COPING UP WITH THE EXAMINATION STRESS

Shree Prakash Sharma

"When it is obvious that goals cannot be reached, don't adjust the goals, adjust the action steps."-Confucius

Speak about examination and often what a student spontaneously plunges into is the imbroglia of anxieties, stress and confusion.

Have you ever imagined why some students get so much stressed and disturbed when they are to appear in an examination? In fact, the examination stress is caused due to apprehension and lack of confidence of not performing as per the expectation in a certain examination. But it has its firm roots in the lack of preparation and absence of chalking out suitable planning well in time for the examination.

The fear of examination, generally called the 'examination phobia', not only adversely affects the psychological condition of an examinee but also his academic performance and future career. However, the psychoanalysts across the world now have started believing that stress, to some extent, is not always pernicious for students; rather it works as a motivation factor that keeps on preventing them from deviation and procrastination.

We need to learn following techniques to keep stress under control-

CONSISTENT HARD WORK HAS NO SUBSTITUTE

Consistent hard work has no substitute for accomplishing any task. Passing an examination with marks and results expected is not at all different from this truth. Who can deny that hard work works like a magic wand in transforming the status of a student? It bears the miraculous power of converting poor-achievers into highly brilliant students. Diligence hones the inherent talent and unharnessed potential of a student and enables him or her to become confident to face the of examination.

The great Chinese teacher and philosopher Confucius had once said, "Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall." Despite failures galore we must keep on studying sincerely and labouring hard for achieving what we have dreamt.

Thoroughly and intensively study the subjects of syllabi and practise more consistently to retain the lessons. This ends up calming and strengthening us to cope up with the pressures of examination, if any.

SPEAKING TO PARENTS AND SEEKING THEIR GUIDANCE MAY PROVE TO BE MAGIC

Examination stress is the most common phenomenon among students and in this situation it is good to speak about your problems to your parents. Better would it also be if students talk openly about the problems with someone whom they confide in and trust most. Sharing the problems this way helps a lot to reduce the level of stresses.

The sympathetic and caring attitude of the parents and close friends may prove to be very beneficial to ease the stress which is generally the by-products of unfounded fear and misconception.

The teachers too may play vital role in allaying the fears and phobia of examination. They may guide and counsel their students to boost their confidence to substantially dispel the fear or phobia.

ASK YOURSELF WHAT MAKES YOU STRESSED

It is said prevention is better than cure. Identifying the

Vijay Prakash Srivastava

If you ask young people, not many of them are likely to tell that they want to make a career in forestry. In fact a large section of young population may not even be aware that there are courses and career options, available in forestry.

Ecological balance and environment protection are buzzwords now a days. The world is facing a number of challenges today. One of these is growing imbalances in the environment for which one reason is depleting forest resources and their unreasonable exploitation by mankind. We shouldn't forget that human society exists because forests exist. Many of humanities needs are met by forests. This can be one reason for considering importance of forests. However forests and forestry should be considered valuable for making this earth liveable. On many of the planets there are no traces of life because they lack in forests and other resources (like water) required to survive.

Forests contribute towards shelter, water, livelihood, food items and fuel etc. Forest activities directly and indirectly add to our lives. Fruits, vegetables, wood are more obvious than many products and bi-products which are used in medicines, chemicals etc. Forests work as a habitat for wildlife which is no less important than life elsewhere.

What is covered in forestry

Study of forestry focuses upon expanding forestation, rehabilitation of wastelands, enhancing forest productivity, efficient utilization of wood and non-wood forest products, development of eco- friendly products and processes and of course conservation of forests and environment.

Topics covered under a forestry course include plantation forestry, social forestry, agro-forestry, ecology, biodiversity, tree improvement, forest hydrology and watershed management, wood science and technology, forest goods and services, forest resource management, seed technology, rangeland and pasture management, economics of forestry system, regional and global climate changes, forest geo informatics, wildlife conservation and ecotourism etc.

Education

Many colleges and universities in the country offer undergraduate and postgraduate courses in forestry by way of B.Sc. (Forestry) and M.Sc. (Forestry) respectively. Most of the agricultural institutes and universities are offering these courses. To do B.Sc. (Forestry), students should've completed plus two with science subjects viz. Physics, Chemistry and Biology. At few institutes candidates may choose forestry as one of the subjects at graduation level.

For a master's degree in forestry, graduates in Science

English rendering of PM's address in 53rd episode of Mann Ki Baat on 24.02.2019

My dear countrymen, Namaskar. I begin 'Mann Ki Baat' today with a heavy heart. 10 days ago, Mother India had to bear the loss of many of her valiant sons. These brave hearts made the supreme sacrifice in securing the lives of a hundred & twenty five crore Indians. In order to ensure that their fellow countrymen could sleep peacefully, these brave sons toiled relentlessly, day or night. As a consequence of the Pulwama terror attack and the sacrifice of the brave jawans, people across the country are agonized and enraged. All around, there is a deluge of strong feelings of sympathy for the martyrs & their family members. The outrage that sings your being and mine on account of the terrorizing violence replicates itself in the collective inner psyche' of every citizen of the country; it also echoes in pro-humanity communities of the world, which sincerely believe in humanity. I respectfully bow to all the brave sons of the country, who laid down their lives, protecting the honour of their motherland, India. This martyrdom will keep inspiring us relentlessly to uproot the very base of terrorism; it will fortify our resolve. We shall have to take up this challenge facing our country, forgetting all barriers of casteism, communalism, regionalism and other difference, so that, our steps against terror are firmer, stronger and more decisive. Our armed forces have consistently displayed unparalleled courage and valour. On the one hand, they have displayed exemplary capabilities in restoring peace; on the other, they have retaliated in equal measure, in a language the attackers understand.

You must have seen how within a hundred hours of the attack, retributive action was accomplished. The Army has resolved to wipe out terrorists and their harbourers. The martyrdom of these brave soldiers brought to the fore, through the media, touching, inspiring stories of their kin, which give hope and strength to the entire country. The fortitude displayed by Ram Niranjani, father of Martyr Ratan Thakur of Bhagalpur, Bihar, in this moment of tribulation is truly inspiring. He has expressed the wish of sending his second son too, to take on the enemy; if need be, he himself would go and fight. The country salutes the indomitable courage of Meenaji, wife of Martyr Prasanna Sahu of Jagatsinghpur, Odisha. She has vowed to send her only son to join the CRPF. When the mortal remains of Martyr Vijay Soren, draped in the tricolor reached Gumla, Jharkhand, his innocent son iterated that he too would join the armed forces. The mettle of this innocent lad is a representative sample of the feelings of each & every child of the Nation today. Similar sentiments are coming to the fore in the households of our brave heart martyrs. No martyr, no family is an exception to that.

Whether it be the family of Martyr Vijay Maurya of Devariya, the parents of Martyr Tilakraj of Kangra or the six year old son of Martyr Hemraj of Kota - the story of every family of martyrs is full of inspiration. I urge the young generation to know and understand the fortitude and the sentiment displayed by these families. To understand the virtues of patriotism, sacrifice and perseverance, one doesn't need to revert to historical events. These are but living examples before your eyes... these very examples are a source of inspiration for the future of a rising & glowing India.

My dear countrymen, the rather long wait after Independence for a War Memorial is about to be over. It is natural for our countrymen to be curious about it. On the Narendra Modi App, Shri Onkar Shetty ji of Udupi, Karnataka has expressed his happiness on the completion of the National War Memorial. India not having a National War Memorial used to surprise me, pain me... a Memorial that would house the valour saga series of our brave soldiers who laid down their lives, safe guarding their nation's security. And I took a resolve that the country must have such a Memorial.

We decided to erect the National War Memorial and I am contented to see it attaining completion in so little a time. Tomorrow, that is on the 25th of February, crores of we Indians will dedicate this National Soldiers' Memorial to our Armed Forces. On part of the nation, this will be a small step towards repaying a great debt.

This new memorial has been instituted in the heart of Delhi, in close vicinity of India Gate and Amar Jawan Jyoti. I do believe that for our countrymen a visit to the National War Memorial will be akin to a pilgrimage to a holy place. The National Soldiers' Memorial is a symbol of the nation's gratitude to those men who made the supreme sacrifice after we gained Independence. The Memorial's design symbolises the indomitable courage of our immortal soldiers. The concept of the National Soldiers' Memorial is based on the notion of four concentric circles, which depicts the journey of a soldier from coming into being, culminating in his martyrdom. The flame of the Amar Chakra symbolizes the immortality of the martyred soldier. The second circle, Veerta Chakra, depicts the courage and bravery of our soldiers. It is a

Although M.Sc. -Forestry course covers inputs in management to a certain extent, a full-fledged managerial course in Forest Management can also be pursued. Indian Institute of Forest Management at Bhopal is a very well-known for its Postgraduate Diploma in Forest Management equivalent to MBA. It has also launched Postgraduate Diploma in Sustainability Management. The institute is recognised as research centre for pursuing doctoral research of the Forest Research Institute, Dehradun. Some of the organizations which have recruited candidates from this reputed institute are- The Nature Conservancy, Water Aid, World Wildlife Fund, United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), Grameen Foundation India The Energy and Research Institute, Spandana Sphoorty Financial Corporation, Swades Foundation, Technoserve, Periyaar Tiger Reserve, Microsave, Jaipur Rugs, Jeevikaa Livelihoods Support Organization, etc.

Jobs & Careers

There are different routes to approach forestry as a career. The following description about different opportunities available may be of help.

Forest Guard: To become a forest guard one should have passed 10+2. Recruitments are made at state level. For this position no special qualification in forestry or related subjects is required. Usually vacancies announced are in large numbers but so is the number of candidates as benchmark qualification is not high.

Forest Range Officers: Every state and union territory has requirements of forest range officers/rangers for which they advertise from time to time. For this position also, a formal qualification in forestry is not mandatory and generally graduates from agricultural/ science and technological background are considered eligible. However other things being equal, those with a B.Sc. (Forestry) degree may have some advantage. Selection is usually through a written test followed by interview. Only if you pass the written test, you'll be called for interview. After selection extensive training is offered. To fulfil the training needs of forest range officers and other employees of state forest departments, good infrastructure has been created. Many states have their own training establishments for the purpose, such as Forest Training Institute, Dharwad, Karnataka

Telangana State Forest Academy, Hyderabad

Gujarat Forest Rangers College, Rajpipla

Central Forest Rangers College, Chandrapur

Uttarakhand Forestry Training Academy, Haldwani

Tamilnadu Forest Academy, Coimbatore

Forest Training Institute, Jaipur

Forest Training Institute and Rangers' College, Sunder Nagar Himachal Pradesh

Other than induction training, such institutes organize refresher and performance development programmes also.

Indian Forest Service: Most of us are aware about the Civil Services examination conducted annually by Union Public Service Commission (UPSC) and the prestige associated with being finally selected in the process. UPSC also conducts other All India Services Examinations of which one is Indian Forest Service (constituted in 1966) examina-tion conducted every year. As every district in the country has a district magistrate, district/ divisional forest officers are also appointed in districts and divisions. Indian Forest Service officers are selected for filling up these positions and may reach the positions of deputy conservator of forests, conservator of forests, Chief Conservator of forests, Principal Chief Conservator of forests.

To appear in Indian Forest Service examination you should have taken at least one of the following subjects in your graduation-Physics, Chemistry , Zoology, Botany, Mathematics, Statistics, Geology, Animal Husbandry &

Veterinary Science. Graduates in Agriculture, Forestry or Engineering are also considered eligible.

The written examination is divided into two parts. The preliminary examination is conducted with Civil Services (preliminary) examination which has objective type questions. Those declared successful in the preliminary examination have to apply for Indian Forest Service (Main) examination. The number of candidates admitted to main examination will be 12 to 13 times of the vacancies.

The preliminary examination consists of 2 papers. The first paper will have questions related to current events of national and international importance, Indian and world history/geography, economic and social development, polity and governance, environment, climate change and general science. In paper II, candidate's communication skills, logical reasoning, mathematical/ analytical ability, problem solving and decision making and data interpretation skills are tested.

The main examination will have 4 papers of which 2 are common and 2 elective. Common papers will be on General English and General Knowledge. Elective papers are prescribed to assess subject knowledge in the chosen subject like Botany, Zoology, Chemistry, Engineering etc.

Based on their position in merit list, candidates in a certain ratio of available vacancies, are called for personal interview. Those finally selected are allocated cadre of a particular state/union territory, undergo a long duration induction training at Forest Research Institute, Dehradun which may followed by on the job training and then get their regular posting mostly as Divisional Forest Officer in a forest division.

Academics: For an academic career you may join an agricultural university/college where forestry and related subjects are taught. For the purpose you have to meet the requirements of Universities Grants Commission.

Research: There is ample scope of research in various disciplines of forestry. Research can be pursued at universities, forestry institutes and specialised research agencies established by government bodies. Research can be followed after postgraduation in forestry and allied subjects. Some of the research institutes are as follows-

Arid Forest Research Institute, Jodhpur

Institute of Woods Science & Technology, Bengaluru

Himalayan Forest Research

Institute, Shimla

Institute of Forest Productivity, Ranchi

Tropical Forest Research Institute, Jabalpur

Institute of Forest Genetics & Tree Breeding, Coimbatore

Advanced Research Centre for Bamboo & Rattans, Aizwal

Centre for Social Forestry & Ecological Rehabilitation, Allahabad

Forest Research Centre, Hyderabad

Centre for Forestry Resources & Human Resource Develop-ment, Chhindwada

Rain Forest Research Institute, Jorhat

Indian Plywood Training and Research Institute, Bengaluru

International organiz-ations: Forestry is a globally important issue and as such offers international career opport-unities also. Those interested may explore opportunities to work with organisations like-Food & Agricultural Organiz-ation (FAO),The International Tropical Timber Organization, Centre for International Forestry Research, Indonesia, Inter-national Union for Conservation of Nature, Switzerland, Bioversity, Italy; International Union of Forest Research Organizations, Austria; World Agroforestry Centre, Kenya and many others.

You can see forestry offers all forms of career opport-unities-scientific, administr-ative, academic and managerial. The other way to look at forestry careers may be in terms of the environmental, developmental and conservational needs. Of course requirements and way of approaching these careers may differ, as has been explained in this article.

Wildlife Sanctuaries, Paper manufacturing companies, microfinance organizations, conservation bodies, packed food manufacturing companies, wood product companies, pharmaceutical companies in public and private sector offer job opportunities to those educated in forestry.

Requirements for success

A career in forestry can be both physically and mentally demanding, depending on the work and the role you've to play. You should, in general, be physically fit with love for nature and outdoors. You've to be curious with an aptitude for conservation of natural resources. Those desirous of making an academic career will do well to become learning and research oriented.

reason of worries is the first step in the direction of taming the stress. Once the reason of worries and stress is known, only then can we overcome them fast.

For some students, lack of completion of syllabi of examination poses the great problem while for others lack of retention power of lessons learnt seems to be their Achilles' heel. Some students do suffer from the problem of understanding the topics and feel very helpless to face examination. Problems need to be fixed before solving them and preventing them from adversely affecting the mental condition of the students.

An honest assessment of one's strength and weakness is very much necessary. Do your best to improve the areas which you find problematic with the help from the professionals and experts. Faster you master these areas of lacunae the sooner will you be able to drive the fears out to finally become confident and courageous.

PLAN IS MUST, MAKE IT AND STICK TO IT RELIGIOUSLY

Chalking our suitable plans is a sine qua non of what you want to achieve in your life. A planned life is a well-spent and well-lived life. But majority of students fail to plan and that is why they do not have any knowledge of how much tasks they need to accomplish in the time to come. It also means mapping out and measuring the contours of responsibilities to be taken over a certain period.

Planning late is also not good for examination purpose because in this case students are left with less time to accomplish the tasks which lands them in trouble. A well-planned study schedule for various subjects to be covered during the academic year provides the much-required confidence to face the examination stress.

Students need to chalk out a comprehensive time plan at the outset of the session for all subjects. While planning for study, it is beneficial to emphasize more upon those subjects which are supposed to be difficult for them. Moreover, sticking to the planned study hours is also of prime importance. This habit helps utilize the available time in the best manner and for the best results.

BE CALM AND COOL

The practice of regular meditation awakens the dormant energy and brings about tremendous transformation in the mind and body. It also brings about peace of mind and comforts the body. Inner energy gets released and strengthened. Anxiety level substantially falls down.

The goal of meditation is to focus and quieten one's mind. Most importantly, meditation helps develop immense power of intuition which also substantially helps reduce the stress-related pressure and problems. This personal metamorphosis in the form of sharper mind, enhanced focus and strengthened concentration helps the students to grasp the subject matters and to stay calm and cool.

CEASE CRAMMING, TRY TO UNDERSTAND

Learning a lesson by rote does not help much in the long run because its retention period is very less. What we learn by rote evaporates very soon especially, when students need it most. And the failure to retrieve the learnt lessons at various levels of examination causes tension. However, some concepts and formulae are worth-parroting but it must not be done without keeping some clues and tips in mind.

It is always advantageous to understand the processes and clearly know the way a certain theory functions. Give time to understand the various concepts of the subjects. Learning by understanding is considered as the perfect way to master a subject.

ASSESS YOURSELF AND SET REALISTIC GOALS

Everyone dreams to achieve what he or she loves or needs most in life. But what one dreams to achieve must also be based upon the real assessment of one's capability and resources available for realizing it. Only when we do not set our goals realistically then worries arise, stress starts rearing its ugly head which leads to frustration and depression.

That is why the first task is to identify yourself, know who you are and honestly assess your own strengths and weaknesses. On the basis of these strength and weaknesses we need to set our goals for examination and which is sure to be accomplished and achieved. This eases worries and stress.

PRIORITIZE SUBJECTS

Have you ever realized that students get considerably stressed when they find the time available for examination preparation is relatively shorter than the tasks to be mastered over? In this situation, it becomes virtually difficult to go through every chapter of a particular subject. That is why students must categorize the syllabi into the chapters with very high and low weightage of marks. The chapters may also be classified on the parameter of theirs being simple, easily comprehensible and hard to master.

Besides, we also need to identify the easiest and the toughest subjects so that we could rationalize the time distribution accordingly for their preparation. The tougher subjects may be assigned relatively more time in comparison with easier ones.

DO NOT PANIC -

The whole world seems to have been shattered in view of likely failure. Nothing seems to be enjoying and interesting worth living the life. But panic response does not pay. At this crossroads of life, students need to be very rational and must stay stoic and firm.

Panicking would even aggravate the situation. So whenever you find yourself in the whirlpool of non-performance-induced-worries-induced - frustration - and- stress control your emotion and behave patiently. Always believe that however dark the path may be there is always a light at the end of the tunnel.

BE POSITIVE

Unlike success, failure makes a man cynic and pessimist. Due to this he starts doubting even himself and his own potential and everything seems to be working against him. This is a very serious problem which eats into the inherent capability of a student. Believing in your strength helps you stay motivated and ambitious. With positive bent of mind and unshakeable faith in your capability, you can accomplish any task however difficult it may be. Examination preparation is not a different art from this.

Students must have indomitable faith in their talent and keep on pushing hard for what they want to achieve. This is bound to bring about much-cherished success to the students and keep stresses at bay.

DO NOT IGNORE THE IMPORTANCE OF PRACTISING

Practice makes a man perfect. By persistently working on a certain topics and subjects, student is bound to get mastery upon them with so much ease and so soon. Sometimes, methods of practicing differ subject to subject but one common practice, irrespective of all the subjects, is to learn the things by repeatedly writing them.

Repeated writing practices make learning easier. It also increases the writing capacity. Prepare notes of the topics of all the subjects, understand them well and write them again and again to ensure that they are completely mastered and fixed in the mind.

Solving the questions given in the exercises of all the chapters can also fill a student with amazing confidence and self-esteem and this may prevent students from being vulnerable to frustration and stresses.

TAKE CARE OF WHAT YOU EAT

Good health is the sine qua non of all achievements which the human beings aspire for and chase after. It requires regular exercise, meditation and good nourishing diets.

What we eat substantially determines our physical and mental health condition. For this, one must avoid items of fast or junk food as they badly affect the digestion and immunity power of the body. Normally including green and leafy vegetables, fish and fruits in the diets goes on fulfilling the energy need of a student. This sort of balanced diet keeps the students away from variety of ailments and finally free from any mental pressure.

DO NOT FORGET FRIENDS AND FAMILY

Friends and family work as cushion in the difficult times because they support and boost us more than anyone else. But unfortunately we blunder ignoring them while chasing our goal and hankering after dreams. And that is why we are left with none to take care of ourselves. It is a very dangerous condition.

Psychologists across the world have now established that talking and sharing the problems, whether academic or personal, with the friends and family members releases the much-unwanted tension and pressures. However, one must decide very judiciously how much time a student must spend with friends lest study schedule should get disturbed.

gallery whose walls are inscribed with soldiers' tales of valour. This is followed by the Tyag Chakra. This circle stands for the sacrifice of our soldiers. This bears the names of soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice, in letters of gold. Following that is the Rakshak Chakra which depicts the spirit of security. This circle houses a row of dense trees. These trees represent soldiers and send a reassuring message to the country's citizens that our soldiers vigilantly guard borders round the clock and that they, the citizens are safe. If you take a holistic view, the National Soldiers' Memorial is sure to turn out to be a sacred site, where people will throng, to get information on our great martyrs, to express their gratitude, to conduct further research on them. This place stands testimony to a series of sacrifices of men who laid down their lives for the sake of their country, so that we could live, so that the country could be safe & secure, paving the way for development. One falls short of words in assessing the enormous contribution of our Armed Forces, Police and Para Military Forces in the strides of progress achieved by the country.

In the month of October last year, I was blessed with the opportunity to dedicate the National Police Memorial to the nation. That too echoed the same sentiment, and we believe that we should be ever grateful to those policemen & police women, who relentlessly ensure our safety & security. I do hope that you will pay a visit to the National Soldiers' Memorial and the National Police Memorial. Whenever you are there, do capture images and share them on social media so that others get inspired to come & visit this sacred site with eagerness.

My dear countrymen, for 'Mann Ki Baat', I keep getting thousands of letters and comments from your side, on various platforms. Once while I was going through your comments, I came across an interesting point by Atish Mukhopadhyayji. He has written that on the 3rd of March, 1900, the British arrested Birsa Munda, when he was just 25 years old. Coincidentally, the 3rd of March is also the birth anniversary of Jamsetji Tata. He further states that despite both personalities hailing from diverse family backgrounds, they enriched the legacy and the history of Jharkhand. Paying tributes to BirsaMunda and Jamsetji Tata is, in a way, salutation to the glorious legacy and history of Jharkhand. These two distinguished personalities brought glory & honour not just to Jharkhand, but the entire country. The country is indeed grateful for their contribution. Today, if an inspiring personality is required for ably guiding our youth, it certainly is that of Bhagwan Birsa Munda. The British tree treacherously arrested him when he was asleep, in a covert manner. Do you know why they had to resort to such a cowardly operation? Because even the British who raised a mighty empire used to be terrified of him. Bhagwan Birsa Munda took on the might of the guns & cannons of the British, using traditional bows and arrows, to shake them apart. The fact is, when people are blessed with exemplary leadership, the might of arms pales in comparison to the collective will power of the people. Bhagwan Birsa Munda not only waged a struggle against the British for political freedom; he also actively fought for the social & economic rights of the tribal folk. And he accomplished all this in his rather short life. He let sunshine peep into the darkened lives of the deprived and the oppressed. Bhagwan Birsa Munda sacrificed his life at the tender age of twenty five. Illustrious sons of Mother India, such as Birsa Munda have come into being in each & every part of the country. There must've been hardly any part of India, which did not produce someone who contributed in the long freedom struggle,that spanned centuries. But it's a misfortune that these tales of valour and sacrifice did not reach the new generations. If the valourous Bhagwan Birsa Munda made us aware of our existence & identity, far-sightedJamsetji Tata created great institutions for the country. Jamsetji Tata was a true visionary, who not only foresaw India's future, but also duly laid strong foundations. He knew very well that making India a hub of science, technology and industry was imperative for her future. It was his vision that culminated in the establishment of the Tata Institute of Science, which we know as Indian Institute of Science today. Not just that, he also established world renowned institutions and industries such as Tata Steel. On a voyage to America, Jamsetji Tata met Swami Vivekananda on the ship, and an important topic of their discussion was the outreach & spread of Science & Technology in India. It is said... this very discussion led to the founding of the Indian Institute of Science.

My dear countrymen, our former Prime Minister Morarji Desai was born on the 29th of February. All of you know that this day comes just once in four years. A simple, peace loving personality, Morarjibhai was one of the most disciplined leaders. In Independent India, the record of presenting the budget the maximum number of times is held by Morarjibhai Desai. Morarji Desai steered the course of the country through some difficult times, when the very democratic fabric of the country was under a threat. To save democracy, Morarji Desai flung himself in the movement against imposition of Emergency.For this, he had to pay a heavy price in his old age. The government of that time arrested and incarcerated him. But when the Janata Party won the general elections in 1977, he became the Prime Minister of the country. During his tenure, the 44th constitutional amendment was introduced. This was important because the 42nd amendment which was brought during the emergency, curtailed the powers of the Supreme Court and implemented provisions which stood to violate our democratic values, was struck down. The 44th amendment, made it mandatory that the proceedings of Parliament and Legislative Assemblies were made public through the newspapers. This amendment, restored certain powers of Supreme Court and declared that the fundamental rights granted under Article 20 and 21 of the Constitution could not be abrogated during the Emergency.

For the first time constitutional safeguards guaranteed that the President could only announce the emergency upon the written recommendation of the Cabinet, and that the period of emergency could not be extended more than six months at any stretch of time. In this way, Morarji Bhai ensured that the way democracy was assassinated in 1975 by imposition of emergency, could never be repeated again in the future. The upcoming generations of our nation will always remember his priceless contribution in maintaining the sanctity of Indian democracy. Once again I pay my homage to a great leader like him.

My beloved countrymen, this year too, there was a great buzz about the Padma award. Today as we head towards a new India, in which we want to honour those who are doing their work at the grass-root level without any care for a reward. They, by their diligence, are powering positive changes in the lives of others in myriad ways. In reality they are true 'Karmyogis,' who are selflessly engaged in public service, social service and, above all, in the service to the nation. You must have been a witness yourself to the curiosity in the air when the Padma awards are announced, and people are inquisitive about the awardees. In a way, I consider this to be a huge pat on the back because these are people who are not on the front page of a Magazine or Newspaper or on our TV screens. They are far removed from the world of glitter and glare, and are people who do not care about name or fame but simply believe in toiling at the proletarian level.

They believe in living in the manner as preached by the shloka of Srimadbhagvad Gita 'Yoga: Karmasu Kaushalam', or excellence in action is yoga. I would like to tell you about some of these people. You must have heard about Odisha's Daitari Nayak, who is not nicknamed the 'Canal Man of Odisha' for nothing, Daitari Nayak chiselled through the mountain literally with his hands and carved a three kilometers long canal in his village, and put to rest forever the problem of irrigation and water by the sheer dint of his labour. Take the case of Abdul Ghafoor Khatri of Gujarat, who has done an amazing job of reviving the traditional Rogan painting form of Kutch. He is doing a great job of extending this rare painting art form to the present generation. I had gifted a Rogan painting titled 'Tree of Life' done by Abdul Gafoor, to the former President of USA, Mr. Barack Obama.

Among the recipients of the Padma award, Shabbir Sayyed of Marathwada is known as the servant of Gau-Mata. The manner he has spent his entire life in the service of Gau-mata, is unique in itself. Madurai Chinna Pillai is the same person who at first tried to empower the downtrodden and the exploited through the Kalanjiyam movement in Tamil Nadu and initiated community based microfinancing. America's Tao Porchon-Lynch will leave you astounded, Lynch has become a living institution of yoga today. Even at the age of 100, she is training yoga to people from all over the world and till now has trained 1500 as yoga teachers. Jamuna Tudu, famous nicknamed 'Lady Tarzan' in Jharkhand, most valiantly took on the Timber Mafia and Naxalites, and not only saved the 50 hectares of forest but also inspired ten thousand women to unite and protect the trees and wildlife. It is a tribute to Jamunaji's diligence that today, on the birth of every child, villagers plant 18 trees. Also, 10 trees are planted on the marriage of a girl in the village.

The story of Muktaben Pankaj kumar Dagali of Gujarat will fill you with inspiration despite being a divyang herself, it is difficult to find an example than what Muktaben did for the upliftment of divyang women by establishing the institution named Chakshu Mahila Sevakunj, through the medium of which she has been engaged in a virtuous endeavour to make visually challenged children self-reliant. The story of 'Kisan Chachi', i.e. 'Farmer Aunty' of Muzaffarpur in Bihar, or Rajkumari Devi is very inspiring. She has established a precedent in the direction of women empowerment and farming. Rajkumari Devi added 300 women of her area to a 'Self Help Group' and motivated the entire lot become financially self-reliant. She not only trained the women of the village in pursuing other gainful means of employment, but most importantly she integrated technology with agriculture and my dear countrymen, it has perhaps happened for the first time, that in the roll of Padma awards bestowed this year, 12 farmers have been the recipients. Generally, very few people associated with the agricultural world or those very few who can be labeled as real farmers have ever found their name in the list of Padmashree awards. This in itself presents the live and vibrant image of a changing India.

My dear countrymen, today I wish to narrate a heart rending experience with you which I've been wanting to do past few days. At present, whenever I'm touring, it is my sincere effort to meet people beneficiaries of 'PMJAY' scheme under Ayushman Bharat's umbrella. 'PMJAY' means to some of the beneficiaries, like the single mother whose unable to set her small children treated due to lack of money or the head of the family who was sustaining his family by the sweat of his brow and met with an accident and was unable to work, he too has benefitted due to this scheme, regained his health and is virtually living a new life!

Brothers and Sisters, about 12 lakh impoverished families have benefitted from this scheme over a period of last five months. I have found that it brings about a transformation in the life of the have-nots. If you know a poor person who is unable to procure treatment due to lack of money, do inform him about this scheme. In fact this scheme is meant for the benefit of such underprivileged people.

My dear countrymen, exam time in schools throughout the nation is soon going to dawn upon us. In the next few weeks various education boards across the country will initiate the process for the board examinations of the tenth and twelfth standards. My best wishes to all the students who're going to appear for their examinations, their parents and all the teachers as well.

SECRETS OF EXAM PREPARATION

- A balanced and planned examination preparation works as an antidote to the examination stress. Following are some time-tested tips for the better preparation of the examination which, if religiously and determinedly adhered to, can substantially help decrease the stress level -
- ** They say that if you fail to plan then it means you plan to fail. Hence planning to achieve your target is very essential. Pre-planning and strictly following it is what we may call the gateway to success.
  - ** Be familiar with entire material and syllabi of the course.
  - ** Prepare notes, summarize and highlight important points so that they become more easy to use when needed most.
  - ** Focus on understanding the material. Cramming wouldn't prove more beneficial in the long run.
  - **Browse through the chapters to get their central ideas. Read a paragraph, fold the book, close your eyes and ask yourself what you have learnt from the reading. This process would help you to concentrate, learn and retain better while you go through a certain chapter.
  - ** One can discuss the topics or the lessons with his friends and share the knowledge.
  - ** Visualize what one has read. Visualizing is making the picture of ideas in one's mind. It helps get the subject matter fixed permanently in the mind.
  - ** While sitting for the study, try not to let your mind wander. Try to focus on your study with hundred percent concentration.
  - ** Everyone has his or her own way of revising or studying routine. Find out which one suits you the best - morning or late at night, without music or with music. Do not try to blindly follow the routine of others. This would only discourage you and dampen your enthusiasm.
  - ** Always plan well in advance to prepare for the examination.
  - ** Have a realistic goal. Your goal must be based upon self-assessment of your capabilities, resources and interest. Do not fix your target having been influenced by the pressure from parents, teachers or peers.
  - ** Include breaks or intervals between your study hours. Doing this will keep you recharging for longer hours of study.
  - ** Do not feel shy to ask help from the teacher, tutor, parents or the people around you whom you trust most.
  - ** Take break to talk or have fun with your friends or do the works that you enjoy most. This would favourably condition your mood for the longer and focused study period.
  - ** Avoid watching television. It wastes time more than anything else. If watching television is so essential, you must fix time for it and religiously stick to it.

** Stay confident and do never underestimate yourself. For this avoid the company of the negative-thinking- people.

And what about the day of the examination?

The day of examination is a very big day and for some also the day of confusion, worries and fear. So, first you must be confident and courageous to dispel the fears of examination.

On the day of examination a student must keep in his or mind the following essential things -

- Start early for the venue of examination lest you should get delayed due to traffic jam or reasons beyond your control.

- Carry the admit card or hall tickets and other writing paraphernalia, extra pens of very high quality, a scale, pencils with a very good sharpener and an eraser with yourself.

- Read the instructions of the question paper carefully.

- Get help from your invigilators to correctly fill the entries on the answer books. Do not make any incorrect entries on the front page of answer sheets. Even if you have committed any mistake fear not, request your invigilator and he or she will do the needful to correct it.

- Go through the questions very carefully before answering them.

- Leave the questions which you find very difficult and come to them later when the time permits.

- First answer those questions the answers of which you know the best. However, writing the answers in sequence is considered as the best practice. But it is not a rule and you can choose answering the question as per your choice.

- Keep a few minutes in reserve to revise your answers at the last moment.

- Mention the question numbers very legibly and encircle them on the answer sheets.

- Keep gap between the answers of the questions. You must avoid overlapping your answers.

- Draw a line at the end of an answer before you start answering another question.

- Do not repeat nor spread the answers of the same questions on various pages of

A few weeks ago, an immense event entitled 'Pariksha Pe Charcha' was organised in Delhi in the format of a Town Hall programme. In this Town Hall programme, I had the opportunity to talk with crores of students from India and abroad, and also with their parents and teachers; a possibility through the aegis of technology. One of the focal points of 'ParikshaPeCharcha' was that there were lively interactions on various topics related with the entire process of examinations. There are many such aspects which emerged out of these discussions which are definitely going to be beneficial for the students. All the students, their teachers and parents can watch the recording of this entire event on YouTube, and I take this opportunity to wish all the best to all my'exam warriors', for their upcoming examinations.

My dear countrymen, no mention of India can be complete without citing its festivals. It is just not possible that a day passes without any significance associated with it, or does not herald a festival! Our culture has a continuum spread over many millennia and it is a part of our heritage. In a few days from now, Mahashivratri will be celebrated, and that too on a Monday, and when a Shivratri falls on a Monday, it becomes all that special in our heart of our hearts! I extend felicitations on this pious occasion of Mahashivratri to you all.

My dear countrymen, some days ago I went to Kashi and there I got a chance to spend time with my divyang brothers and sisters. Many topics were discussed in their company and their confidence was really striking -it was inspiring. During the conversation with one of them, a visually challenged young man, and he mentioned that he happened to be a stage artist, and specialized in mimicry during entertainment programs, so just like that I asked him as to who all he could imitate! And he told me that he could mimic the Prime Minister. So I requested a demonstration and a pleasant surprise was in store for me. He mimicked the very exact way I converse with you during 'Mann Ki Baat'. I was very happy to hear that people not only listen to 'Mann Ki Baat' but also remember it on many occasions. I was really impressed with the prowess of that divyang young man.

My dear countrymen, connecting with all of you, courtesy the 'Mann Ki Baat' program has been a really wonderful experience for me. Through radio I connect every month with millions of families. Many times while conversing with you, reading your letters or listening to your thoughts sent on the phone, I feel that you have adopted me as part of your family. This has been a very sublime experience for me.

Friends, elections are the biggest celebration of democracy. In the next two months, we will be busy in the hurly-burly of the general elections. I myself will also be a candidate during this election. In maintaining respect for healthy democratic traditions, the next episode of 'Mann Ki Baat' will be broadcast on the last Sunday of the month of May. This means I shall take up our thoughts and ideas accumulated over the three months of March, April & entire May after the Elections, with confidence anew. With the power of your blessings, once again I shall begin this series of conversations through 'Mann Ki Baat'... and shall keep doing 'Mann Ki Baat' with you for years. Once again, I thank all of you from the core of my heart.

your answer book. Examiners are smart and intelligent and this would irritate them. Last but not the least Examination stress - it is merely a state of mind, fight it bravely

The great Tibetan spiritual leader Dalai Lama once had said, "Remember that sometimes not getting what you want is a wonderful stroke of luck." It has a great philosophy of life. It is so solacing and inspiring for the students who fall vulnerable to vortex of worries and stresses after having failed to get the expected results. Life does not cease to exist and all paths of career do not get blocked if you fail to achieve the much-dreamed marks in the examination. Life is the greatest gift offered by the Almighty God and we can make it worth living any time as per our choice.

The psychoanalysts say that examination stress is just a state of mind. With low self-esteem and shattered self-confidence, the examination stress goes on mounting with the speed never seen before. So, mould the mind and bring about change in the life style and philosophies of life - you would never be under stresses, worries would never haunt you and pressure would not ever trouble you.
