TOWARDS EMPOWERMENT OF PERSONS WITH DISABILITY

Dev Nandan Kumar

The Right to Persons with Disabilities (RPD) Act, 2016 has come into force from April 2017. According to new RPD Act, the number of categories of disabilities has gone up from 7 to 21. The census figures of 2011 put the number of persons with disabilities at more than 2.68 crores. The census figures exhibit wide diversity as they include persons with Seeing, Hearing, Speech, Movement, Mental Retardation, Mental illness, Multiple Disabilities and Other. The Right to Free and Compulsory Education (RTE) Act 2010 and its amendment in 2012 is talking about 1:30 teacher and pupil ratio for all children including children with disabilities. A study conducted in the year 2009 by National Institute of Labour Economics Research and Development, an autonomous Institute under NITI Aayog, Government of India estimated the need for 1.82 lakh trained rehab professionals in the country. Thus, Disability sector offers immense opportunities for the professionals for providing rehabilitation services to the persons with disabilities and there is huge demand of trained and qualified disability rehabilitation professionals.

Accessible India Campaign

Hon'ble Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi launched the Accessible India Campaign (AIC) on December 3, 2015, for creating universal accessibility for Persons with Disabilities in Built Environment, Transport and Information & Communication Technology (ICT) ecosystem. The campaign is based on the principles of the Social Model of Disability and has the vision to build an inclusive society in which equal opportunities are provided for the growth and development of Persons with Disabilities (PwDs) so that they can lead productive, safe and dignified lives. So far, accessibility audit of 1662 buildings identified by state governments is completed and the sanction of Rs 160.53 core has been issued. Out of 709 A1, A & B category railway stations, 653 are made accessible in short term features such as (1) Provision of standard ramp; (2) Earmarking two parking lots for physically challenged; (3) Provision of non-slippery walkway from parking to Station Building; (4) Provision of signages; (5) Provision of at least one disable friendly toilet; and (6) May I help you booth. Two long-term features: platform engraving on edges - in 640 stations; trolley path facility - in 597 stations is provided. In addition to above, 917 websites of States/UTs have been identified to make it accessible and so far, 111 websites have been made accessible and work is in progress for others.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN DESIGN

Vijay Prakash Srivastava

All careers are not alike. In some careers there is not much scope to experiment and explore. Here one is expected to follow the beaten path. There is another set of careers in which one is free to experiment, explore and make maximum possible use of one's creativity. A career in design belongs to this set. Somehow people are not as much familiar with career opportunities in design as they are with opportunities in engineering, medical and management etc. However in past few years many new courses in design have come up and this field of study is drawing attention of young people. There are new design institutes as well.

We see designs everywhere. A television set has a design and so has a car. Things like television sets, cars etc. are in a particular shape and size because these have been designed like this. It is through designing, products (and services) are made more attractive and useful. When we've to make choices we go for a better and conveniently designed product. From this explanation you can gauge the importance of design in society and business.

Formal study of design starts from graduation level. The best part is that students from all disciplines like science, arts, commerce etc. are considered eligible to join Bachelor programmes in design after passing 10+2. The decision to join a course in design should be well thought out. Students should check their aptitude for such courses and gather other relevant information like the work of a designer, availability of job opportunities etc. before making up their minds.

What a Design Course covers?

In a design course you're taught basics of design, visual aesthetics, problem identification and solving problems. These topics are covered during first one or two years of a bachelor design course. The later part of the course is focussed on the particular discipline of design the candidate has chosen to study or have been included in the course. Few of the major design disciplines are mentioned below:

Interior design is about creating visual, aesthetic delight by use of design, decoration etc. at living and office spaces.

Furniture design deals with applying design to furniture items being made from wood, metal and plastic etc. to ensure comfort and convenience.

Industrial design relates to industrial set up, dividing space for machines/

WOMEN AND ECONOMIC CITIZENSHIP

IN PURSUIT OF INCLUSIVE GROWTH IN INDIA

Brinda Viswanathan & Sanjana Sharma

Kessler-Harris (2003), argues that by denying a woman her economic freedom what is denied to her is the right to exercise her citizenship and what is undermined is her ability and economic contribution. Economic citizenship can be defined as the influence that a person's economic contribution has on their rights as a citizen. This relation between economic contribution and citizenship highlights how certain sections of a society maybe represented unequally in a country. Women's primary role remains as a caregiver in Indian context and access to gainful employment has by and large been limited and is declining further. This study is to inform (a) the stylized facts of female employment in India, (b) the factors that have been shown to influence women's participation in the labour market and (c) initiatives by the government and other stakeholders to retain women in the labour market and also to arrest the decline in participation rates.

Even though this notion of economic citizenship has not gained much political acceptance but surely there is some attention that alludes to this concept. Debroy (2016) while comparing female labour force participation of India with that of Bangladesh, notes that if everything else remained the same then with a similar level of women's participation rate as Bangladesh, India's per capita income would have been far higher. It is further indicated that the PPP adjusted income for women in India is about USD 2,116 compared to USD 8,656 for men. In an earlier study it is indicated that India's GDP would have the largest gain by 2025 if parity in women's work improved (MGI, 2015). By improving the women's labour force participation by 10 percentage points, India could add USD 700 billion by 2025. If talent and human capital is allocated appropriately then its impacts GDP growth.

India is heading towards women-led development from only women development. We are discussing development under the leadership of women. Swami Vivekananda used to say, "The Idea of Perfect Womanhood is Perfect Independence." This thought of Swami ji hundred years ago is a reflection of Nari Shakti in Indian culture.

PRIME MINISTER SHRI NARENDRA MODI

per the NSSO data for 2011-12 if the sex ratio in the population is 95.7 (92.2) for rural (urban) areas then the sex ratio in the work force (15 years and above) is 43.7 (24.8) and this calls for further analysis, policy interventions and implications and observed that Delhi has the lowest rates for males and females among the metros, especially the rates for females where for the rest of the metros it is 24% in 2011-12 for Delhi it is 17%. Though, for Mumbai the rates have remained rather impacts of those policies.

According to the National Sample Survey data, it is observed that the male participation rates across rural and urban areas since 2004 have remained rather consistent at consistent reporting one of the highest participation rates for females. For the non-metro city Patna, their female participation rates remain rather low over the years, the maximum being reported at 9% in

Stylized facts of women's employment and unemployment pattern in India

1. Low rates which are further declining.

Figure 1 shows the trend in female labour force participation rate across different geographic regions focusing on the developing regions within them and comparing it with India. The already low rates are further declining and are only comparable to countries in middle-east and north Africa which seem to be moving ahead. In India as approximately 55%. In contrast the participation rates in 2004 for rural females was 33% compared to 17% for urban females, these rates drastically declined to 25% for rural more. According to the labour bureau data, 31.1% women were in the labour force in 2013-14 which declined to 24.7% is 2015-16. Across states of India, states in northern and eastern which has low rates declined further and there has not been a single state that has not lost out women from the labour market. It is

1999. Two cities stand as interesting subjects in the figure above, Agra and Ludhiana. Agra which reports 73% in 2011-12 for males and for females, 7% shows a big disparity between the rates for females and males. Similarly, Ludhiana has one of the highest Male Work Participation Rate (MWPR) with an average of 83% whereas the Female Work Participation Rate (FWPR) is a mere 12%. India has shown this decline during a period of high economic growth in the last 15 years. China also showed a decline in female labour force participation rate during its period of high growth and yet it has 60% of women in the labour force.

Note: Source is figure 6.1 in NSSO Report Page 184 (GoI, 2014) and the rates are per 1000 persons.

2. Unemployment and Under-employment⁵ Rates

The unemployment rates for women have always been higher than the men with a higher difference in urban than rural. The principal status unemployment rates for men has remained around 2-3% in rural area and about 3-4% in urban areas since 1970s while female unemployment rates have been around 3-4% in rural areas and more varying between 7-9% on urban areas. At the other end, current daily status (CDS) unemployment rates (UR) are about 6-9% but always 1-3 percentage points higher for urban than rural areas. Figure 2 shows the CDS-UR over years for men and women and at no instance female rates are lower than men. Though there has been a decline in unemployment rates for women over the years but this has resulted not in increase in participation rates but a complete withdrawal from the labour force.

The underemployment rate as per the NSSO data further informs us that a far higher proportion of women withdraw from the labour force when the shorter duration of employment (CDS) is used and less likely to report as unemployed. However, more women are available for additional work than alternative work and also report augmenting income as an important reason for seeking additional work.

The figures from IHDS-2 (2011-12) shows that when asked for preferences and reasons for wage/salaried work shows there are individual and restraints posed by other members of the household including the fact that there are many missing responses.

3. Education and FWPR

The gender gaps in education for women has been declining over time and in many instances the enrollment rates as well as attainments are higher than men. However, this does not translate to higher FWPR. Figures 2a-2d show the variations in education levels between 2001 and 2011 based on the Indian Human Development Survey data (Desai, et al, 2011). With education the FWPR has a U-shaped relationship but that sis being observed in 2011 (t2) compared to 2001 (t1) and more in urban metros followed by non-metro cities.

Equally important to note from figure 2(b) above is the usual status unemployment rate for women across any of the education categories is higher by about 2-5 percentage points in rural and urban areas in 2011-12. In rural areas the rates are as high as 17-18% among the higher secondary and diploma holders which is about 4-5% for men.

Figure 3 (a) If you found a suitable job would you be willing to work?

4. Nature of Employment: Categories and Industries

Paul and Raju (2014) show that with more widespread education among women and higher growth rate in the late 1990s and early 2000s following the economic reforms have not expanded the 'economic space' for women as it would have been expected. Northern Indian women have lower FWPR compared to southern states, more women a large FWPR in this program and its positive implications on poverty, child and own nutritional status and empowerment has been established beyond doubt.

Alongside the ICDS, the Creche schemes should be strengthened further. In these two schemes women provide the services and in turn would add to more workforce in a regional sense.

As a part of 'Make in India' and 'Digital India' the

are in the subsidiary status employment in both rural and urban areas and they predominate in agricultural sector which is also showing a decline in FWPR. Viswanathan (2017) shows the next higher FWPR is in public services where the state has large role to play followed by one segment of manufacturing industries that includes textile sector. Wage employment has shown some improvement over time contributed partly by NREGA employment. For both men and women the self-employed share is the highest in rural followed by regular wage while in urban the shares are nearly the same. With a large decline in FWPR in urban areas over the years resulted in a larger concentration of women in regular wage and salary and self-employment moving away from casual labour.

5. Determinants of FWPR

Since there has been a lot of variability in the employment rates across states and cities and over time, several academic studies, reports by consultancy firms and media have analysed reasons.

The reasons attributed to the decline in FWPR are increase in secondary school enrollment, increase in household incomes, inadequate measurement of women's participation in labour force, low growth in sectors that traditionally employ women leading to diminished opportunities for women. Das et al (2003) distinguish these as demand side issues which are structural in nature and the supply side issues which are cultural in nature where family roles and societal norms impact FWPR.

Gender Role of Caregiver: The role of caregiving and the limited time spent by men in sharing the care work is a primary factor. Thus, studies have shown that with domestic help, presence of informal support from other family members improves FWPR and that there are substantial proportion of women who are willing to work but are not allowed to work (Viswanathan and Josey, 2015). Given that a large number of women have to still take permission for making purchases, meeting their friends and relatives and what to cook also extends to this component.

Transportation: Easier and safer access to transportation would enable women to save time and empower them to be able to take on economic activities. In those rural areas, where there has been an expansion of transportation facilities by the state, it has led to an increase in women participating in non-agricultural employment (Lei, et. al , 2017) but is also contingent upon gender norms in the household and the community.

Reservation and Quotas: Reservation of 30% jobs in some states (Assam, Gujarat, Karnataka, Maharashtra and Tamilnadu) for government jobs did not seem to have had a great impact as the public sector jobs were already shrinking and private sector jobs were on the rise (Prashar 2016). On the other hand, as part of corporate governance policies all over the world, India has instituted quotas for women since 2013 and that increased presence of women in the boards and increase in their numbers affect the firm's value and performance but could be affected by the nature of control in family firms (Sarkar and Selarka, 2015).

Crime rates and Confidence in Institutions: Better responsiveness of the state to crime rates and sexual harassment, laws extending night working hours for women and incentives for women entrepreneurs (Nathan Associates, 2016). Viswanathan (2018) finds that in districts and villages where there is a higher confidence in the police and judiciary and lower reported crime, theft and robbery, female labour force participation increases the chances of participation in workforce.

Political Representation: Ghani et al (2013), observes that female political representation actually promotes female employment as well since the access to public goods like paved roads, primary health centres, banks improves and encourages women. Female leaders are more receptive to such needs and it may be a way for such representatives to increase their hold through providing a more accommodating work environment for their female constituents. It also bolsters their bargaining power in the society, which may also be encouraging to the other women in the area.

Concluding Remarks

The results from these studies inform us that on the one hand the present role of the state as a regulator and provider of appropriate services enhances female labour force participation rates while at the same time less rigid socio-cultural norms within the household and the community also strengthens the aspirations of women who would like to be seen not just as caregiver but also contribute to the household's income and meeting her personal aspirations.

Fiscal policies like taxation have not shown to have a major impact on female employment as the gains from it could not be traded-off for several costs that may be involved in it.

In the Union Budget 2018, the finance minister announced that the contribution to be made by new women to EPFO would be reduced from 12% to 8% which would increase the take home pay and thereby incentivize participation rates and perhaps retention as well.

Increase in expenditure for MGNREGA (and Aajeevika) is very useful as most studies have shown

a large FWPR in this program and its positive implications on poverty, child and own nutritional status and empowerment has been established beyond doubt.

Alongside the ICDS, the Creche schemes should be strengthened further. In these two schemes women provide the services and in turn would add to more workforce in a regional sense.

As a part of 'Make in India' and 'Digital India' the launch of online market platform for Indian women entrepreneurs with e-commerce marketplaces known as Mahila E Haat will improve market access. As per Ministry of child and development 20,000 SHGs and 2,50,000 beneficiaries have registered , the numbers need to be re-looked into after registration fees was introduced from 2017 onwards.

Central University for Disability Studies and Rehabilitation Sciences. Further, a Group of Ministers, on equal Opportunities to the Differently-abled Persons in its meeting held recently inter-alia made the recommendation pertaining to Education in relation to persons with disabilities that "Most Central Universities and, at least one State University in each State should have a Department of Disability Studies, which should address all issues relating to persons with disabilities- specially human rights, rehabilitation, education etc". Further, the University Grants Commission (UGC) is supporting universities and colleges in the country to involve in special education activities to empower Persons with Disabilities. The Higher Education for Persons with Special Needs (HEPSN) scheme is basically meant for Persons with Disabilities and also to issue unique ID card to each of them. Software has already been developed and hosted on NIC cloud. The project will also provide an online platform for issuance of disability certificate. The disability certificates issued by any authority can be authenticated through the web portal across the country. As on date, around one crore Disability Certificates have been issued across the country out of 2.68 crore PwDs identified by Census 2011. The UDID project would ensure that the Disability Certificates are issued to all PwDs. It will subsequently help in tracking of physical and financial progress of benefit delivery at all levels of hierarchy of implementation - from Village level, Block level, District level, State level and National level. It will encourage transparency, efficiency and ease of delivering the Government benefits to the persons with disability.

rehabilitation professionals. Each DDRC may have 10 to 12 full time staff members, having specified qualifications in disability rehabilitation and special education field, who are paid fixed honorarium as per prescribed norms. Staff members of DDRCs such as Clinical Psychologist, Physio-therapist/ Occupational therapist, Prosthetist & Orthotist, Speech therapist/ Audiologist, Hearing Assistant/ Junior Speech Therapist, Mobility Instructor and Multipurpose rehabilitation worker must be registered with Rehabilitation Council of India (RCI).

District Early Intervention Centre (DEIC)

The early intervention centres are to be established at the District Hospital level across the country as District Early Intervention Centres (DEIC) by the Govt. of India, Ministry of Health & Family Welfare under the Rashtriya Bal Swasthya Karyakram

What disability means

A disability is a condition or function judged to be significantly impaired relative to the usual standard of an individual of their group. The term is often used to refer to individual functioning, including physical impairment, sensory impairment, cognitive impairment, intellectual impairment, mental illness, and various types of chronic disease. This usage has been described by some disabled people as being associated with a medical model of disability.

Persons with disabilities, "the world's largest minority", have generally poorer health, lower education achievements, fewer economic opportunities and higher rates of poverty than people without disabilities. This is largely due to the lack of services available to them (like information and communications technology (ICT), justice or transportation) and the many obstacles they face in their everyday lives. These obstacles can take a variety of forms, including those relating to the physical environment, or those resulting from legislation or policy, or from societal attitudes or discrimination.

People with disabilities are at much higher risk of violence:

- ♦ Children with disabilities are almost four times more likely to experience violence than non-disabled children.
- ♦ Adults with some form or disability are 1.5 times more likely to be a victim of violence than those without a disability.
- ♦ Adults with mental health conditions are at nearly four times the risk of experiencing violence.

creating an environment at the higher education institutions to enrich higher education learning experiences of Persons with Disabilities. Creating awareness about the capabilities of Persons with Disabilities, construction aimed at improving accessibility, purchase of equipment to enrich learning, etc., are the broad categories of assistance under this scheme.

District Disability Rehabilitation Centre (DDRC)

The Govt. of India, Ministry of Social Justice & Empowerment has established total 263 District Disability Rehabilitation Centres (DDRCs) in phases manner and is in the process of establishing DDRCs across the country. The DDRCs started as outreach activity of the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment of Government of India for providing comprehensive services to the persons with disabilities at the grass root level and for facilitating creation of the infrastructure and capacity building at the district level for awareness generation, rehabilitation and training of (RBSK), National Health Mission. The purpose of DEIC is to provide referral support to children detected with health conditions during health screening, primarily for children up to 6 years of age group and management of Defects at birth, Diseases in children, Deficiency conditions and Developmental delays including Disabilities - 4D's. A team consisting of Pediatrician, Medical Officer, Staff Nurses, Physiotherapist, Audiologist & Speech Therapist, Psychologist, Optometrist, Early Interventionist cum Special Educator/Social Worker, Lab Technician and Dental Technician will be engaged to provide services.

The DEIC will be the hub of all activities, act as a clearing house and also provide referral linkages.

Teacher Training Institutes (TTI)

The Rehabilitation Council of India (RCI) was accorded a statutory status by an Act of Parliament. The Council is mandated to regulate and disability field from Certificate to M.Phil level courses. At present 60 Courses are operational through regular mode covering all the 16 categories of professionals/personnel allocated to RCI. So far, 1.26 Lakh professionals and personnel were registered in Central Rehabilitation Register

- ♦ More than 7 billion people: World Population (estimated)
- ♦ Over 1 billion people in the world have some form of disability, that's 1 in 7
- ♦ More than 100 million disabled persons are children
- ♦ Children with disabilities are almost four times more likely to experience violence than non-disabled children
- ♦ 80% of all people with disabilities live in a developing country

Across the country, approximately 745 Teacher Training Institutes and 14 State Open Universities are running RCI approved Courses in

Employment Generation

It is expected that the Accessible India Campaign (AIC) & Unique Disability Identification (UDID) Project will bring down logistics cost, impacting exports and investment. It is expected that Accessible India Campaign (AIC), Centres of Disability Sports, Deendayal Disabled Rehabilitation Scheme (DDRS), Composite Regional Centres for Persons with Disabilities (Divyangjan), District Early Intervention Centres (DEIC), District Disability Rehabilitation Centres (DDRCs), establishment of Central University & Department of Disability Studies in Universities and Unique Disability Identification (UDID) Project schemes etc will create 8 to 10 Lakh man-days job during establish-ment phase and 2 Lakh permanent jobs due to the increased economy activity triggered by it. The government expects that creating universal accessibility for Persons with Disabilities in Built Environment, Transport and Information & Communication Technology (ICT) ecosystem and UDID project will boost the economic activity. All these steps such as establishment of DEICs, DDRCs across the country and CRCs in each state will provide a positive push to the institutional infrastructure segment in the economy. Mobilizing large quantum of funds required, especially from the private sector, Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR), would be vital for the successful implementation of these projects.

scheme has also been revised to release funding directly to the State Governments/UT administration. This would not only encourage the women to participate but also in return, help the women support their families financially.

The Maternity Benefit Act, 1961 was amended in 2017 (Maternity Benefit Amendment Bill 2017) to primarily include increased paid maternity leave from 12 to 26 weeks, provide an option of 'work from home' for women after the 26 weeks and also included provision of crèche facility and leaves for mothers adopting children. The amendment also only covers the organized sector and has no provisions for women in the unorganized sector and its implications are yet to be analysed.

Pradhan Mantri MUDRA Yojana (PMMY) is a financial institute set-up by the government for providing financial support to Non-corporate small business segment(informal sector). The scheme extends a 0.25% rebate on refinance interest rates for PMMY loans to women borrowers, for encouraging female entrepreneurship. Despite the well-meaning efforts, according to a reply by the Finance Minister to the Lok Sabha in January 2018, loans to women fell to 73% in 2016-2017 compared to 79% in 2015-2016. Though the shrinkage in loans could also be reflective of the decline in female employment in India, yet the provision of the rebated loans is proof that the government is making efforts to encourage female employment. Increased awareness and easy implementation of such initiatives could help create a women-friendly economy. Field et. (2015) finds that the SEWA Bank also enhanced community network by holding an initial workshop while providing financial assistance and the impacts were better on self-employment.

Overall, what emerges is the when the policies and institutions favouring development will improve that will automatically improve female employment. Additionally behavioural issues as in the context of Swach Bharat should also be studied and paid attention to as the social norms would take lot more time to change but clearly some leverage exists in terms of community participation. Collection of time use data base not only will inform how women spend their time in social production but can also provide useful insights about how men in many families share household chores so that caregiving and breadwinning are taken as two sides of the same coin in order to improve overall well-being.

INDIAN CUSTOMS

Sustained Policy Reforms bearing fruit

Indian Customs has taken a series of measures to simplify Customs processes and procedures during the last few years.

Reforms undertaken since April, 2017

- An online paperless processing application, e-Sanchit, allowing trader to submit all supporting documents for clearance of consignments electronically has been introduced. There is no need to approach different regulatory agencies with hard copy of documents.
- Enhanced facilitation through Risk Management System has resulted in lesser time taken for clearances.
- Direct Port Delivery (DPD) allows registered importers to complete Customs clearances at the terminal itself and containers can be taken directly to factories without going to CFSs.
- Direct Port Entry (DPE) allows direct entry of export cargo into port terminal without any need for going to CFSs.
- Authorized Economic Operator (AEO) Scheme provides faster Customs clearances and simplified Customs procedures to business entities. Already more than 1700 entities are getting benefits under it.
- Mandatory filling of Bill of Entry within specified time has resulted in discipline among the trade and resulted in reduced time in case of imports.
- E-sealing of containers has been introduced replacing earlier practice of supervised sealing by departmental officers. It has enhanced the integrity of cargo as RFID tamper-proof e-seals are being used to seal containers now.

Reforms undertaken prior to April, 2017

- Single Window Interface for Facilitating Trade (SWIFT) eases the NOC issuance procedures for 6 main Governmental Agencies and allows importers & exporters, the facility to lodge their clearance documents online at only a single point.
- Only 3 mandatory documents now required for import/export which includes Bill of Lading/Airway Bill, Commercial Invoice-cum-Packing List and Shipping Bill / Bill of Entry from the earlier obligatory 10 documents.
- Based on the principle of 'Clear first-Pay later', facility of deferred payment of Customs duty is available. This helps to achieve seamless Wharf to Warehouse transit in order to facilitate just-in-time manufacturing. Currently being extended to Importers holding AEO T-2 or T-3 status.
- 24x7 Customs Clearance facility extended to goods covered by facilitated Bills of Entry and goods shipped under Free Shipping Bills at designated Seaports & Air Cargo Complexes.
- National Committee on Trade Facilitation (NCTF) is an effective deliberative and decision-making structure. With its three-tiered composition and with representatives from trade and various governmental agencies on board, NCTF helps to ease bottlenecks for faster and streamlined clearance of goods.
- Customs Clearance Facilitation Committees (CCFCs) have been set up under the chairmanship of Chief Commissioner of Customs/Commissioner of Customs. CCFCs expedite clearance of import and export goods and help resolve grievances of trade and industry at various seaports, airports, ICDs and LCSS.

The overall impact of above reforms carried out by Customs is reflected in the reduced time and cost, associated with imports and exports, which has been vindicated by recent report on Doing Business issued by the World Bank.

- At Mumbai, in case of Exports, the time taken by Customs for clearance has reduced by 34 hours to just 12 hours. And in case of imports, the reduction in time is equally impressive - from 71 hours to 24 hours.
- The time taken by Port/Border agencies has also reduced. Now the total overall clearance time in case of exports is 54 hours and in case of imports it is 102 hours (Mumbai)

Importers and Exporters can track their documents and containers on ICEGATE website.

- The location of container can be traced using facility "Track your Container" on www.icegate.gov.in for cargo moving to Nhava Sheva, Hazira and Mundra Ports only.
- The current status of Bill of Entry or Shipping Bill can be traced by logging into the ICEGATE website.
- Electronic tracking of Nepal-bound cargo has already been launched by Customs.
