry of I&B)

“... No one should spit or clean his nose on the streets. In some cases, the sputum is so harmful that the germs are carried from it and they infect others with tuberculosis. In some places, spitting on the road is a criminal offence. Those who spit after chewing betel leaves and tobacco have no consideration for the feelings of others.

Spittle, mucus from the nose, etc, should also be covered with earth. Near the villages or dwellings, there should be no ditches in which water can collect. Mosquitoes do not breed where water does not stagnate. Where there are no mosquitoes, the incidence of malaria is low. At one time, water used to collect around Delhi. After the hollows were filled, mosquitoes were greatly reduced and so was malaria.”
(In Navajivan dated 2-11-1919)

“I shall have to defend myself on one point, namely, sanitary conveniences. I learnt 35 years ago that a lavatory must be as clean as a drawing-room. I learnt this in the West. I believe that many rules about cleanliness in lavatories are observed more scrupulously in the West than in the East. There are some defects in their rules in this matter, which can be easily remedied. The cause of many of our diseases is the condition of our lavatories and our bad habit of disposing of excreta anywhere and everywhere. I, therefore, believe in the absolute necessity of a clean place for answering the call of nature and clean articles for use at the time and have accustomed myself to them and wish that all others should do the same. The habit has become so firm in me that even if I wished to change it, I would not be able to do so. Nor do I wish to change it”
(In Navajivan on 24-5-1925)

GANDHIJI AND THE ...

Formerly, when people wanted to fight with one another, they measured between them their bodily strength; now it is possible to take away thousands of lives by one man working behind a gun from a hill. This is civilization... Formerly, men were made slaves under physical compulsion. Now they are enslaved by temptation of money and of the luxuries that money can buy...Formerly, people had two or three meals consisting of home-made bread and vegetables; now, they require something to eat every two hours so that they have hardly leisure for anything else.”

Has Gandhiji's criticism of modern civilisation not come true today? Even grudgingly one has to agree. The run is for money. Nobody wants to live in villages and undertake farming land, animals, forests and fisheries. All that youth want after some so-called education is jobs in some service. Do we understand that all production that we require to sustain our body i.e. roti, kapda and makan will be machine produced and in huge scale? The votaries of ever-growing science and technology would claim that new inventions and innovations will change the production method of material goods and humanity will be able to produce every need at home or habitation. 3D printing is often quoted for it. But have we stopped and asked where is the skill and with whom it is? While we should welcome all science and technology, as it has strengthened the sustainable survival of human species on play in social life. His account of Satyagraha in South Africa, particularly about the role the 'Phoenix sisters' and 'Tolstoy sisters' played in the first major campaign in which motivated women took equal role along with men, is moving.

7. Education in health and hygiene

Both personal hygiene and public hygiene in the rural and urban areas had been neglected aspects in India. Gandhiji laid great emphasis on educating particularly the villagers on the urgent need for developing an atmosphere of hygiene by keeping the surroundings and villages clean. The village will not remain clean unless individual houses, streets and public places are kept clean. Accumulation of garbage, congested drains, wandering dogs and pigs, swarms of flies, straying cows and buffaloes create an atmosphere of not only utter disgust but many villages in turn also become the breeding grounds of various diseases.

Provincial languages

A free nation which can boast about her several languages should encourage the various languages to develop. Gandhi held that provincial languages are the repositories of great wisdom and literature which in turn are the mirror of social life. No free country can afford to ignore the important role its languages, could play in shaping the destiny of its people.

8. National languages

A country like India, which is one if the oldest surviving civilizations in the world, should have a national language which will truly reflect the national sentiments, without prejudice to the provincial language get equal status in the cultural life and day-to-day administration, one language emerging as the national language with the consent of the majority would naturally be an index of the health of a country.

9. Economic Equality

Gandhi was very firm in his conviction, without economic equality freedom does not mean anything to the vast multitude of people in any country. The common man should not be left alone to mend himself and unless his needs for food, clothing and housing are attended to by a sovereign Republic, the talk about freedom becomes meaningless and sounds hollow. The stability of a democracy depends truly on the extent to which it cares for the common man by giving him opportunities for growth particularly, jobs and equal access to all links of the state.

10. Kisans

In a country of villages, farming naturally will be the major vocation and source of income in the rural areas. Besides this, India is an agricultural county and unfortunately the farmers who are responsible for producing the farm goods are not treated with dignity, are not provided with opportunities for proper growth etc. Because of the lack of awareness and facilities, a large number of the kisans continue to employ old implements and methods for cultivation and unless and until sustained efforts are made to uplift the kisans by offering them not only modern technology and competitive prices for their produce, the kind of revolution the country hopes for in the agricultural field, will remain a distant dream.

11. Labour

The labour in this country, as in many other developing nations, instead of keeping western models before them should develop non-violent ethics which would help them temper their general behaviour with determination and concern. Exploitation of labour is a sin which would naturally spread to the main body causing disaffection and distrust.

12. Adivasis

The tribals who are known as Adivasis are inheritors of rich culture and they should not be side-tracked in any way. They should get encouragement for development. Any attempt to exploit them in the name of progress and civilization by depriving them of their livelihood by flaunting before them concepts such as modernization will be a crime, Gandhi believed.

13. Eradication of Leprosy

Gandhi wrote, "Leper is a word of bad odour. India is perhaps a home of lepers next only to Central Africa. Yet, they are as much a part of society as the tallest among us. But the tall absorb our attention though they are least in need of it. The lot of lepers who are much in need of attention is studied neglect. I am tempted to call it heartless, which it certainly is, in terms of non-violence

14. Students

One remarkable aspect of Gandhiji, both in India and in South Africa, is the manner in which he communicated with the youth and the conviction with which they responded to his call and rallied around him as inspired agents of change. Gandhi wanted the older generation to trust the youth being given leadership roles. No doubt, Gandhi was against students dabbling in politics. He considered that this would fritter away the hard earned financial resources of their parents and also by doing so the students would be wasting their precious time. At the same time Gandhi was also against students being reduced to the status of book-worms. Once he described the students as barometers of social change but to become such barometers the student should develop the right attitude.

Many scholars found in the Constructive Programmes of Gandhi "The blue print" for a new social order where poverty, illiteracy and many similar social inequalities would become a thing of the past. Gene Sharp hailed them as the "scaffolding upon which the structure of the new society will be built." Sharp said "The constructive programme is an attempt to build the beginnings of the new social order while the old society still exists. The non-violent revolutionary which Gandhi claimed to be-thus begins to build the new even while struggling against the old.

The relevance of constructive work programme for societal transformation and empowerment of individuals appears to be greater in the emerging national and global scenario. When concerned humanity agonizingly looks for alternatives to globalization, the Gandhian vision and practice for eco-friendly, holistic and sustainable social order, which ensures justice to all, is now being recognized in several parts of the world as a revolutionary alternative to the market-driven economy and globalization. What is required perhaps is a creative and realistic adaption rather than blind imitation taking into account the realities of the emerging national and global situation.

The Swachhata Abhiyan, undoubtedly, is India's largest cleanliness drive to date with people form various walks of life such as government employees, school students, and college students from all parts of India participating in cities, towns and associated rural areas.Prime Minister Shri Modi has described the campaign "Satyagrah se Swachhagrah" in reference to Gandhi's "Champan Satyagraha" launched on 10 April 1917.The mantra the PM gave on the launching occasion is also apt: 'Na gandagi karenge, Na karne denge.'

The message of Swachhata Hi Seva: With citizens now becoming active participants in cleanliness activities across the nation and taking upon the message, Swachhata Hi Seva the dream of a 'Clean India' once seen by Mahatma Gandhi has begun to get a concrete shape.

his travels. He praised the Prime Minister for providing this impetus. The Prime Minister said that Swachh Bharat is not a movement of any Government or any Prime Minister, but an entire nation's movement.

INDIAN CUSTOMS

Numerous initiatives for

Easing Compliance

Reducing Transaction Cost

Reducing Release Time

Indian Customs has initiated various reforms for Ease of Doing Business.

- Mandatory filing of Bill of Entry within specified time has resulted in discipline among the trade and resulted in reduced release time in case of imports.
- An online paperless processing application, E-SANCHIT, allowing traders to submit all supporting documents for clearance of consignments electronically has been introduced.
- Enhanced facilitation through Risk Management System has resulted in reduced time taken for clearances.
- Authorised Economic Operator (AEO) scheme provides faster Customs clearances and simplified Customs procedures to business entities. Already more than 1405 entities (as on 31.08.2018) are getting benefits under it.
- Direct Port Delivery (DPD) allows registered importers to complete Customs clearances at the terminal itself and containers can be taken directly to factories without going to CFS.
- Direct Port Entry (DPE) allows direct entry of export cargo into port terminal without any need for going to CFS.
- E-sealing of containers has been introduced replacing earlier practice of supervised sealing by departmental officers. It has enhanced the integrity of cargo as RFID tamper-proof e-seals are being used to seal containers now.

The overall impact of above reforms in terms of time and cost associated with imports and exports can be judged from the Time Release Study (TRS) 2018 data conducted at JNCH, Mumbai as under:

- The percentage of cases of filing Advance Bill of Entries has increased to more than 58%.
- The average release time for imports has improved to 144.18 hours in 2018.
- The average release time for DPD facilitated bills of entry is 84.48 hours.
- In case of Bills of Entry for auto-components falling under Customs Tariff Heading 8708, the average release time is 91.52 hours.
- The net average export release time, arrived at by excluding the domestic transport time from the gross average export release time is 84.1 hours.

Importers and Exporters can track their documents and containers on the ICEGATE website.

- The location of container can be traced using facility "Track your Container" on www.icegate.gov.in for cargo moving to Nhava Sheva, Hazira and Mundra Ports only.
- The current status of Bill of Entry or Shipping Bill can be traced by logging into ICEGATE website.
- Already electronic tracking of Nepal bound cargo has been launched by Customs.
