INDIA'S AVIATION SECTOR REACHING OUT TO NEW HORIZONS

INTERVIEW

India's Civil Aviation market is witnessing a fundamental change with the passenger traffic expected to double in the next few years. India has become the third largest domestic aviation market in the world. Speaking at a curtain raiser event on 'Wings India, 2022', Civil Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia said that India presently handles the third largest domestic traffic after the US and China. Through the Ude Desh ka Aam Naagrik (UDAN) - RCS (Regional Connectivity Scheme), Tier II and Tier III cities have been included in the aviation map, enabling passengers from these areas to avail flight services as well as assisting businesses to flourish. However, the fact that flight services penetration is only about 9-10 percent of the country's total population indicates that the potential for further growth and expansion is humongous. Speaking with Bhupendra Singh of All India

Radio for Employment News, Union Minister for Civil Aviation, Shri Jyotiraditya Madhavrao Scindia said that his ministry now aspires to lend a further push to regional connectivity by launching the Small Aircraft Scheme under which smaller aircrafts which include up to 19-20 seaters and helicopters will provide last mile connectivity. Outlining the ministry's target for the coming years, the Minister informed that there are going to be lakhs of employment opportunities in the drones sector and the MRO (Maintenance, Repair and Overhaul) domain as many global aircraft manufacturers have expressed interest in setting up MRO units in India.

Question: UDAN (Ude Desh ka Aam Naagrik) has been your Ministry's hallmark of success. How many new air routes have been operationalised so far under this scheme and how many more are in the offing?

Shri Jyotiraditya M Scindia: UDAN is an extremely ambitious programme to increase connectivity and penetration to the last mile in India. Currently in India, we have 144 million discrete flyers which indicate the penetration of around 9 to 10 per cent of our total population. It was the Prime Minister Narendra Modi's dream and his Sankalp that we must democratize the air travel. Therefore, UDAN is a huge leap forward towards that goal. UDAN is a scheme that was started in 2016. As on date, we have close to about 419 operational routes through UDAN which never existed before. We have close to 66 airports that have been established. Airports, Water-dromes and Heliports have been established through UDAN in areas which were never on the Civil Aviation map prior to this scheme. Through this scheme, we have had about close to

TACKLING NEET - UG HOW TO DEAL WITH CHEMISTRY

Prateek Singh

As far as NEET-UG is concerned, preparing for Chemistry section is comparatively easier. Unlike Botany and Zoology, Chemistry does not require a lot of memorization nor does it require lot of problem solving skills and numerical abilities as in Physics section.

Chemistry consists of three major sections: Organic Chemistry, Inorganic Chemistry and Physical Chemistry. We will look at the strategy for each these domains in detail.

Question Pattern

The Chemistry portion consists of 50 questions which are split into two sections: Section A and Section B. Section A comprises 35 questions in which each question has to be attempted and Section B comprises 15 questions out of which 10 questions have to be attempted. +4 marks will be awarded for each correct answer and -1 mark will be awarded for each wrong attempt. 0 marks will be awarded for a question which is unattempted. The maximum marks for the Chemistry section is 180. If you wish to get into a decent Government Medical College, then you should score at least 150 marks in Chemistry; and believe me, it is not much of a mammoth task to achieve.

Of late, the trend of scoring 180 out of 180 is catching up among NEET toppers. It is possible if you just stick to the basics; focus majorly on the NCERT textbooks, achieve command over the previous years' questions and you would have solved a large variety of questions to boost your preparation.

Weight Carried by Each Section/Chapter

If we are to go by recent trends, an equal number of questions are asked from each of the Physical, Organic and Inorganic Chemistry sections. So it is important that you focus on each of these sections and you must have the necessary skills to solve the questions. Always remember that in order to succeed in a competitive exam you are required to have just enough skills to be able to solve the questions and arrive at the correct answer without being the master of the subject. In Chemistry since there are so many exceptions of rules and one cannot have a command over all the concepts, so you must know how to deduce the correct answer by following your instincts and that can be achieved if you solve a lot of questions.

INDIA'S AVIATION SECTOR REACHING ...

1,80,000 flights till date that have been operated and close to 95 lakh common people have travelled by air because of this scheme. That is a revolution that UDAN has brought for the common man in our country. The idea of UDAN was born from the concept of execution and fruition through the scheme and now we are not stopping at this. Now we are starting the Small Aircraft Scheme which will look at up to 20 seater aircraft which will provide that last mile connectivity through smaller aircraft, Cessna Caravan, Beechcraft, sea planes and helicopters. We have close to 7500 kilometers coastline in our country. There are many smaller countries and states that have provided connectivity through sea planes, so we are looking at the Small Aircraft Scheme which we have been put in place along with UDAN 4.2. The bids are out. We are hopeful to put in place about 100 sea plane routes, of the roughly 350 routes, we have put into that bidding round. I am hopeful that we will see the emergence of many more routes in sea planes through this new Small Aircraft Scheme. It is a monumental change in the way Civil Aviation has operated because Civil Aviation has always concentrated on international - domestic- larger metro domestic- large metro domestic. But we are now looking at Tier 1- Tier 2 - Tier 3 cities while increasing that connectivity. There are many stories that are worth mentioning, such as the stories of Darbhanga, Jharsuguda, Rupsi, Kishanganj where travel to air was inconceivable. In the last five years, we have had a range of about 30,000 passengers to almost 5,00,000 passengers from the small cities that were never on the air navigation map prior to this scheme.

Question: India aims to lend a further boost to its exports through the One District, One Product scheme. Do you see UDAN-RCS playing a major role in facilitating exports by non-coastal districts?

Shri Jyotiraditya M Scindia: Absolutely! We believe that a part of UDAN -RCS is also the very ambitious Krishi Udan 2.0 where we have brought about convergence between eight ministries that will provide a further impetus to agriculture and other products of the districts. Where it has a comparative advantage is that in case of perishable goods and therefore, those being transported not only from one district to the other, but also from one state to the rest of the world. For example, Assamese Lemons are being transported today to London. Jackfruit from Tripura is being transported all the way to Germany and to London. And we are confident that through this even pisciculture, fisheries sector will be able to transport their produce much quicker to other parts of the country and to other parts of the world.

Question: To cater to the rising air traffic, there is a renewed push for setting up new airports and expanding the current ones. Kindly share some details about the new airports that are likely to be operationalised in the next two-three years.

Shri Jyotiraditya M Scindia: We were at a 144 million discrete travelers in 2019 before the pandemic hit us. This year, we closed to roughly about a 100 million discrete travelers. I see that going up to 200 million discrete travelers by as early as year 2025-26. In the last year after coming out of a very terrible pandemic year, we went up by around 72%. Our CAGR (Compounded Annual Growth Rate) prior to that has been between 10.6% to 15 percent. So, India is one of the fastest growing aviation-led countries in the world today. So, having said that, there has to be an increased level of focus on both developing infrastructure, increasing the fleet size as well as putting in place the ecosystem of civil aviation. As far as developing infrastructure is concerned, I am pleased to inform you that the country which had only 74 airports until 2014, under Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi's very alert eyes and his commitment and direction to the civil aviation department, we have built close to about 67 airports/ water-dromes/heliports in the last eight years. Therefore, we have 141 airports/water-dromes/ heliports all over the country today from 74 only eight years ago. That is the story from the past to present. Now comes the story from the present to the future. I am looking at a target of 220 airports/waterdromes/ heliports by the year 2025. So, we are looking at increasing today's number by almost 50% in the next 4-5 years. Immediately, our expansion plans are the following: -

- Under the Airports Authority of India (AAI), we are looking at spending around Rs 20,000 crores in 42 Brownfield projects that include expansion of terminals, expansion of runways, etc.
- Almost about Rs 5000-6000 crores in three new airports - Holongi, Dhullera and Hirasar.
- As far as the private sector is concerned, we are looking at an investment of close to about Rs 40000 crores in their current 7 Brownfield airports.
- We are looking setting up four new Greenfield airports at roughly another Rs 20000-30000 crores. Those four are Bhogapuram, Mopagaoa, Navi Mumbai and Jhewar. So, all in all, we are looking at a total capacity expansion and capex figure of close to Rs 98000 crores over the next three years.
- We are also looking at construction of 7 Greenfield airports between the government and the private sector

- Expansion plans of 49 airports in the next three-four years.

What will be the result? Delhi currently services around 70 million passengers throughput at the airport today. The expansion in Delhi will take it up to a 100 million. So we will be at the level of New York, JFK, Chicago, or Atlanta - the largest airports in the world. Mumbai today is at 60 million. Navi Mumbai will put in place an added capacity of 30-40 million to start with. Both Bangalore and Hyderabad are between 15-20 million today which will go to roughly about 40 million each in the next one year. So, you are looking at a capacity of roughly 160 million passenger throughput today going to above 300 million in the next two years or so. So, that is the geometric progression of scale we are looking at in the civil aviation sector.

QUESTION: Your ministry has given a new lease of life to the drone industry. What kind of skill development and employment opportunities are we looking at in this sector?

Shri Jyotiraditya M Scindia: After the Drone Policy has been introduced, we have already put in place almost 15 DGCA certified drone schools. A person need to be only 12th standard pass to be able to apply and go through a drone pilot training course which will take about one and a half to two months. As soon as applicant gets the certificate from the drone school, they will be eligible for a job which will earn him/her an income of almost Rs 30000 per month. I see that as a huge employment multiplier in India because as I see, we will need atleast 100,000 drone pilots in next two to three years because the applications of drones are tremendous both on the manufacturing side and the services side. I see this is a huge opportunity as an industry which has only 60 crore turnover today. We have put in place a PLI (Production Linked Incentives) scheme which guarantees Rs 120 crore in terms of pure incentives only - double the turnover of today's industry. I see this growing from an investment point of view to close to 5000 crore in the next two to three years. Employment of almost 10,000 direct jobs in this area. The second most important aspect is the services part of drones. That services industry, I see that as almost close to a 500,000 employment generator and close to about Rs 10000-15000 crore industry in the days to come. We have 12 ministries of the Government of India that are employing and deploying drones as we speak, therefore, creating the demand. Drones or any new industry requires three legs to be able to stand on- (i) market friendly policy, which we have brought about in the form of the New Drone Policy we launched last August. (ii) Incentives Schemes- within one month of the policy we brought in the PLI Scheme for Drones. (iii) Creation of Demand - we have done this through 12 line ministries of the Government of India using drones as per the Prime Minister's directive. Let me also underline and say this is only because of the Prime Minister that we are today seeing drones at the forefront of the new scalable opportunity and his dream is that India must not be a follower but a leader and we have pledged to ensure that India becomes a global drone hub by the year 2030 as per his directions. The Prime Minister has brought about complete transformation in the way we look at opportunities and make sure we that translate them for India as a huge employment multiplier and an economic force.

Question: Just a few weeks ago, IndiGo became the first airline in the country to land aircraft using the indigenous navigation system GAGAN. What stage of implementation is GAGAN at?

Shri Jyotiraditya M Scindia: First of all, you need to understand the concept of GAGAN to start with. It is important for all of us and our consumers also to understand this. What happens when you start increasing connectivity is that there is a certain amount of congestion that takes place. That congestion results in tremendous amount of traffic in mainly the metro areas and the unserved airports as well which puts pressure on the air navigation systems known as ANS and the air traffic management system known as ATM. At the end of the day, the ANS and ATM are critical, and I must emphasize, critical, in ensuring the safety factor of flying aircrafts. Therefore, the computerized satellite system which is GAGAN, which is known as WAAS (Wide Area Augmentation System) internationally, becomes a complement, not a substitute, to the ANS and ATM to be able to navigate aircrafts. It's a new technology through which, without human interference, you'll have safe piloting and guiding of aircraft down to landing. This has only been done in the western world so far. Therefore, it is only the innovation capability of our scientists and our engineers that has made it possible in India. Therefore, the first safe landing has taken place, as you mentioned by an Indigo Aircraft in a tier-2 airport and we are confident in building this up. It is part of the system that we are monitoring. Now that we have got proof of concept, we need to put in place all the safety parameters before we roll it out on an incremental basis. But suffice to say that our eyes are on this and we will make this a reality in India in the coming days as the penetration goes up more and more in terms of air travel.

Question: In becoming an MRO (Maintenance, Repair and Overhaul) hub, how does India stand to benefit?

Shri Jyotiraditya M Scindia: Today, the MRO industry in India is about $2 billion. 85% of this work is done outside India and therefore the domestic industry accounts for only 15 percent of the business. We had a fleet capacity of 400 aircraft in 2014, that even accounting for the COVID period, has grown to a fleet of about 715 aircraft today. We are adding close to about 120 aircraft in fleet size on an annual basis. Therefore, now is the time through these large numbers of aircrafts that are being established in India that companies look at setting up their MRO facilities in India. We already have many domestic MRO that are set up, many companies that are doing close to their 15-20% part of their business but I would like the OEMs (Original Equipment Manufacturers) to come into India. Therefore, even on my visit to the US, that is something that I have tried to push and urge companies to set up MROs in India. There are many companies that are seriously looking at India. Companies like Boeing, Airbus, Pratt and Whitney, SAFRAN are already looking at India and I would urge many more companies to look and India. This can become the base for reverse engineering, that is servicing engines for the rest of Asia, for the rest of the globe out of India because we are geographically also well placed. Which is why I have also recast the MRO policy. The earlier MRO policy was extremely regulatory heavy and rent seeking in its nature. We have completely redone the MRO policy. Royalty has been completely done away with. Rents have been normalized to regular levels. Very clear clauses have been put in terms of renewal and therefore we have made it much more market friendly in order to attract companies.

In a major push towards deep technology and driving the country to become a digitally transformed nation, Atal Innovation Mission (AIM), NITI Aayog on March 31, 2021 launched AIM-PRIME, an initiative to promote and support science-based deep-tech start-ups & ventures across India. The nationwide AIM-PRIME program culminated on May 10, 2022 with the release of the AIM-PRIME Playbook. Before getting into what the playbook is all about, let us first understand what AIM-PRIME program entailed.

AIM-PRIME program

The AIM PRIME (Program for Researchers in Innovation, Market Readiness and Entrepreneurship) program was aimed at promoting early-stage science-based, deep technology ideas to market through training and guidance over a period of 12 months using a blended learning curriculum. In this regard, AIM joined hands with Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation (BMGF) to launch this nationwide program which was implemented by Venture Center - a non-profit technology business incubator.

Deep technology is an outcome of very intense research and development (R&D) with high knowledge content. Consequently, the entrepreneurial journey emphasizes different aspects and requires a different approach to navigating the de-risking process and bringing such ideas to market.

The first cohort of the program invited technology developers (early-stage deep tech start-ups, and scientists/engineers/ clinicians) with strong science-based deep tech business ideas. The program was also open to CEOs and senior incubation managers of AIM-funded Atal Incubation Centers that are supporting deep tech entrepreneurs. The first cohort consisted of science-based startups, faculty entrepreneurs and incubator managers, where they worked on progressing their idea by teaming up with an incubator. The cohort included 40 organizations and 64 participants, representing 23 different cities across 7 states. The cohort represented a wide variety of science-based sectors, including industrial automation, IoT, electronics, robotics, energy and environment, health and rehabilitation, and food, nutrition and agriculture. Over 17 national and international faculty members were on-boarded as part of the program, who have collectively spent more than 640 hours on mentoring.

They were also provided access to a deep tech startup playbook, curated video library, and plenty of peer-to-peer learning opportunities. The AIM-PRIME program is specifically tailored for the rapid scaling up of deep-tech science ventures in India, providing not just the necessary intellect and support but also the exposure they rightly deserve.

The benefits of this program aimed to address specific issues through training and guidance over a period of 12 months. Candidates selected for the program got access to in-depth learning via a comprehensive lecture series, live team projects, exercises, and project-specific mentoring. Candidates got an opportunity to learn from global experts on various topics relating to innovation and entrepreneurship. They also got the opportunity to work with an interdisciplinary team to actively bring an idea to market, get access to the mentor panel to accelerate their projects, access to exclusive toolkits compiled in a resource for commercializing deep technology ideas and additional access to insights and lectures from various industry experts from around the globe. The candidates also had the opportunity for Peer-to-Peer learning and network with and learn from other experienced startup founders and innovation managers.

Mr. Suman Bery, Vice-Chair of NITI Aayog, opines, "Startups represent an important part of the economy that shape the future industries of the world and thus can shape the jobs, products and economy of the future. Science-based startups are particularly exciting due to their potential for delivering large scale social impact (like for example, via vaccines, drugs, diagnostics, climate change resistant crops, carbon capture technologies etc) but also providing India the opportunity to leap-frog into the future and position itself as a leading innovation-led country of the world. Programs like AIM PRIME can nurture vehicles that can attract capital into high risk-reward pursuits - something that can be important for achieving higher growth rates in the country."

Other program benefits include the PRIME Playbook, a guide for science-based entrepreneurs and ventures, the PRIME Library, a curated resource shared by the faculty and expert mentors associated with the program, and the PRIME Videos, an open-access video collection of the lectures delivered as part of the PRIME Classroom.

What is AIM-PRIME playbook?

AIM-PRIME Playbook aims to be a comprehensive resource for academic researchers, entre-different stakeholders, and create an umbrella structure to oversee the innovation & entrepreneurship ecosystem of the country.

The Atal Innovation Mission has following two core functions:

- 1. Entrepreneurship promotion through Self-Employment and Talent Utilization, wherein innovators would be supported and mentored to become successful entrepreneurs.
- 2. Innovation promotion: to provide a platform where innovative ideas are generated.

AIM has multiple programs to encourage and support innovation in the country.

Atal Tinkering Labs

To promote creative, innovative mindset in schools. At the school level, AIM is setting up state of the art Atal Tinkering Labs (ATL) across all districts across the country. These ATLs are dedicated innovation workspaces of 1000-1500 square feet where do-it-yourself (DIY) kits on latest technologies like 3D Printers, Robotics, Internet of Things (IoT), Miniaturized electronics are installed using a grant of Rs 20 Lakhs from the government so that students from Grade VI to Grade XII can tinker with these technologies and learn to create innovative solutions using these technologies. This will enable create a problem solving, innovative mindset within millions of students across the country.

Atal Incubation Centres

Promoting entrepreneurship in universities and industry. At the university, NGO, SME and Corporate industry levels, AIM is setting up world-class Atal Incubation Centres (AICs) that would trigger and enable successful growth of sustainable startups in every sector /state of the country, thereby promoting entrepreneurs and job creators in the country addressing both commercial and social entrepreneurship opportunities in India and applicable globally. AIM is also providing scale up support to existing incubators for scaling up their operations.

Atal Community Innovation Centres

To promote the benefits of technology led innovation to the unserved/underserved regions of India including Tier 2, Tier 3 cities, aspirational districts, tribal, hilly and coastal areas, AIM is setting up Atal Community Innovation Centres with a unique partnership driven model wherein AIM would grant upto Rs preneurs and incubators involved in building science-based enterprises from lab to-market.

What is Atal Innovation Mission?

The Atal Innovation Mission (AIM) is a flagship initiative set up by the NITI Aayog in 2016 to promote innovation and entrepreneurship across the length and breadth of the country. AIM aims to create and promote a culture of innovation and entrepreneurship across the length and breadth of our country. AIM's objective is to develop new programmes and policies for fostering innovation in different sectors of the economy, provide platforms and collaboration opportunities for

How to Prepare for Physical Chemistry?

In general, if we talk about Physical Chemistry then it is somewhat similar to Physics. There are few concepts in each chapter and a lot of practice is required to be able to solve the numericals asked from this section. Before starting your preparation of Physical Chemistry, you must understand that there are a few chapters which needs to be prepared first as these are the chapters that form the basis of the concepts that are explained later in the text book.

So you should start your preparation by first focusing well on 'Some Basic Concepts of Chemistry' i.e. Mole Concept which consist of topics like Molarity, Normality, Formality and Mole Fraction as these topics form the core for the chapters like Equilibrium, Solutions and Electro Chemistry.

The high yielding topics in Physical Chemistry are chapters like Thermodynamics and Equilibrium and these two chapters are also considered among the toughest of all in Physical Chemistry. However, though these chapters are relatively tougher than other chapters, but luckily in the NEET examination, the questions asked are relatively easy. You just need to understand the concepts and focus more on practising simple and basic conceptual questions.

The strategy you can follow for Physical Chemistry is that you should write down all the examples, important charts and formulae of each chapter in 2-3 pages and should revise them regularly.

For solving the questions you should first solve all the examples given in your NCERT textbook. You should not be wasting your time in solving the questions given at the end of each chapter of the NCERT textbook for Physical Chemistry as these questions are quite lengthy and subjective which is not the format of NEET. Instead, you can solve questions from any NCERT based MCQ book available in the market. After that, solve the previous years' NEET questions (2015 onwards). If you wish to boost your score even further, then you can solve the questions asked in the JEE Mains examination in the recent 3-4 years.

How to Prepare for Inorganic Chemistry?

Inorganic Chemistry is the most versatile subject in the Chemistry portion because there are a lot of exceptions to the concepts and principles. So this subject requires a lot of memorization of facts. There are two approaches to learn Inorganic Chemistry. The first one is that you start from the basics and have a thorough understanding of all the concepts and fundamentals of Inorganic Chemistry and also learn the major concepts involved wherever there is an exception. This is a very time consuming approach. But if you don't have much time left for the NEET exam, you can follow the second approach which I am giving below.

The second approach to learn Inorganic Chemistry is to focus more on memorization rather than learning the concepts involved behind each and every topic. This may not sound a very convincing way of learning but in the small time frame it's the best possible way. Start off your preparation by first learning the chapters 'Periodic Properties' and 'Chemical Bonding'. These two chapters form the basis of the entire Inorganic Chemistry and are also high yielding chapters. After this for the Block Chemistry portion, you can use your immense memorization power for learning all the facts (since you all opted Biology and you are going to be doctors you have to be very good at memorizing facts). Coordination Compounds is a very important chapter and it yields up to 4 to 5 questions so it must be mastered.

Some Pro Tips:

- Make a list of all the important orders mentioned in your NCERT textbook like Atomic radius, Ionic radius, ionization energy, boiling point order, melting point order, acidic strength order, basic strength order and so on and so forth. Focus more on the questions asked in previous year NEET and JEE Mains examinations.
- Draw all the organic and inorganic structures of your NCERT textbook at one place. It will help you in determining the Oxidation States as well as many other properties like acidic and basic strengths of these compounds.
- Collect all the compounds which have an exceptional Oxidation State due to an unconventional structure such as where peroxide bond is involved like CrO_5 and Br_3O_8 . Questions can be directly asked about their Oxidation States.
- For solving questions, follow the same strategy as for Physical Chemistry.

How to Prepare For Organic Chemistry?

Organic Chemistry is the Chemistry of all the compounds involving carbon and it is also known as the Chemistry of Life or Vital Chemistry. You should start your preparation with the chapter General Organic Chemistry. This chapter forms the foundation for the entire Organic Chemistry.

An interesting fact about Organic Chemistry is that it could be very easy for some students while for some others it could be a nightmare. The reason behind this is that those students who are good at GOC (General Organic Chemistry) find it very easy to solve all the other problems of Organic Chemistry while those who are weak in GOC are weak in the entire subject as well.

So first focus on the General Organic Chemistry portion with special emphasis on the topics like Inductive Effect, Resonance, Mesomeric Effect and Hyperconjugation and understand the real concepts involved behind these topics. Also you should have the basic knowledge about nomenclature of organic compounds, Isomerism in organic compound and Qualitative and Quantitative analysis of organic compounds. GOC is a very important chapter for NEET examination as it will fetch you 4 to 5 questions directly and many other questions indirectly.

Then you should focus on the chapter Hydrocarbons as it will yield you 3 to 4 questions.

The four very small chapters of Organic Chemistry: Environmental Chemistry, Biomolecules, Polymers and Chemistry in Everyday Life will give you one question from each of this chapter and question from these chapters are a cakewalk. So prepare them just from your NCERT textbook and you are good to go.

For practicing questions in Organic Chemistry, first you should start off by doing intext questions of NCERT as well as the question given at the end of each chapter of NCERT textbook. Secondly you should be doing the NCERT exemplar and for more questions follow any NCERT based MCQ book. Solve the previous year questions of NEET as well as the JEE Mains examination.

While solving the Chemistry portion you should always keep in mind that the questions asked will not take you much time in solving and often students commit very silly mistakes which could have easily been avoided if they would have been a little more careful and attentive while solving the questions.

Have patience while solving the questions and read the given options in the question very properly. As far as time management is concerned, you should be able to solve the Chemistry portion in 50 minutes to 1 hour time or it may depend on your preparation and strategy as to how you are approaching the examination. Follow all the above-mentioned tricks and strategies and have confidence in your preparation.

New India: Constructive Realism, Humanitarian Approach

K V Priya

The seventh edition of the prestigious Raisina Dialogue began on April 25 with Prime Minister Narendra Modi inaugurating it in the presence of distinguished foreign dignitaries.

India's premier conference on geopolitics and geo-economics, committed to addressing the most challenging issues facing the global community, was attended by over 200 speakers across the globe.

Ursula von der Leyen, the European Union (EU) Commission President, the chief guest, graced the occasion with her address.

The who's who of the world leadership, touring India for the annual foreign policy conference, included former Prime Minister of Sweden Carl Bildt, former PM of Canada Stephen Harper, former President of Maldives Mohamed Nasheed and former Australian PM Anthony Abbott.

In addition, Foreign Ministers of Argentina, Armenia, Australia, Guyana, Nigeria, Norway, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Madagascar, Netherlands, Philippines, Poland, Portugal, and Slovenia also attended the conference.

The conference is a joint venture of the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) and the independent think tank, Observer Research Foundation (ORF).

Raisina Dialogue 2022, as it was called this year, was held, as it has been since 2016, in New Delhi after a gap of two years due to the corona virus pandemic. In 2021, it was held virtually with delegates around the world. The theme for 2022 was "Terranova: Impassioned, Impatient, and Imperilled".

Why the name Raisina Dialogue?

The Raisina Dialogue is on the lines of the Shangri-La Dialogue held at regular intervals in Singapore and derives its name from the Raisina Hills, an elevation in New Delhi, which is the seat of the Government of India, as well as the Rashtrapati Bhavan.

A New Dawn: While India has always been an active participant at global forums, with the bold initiative of Dialogue - also referred to as the Raisina Samvad - at the behest of dynamic Prime Minister Narendra Modi beginning in 2016, it has helped Indian diplomacy leave its imprimatur on global politics. It also signals the stellar role India seeks to play, equipping itself to face the emerging political, economic, environmental, security, and technological disruptions that threaten everyday life.

As a country of one billion-plus people, India cannot remain a mere passive observer in global forums. Instead, Raisina Dialogue is one of the initiatives with which the country aims to expand its influence on the emerging complexities of global dynamics across different sectors.

The Raisina Dialogue is an indicator of a paradigm shift away from traditional centres of power to emerging economies. As an emerging economy, India just does not want to be a mute part of the global conversation but lead the way ahead, given its size and contribution to the world's economy.

Raisina Samvad or dialogue is one of the several initiatives as an intrinsic part of PM Modi's new doctrine that puts 'India First'-drive reform and transform for the security and prosperity of Indians.

PM Modi's New doctrine

By focussing on emerging challenges, leading the way forward and by providing solutions, PM Modi's new doctrine also encompasses India's millennia-old innate globalism and the practice of 'Vaasudhaiva Kutumbakam' (the entire world is our family). This is best exemplified by how India took the lead in supplying Covid-19 vaccine to different parts of the world.

Last year addressing the sixth edition of Raisina Dialogue virtually, Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi said that the mistakes and misdeeds of the past seven decades need not constrain our thinking for the future. "We must think of the entire humanity and not merely of those who are on our side of the borders. Humanity must be at the centre of our thinking and action," he said, expostulating on the theme of the world as a family.

This is a concrete example of how India is being prepared by the dynamic Prime Minister to play a leadership role on various issues of interest to the international community and humanity at large. In other words, India is shifting its gear from 'rule-taker' to 'rule-maker'.

Reflecting India's ambitious global aspirations and staking its claim as a global player, the Raisina Dialogue is also rewriting the traditional north-south economic and political divide.

Success: The success of the global multi-stakeholder policy forum can be attributed to multiple factors. First, India is the second-largest country in the world in terms of population; second, the rapid growth of the Indian economy in the new millennium; third, the reforms being undertaken by successive governments and accelerated in the Modi era; and fourth, the rapidly increasing globalisation of Indian economy (trade now contributes nearly 40 per cent of India's GDP). Because of this India can ill-afford to ignore external developments as it is more susceptible to them than ever before.

The potential of global engagement is deepening every year with the collaboration between the government and private think tanks.

This is well-attested by the fact that Raisina Dialogue is a strategy by the Modi government to recalibrate that discourse and discard the traditional bureaucratic pretence that the government knows best. This comes out well when we see the wide-ranging issues that have been brainstormed and the question that has been raised by the leaders.

Previous Summits: Keeping in view this dictum, all the Raisina Dialogues so far have brain-stormed issues of geopolitics and geoeconomics.

When the first Raisina Dialogue was held in 2016, over 100 speakers from over 35 countries attended to speak on the theme, "Asia: Regional and Global Connectivity". In 2017, over 120 speakers from 65 countries discussed "The New Normal: Multilateralism with Multipolarity".

The third edition in 2018 dealt with "Managing Disruptive Transitions: Ideas, Institutions and Idioms". The theme for the conference in 2019 was "New Geometrics, Fluid Partnerships, Uncertain Outcomes".

The theme in 2020 was "Navigating the Alpha Centuries". In 2021, the conference was hosted in a hybrid format. The theme was "Viral World: Outbreaks, Outliers and Out of Control".

Held physically after a gap of two years due to the pandemic, the theme of the Raisina Dialogue was: "Terranova: Impassioned, Impatient, and Imperilled". Spilling over 100 sessions with around 210 speakers from 90 countries and multilateral organisations, the Dialogue was a roaring success.

Raisina Dialogue 2022

The three-day international conference took place in the lengthening shadow of global events. "The world battled to recover from the devastation caused to lives and livelihoods by a once-in-a-century pandemic, it was struck by two bolts that came from out of the blue. The first saw a dark veil descend yet again over Afghanistan; the second has just redrawn the iron curtain through the heart of Europe" observed ORF Chairman Sunjoy Joshi.

"Together, these three events force us to examine the political undergirding of a rapidly de-globalising world. The cracks in the post-war multilateral liberal system have now become tectonic rifts. If history has taught us anything, it is that such a confluence of event-chains can alter power dynamics and reshape the world order," he added.

Commenting on the theme of Raisina Dialogue 2022, India's External Affairs Minister Dr S Jaishankar pointed out that big ideas will define the emerging global realities. "Considerable turbulence is evident in many parts of the globe. The need for constructive conversations and encouraging diverse opinions along multiple tracks has never been more. In this discourse, we aim to map the evolving geopolitical and geo-economic trend-lines, question prevalent dogmas about the international system, and encourage future-oriented thinking."

Shaping the Geopolitical Puzzle

The current stalemate involving Ukraine and Russia in Europe is teetering on the edge of a global disaster and is being predicted by analysts of morphing into the Third World War. Already global supplies of many commodities from the region are affected. While the Western allies led by the USA are supporting Ukraine, China has openly sided with Moscow. Now both sides are approaching India in the ongoing stalemate.

As a rising global power, India is trying to engage with the world with its identity and interest. The conflict in Europe is such an instance.

Asked about India's role in the current geopolitical scenario, Jaishankar noted: "This idea that others define us, that we need to get approvals from other quarters, I think that's an era we need to put behind".

On the Ukrainian crisis, he asserted India has not taken any side, but its own. "The idea to get approval for our own decisions, we should get back to that era," Jaishankar said.

Compared to India's public support of the erstwhile Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan in the late 1970s, India's current stakes are high across geographies and sectors. This is one reason why India has remained neutral and realistic, not willing to take sides.

Question: May 11th is marked as National Technology Day in India. The day is not just for scientists and engineers but also for anyone associated with ideating, innovating, and facilitating the dissemination of knowledge, information and taking the products or benefits to people at the grassroots level. Which everyday technology do you feel has revolutionised our lives?

Suriyansh Maurya
Lucknow

May 11 being celebrated as the National Technology Day provides a wonderful opportunity to look into the various technological advancements which have revolutionised our lives. The prominent among them is Smartphone technology. The introduction of smartphones in our life has brought a phenomenal change in how we deal with various activities in life. Firstly, it has expanded the scope of hassle-free communication through the likes of e-mail and video calling facilities which weren't present in initial mobile phones. Secondly, the platform which it provides for internet usage has dramatically influenced several needs of the people. Now people are able to browse the internet for various uses such as news, educational purposes, entertainment, business and marketing, etc. Thirdly, the development of innovative mobile applications (apps) has also diversified its usage and opened up new avenues for engagement with the lives of people. Taking into consideration the emerging opportunities which this technology provides for facilitating and promoting good governance, the Government of India has initiated promotion and creation of various digital services, easily accessible on smartphone, to engage people with its various welfare measures. Apps like Co-win, e-Sanjivani, Kheti guru, Voter helpline, UIDAI, & Aarogya Setu have clearly exemplified the great potential which these applications possess to facilitate public services. However, a cautionary note with regard to this technology assumes significance. The cases of cyber attacks, online frauds, data compromise and opinion manipulation are some key issues which need to be addressed.

Consequent upon the Computerisation process of Banking since '90s, Integration of all banks' ATMs, Introduction of Cash Deposit Machines and Cash Recyclers have reduced the usage of cheque books considerably. Besides, this has resulted in reduction of Cheque Return cases in the Courts of Law. Due to integration of all banks' ATMs, customers can withdraw cash from anywhere across the country at any point of time, irrespective of the location of Home Branch, working hours and holidays of the branch etc. subject to the limits prescribed by bank / RBI. Customers can also conduct other transactions, viz., balance verification, mini statement, funds transfer, cheque book request etc., to name a few. Moreover, ATMs are multi-language compliant and even blind people can transact through Talking ATMs. By envisaging the business potential of ATMs, private enterprises have also set up ATMs, linked with specific banks, through MoU. These third-party contractors would collect cash from the premises of high-volume cash-sensitive entities during day time and refill them in the ATMs deployed by the respective banks within the prescribed time limit, preferably on the same day. This has resulted in reduction of Currency Chests, maintained by banks, on behalf of RBI. Cash Deposit Machines or Cash Recyclers are used for depositing cash at any point of time, subject to the maximum limit prescribed by banks / RBI. These machines are normally deployed in markets and business locations. This enables the customers to deposit cash in their bank accounts irrespective of time and location without waiting for the opening of branch on the next working day. However, these machines are few in number, as compared to ATMs. Penetration of over 2,00,000 ATMs over length and breadth of the country has resulted in employment generation as well due to deployment of Security Guards in the ATM premises, except airports. Besides, cash refilling in the ATMs is done by private third-party deployed people and not by the banks' staff.

New India: Constructive Realism ...

Which is why given its historic relationship and trade partnership, Russia found it hard to ignore India's demand for the creation of a humanitarian corridor to evacuate its civilians. Russia heeded India's demands and helped repatriate about 22,500 citizens. It is important to mention here that about a quarter of Ukraine's international students are Indians.

Wide Appreciation

This realism underlying India's diplomatic and logistical response to the crisis was appreciated by one and all.

Since 2014, India has been balancing itself on the tightrope of Indian diplomacy while navigating global hegemony with the US-led West on one side, and Russia and China in two different directions that seek to expand their influence and interest.

Another instance of this realpolitik is how India maintains its ever-increasing trade ties with China while strengthening its ties with the island nation of Taiwan, achieving in the process, a magnificent balance.

In 2021, India's trade with China surpassed the $100 billion mark for the first time to reach $125 billion, driven by demand for electronic products, chemicals, and auto components. India's imports accounted for the bulk of the trade, reaching $97.5 billion, while exports crossed $20 billion for the first time.

Besides, India's neutrality in the current stalemate in Europe will act as a catalyst for Russia to act as a moderating influence on China's nefarious expansionist designs on Indian borders.

Amid the Ukraine-Russia conflict, the US imposed sanctions on Russia. It is feared that it will disrupt Russia's defence supplies to India. It is significant that 85% of India's imports were from just three countries: Russia (46%), France (27%), and USA (12%). However, punitive sanctions imposed on Russia by the USA and its North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO) allies, including France, for its invasion of Ukraine had created a dilemma for India and accounted for it repeatedly abstaining from voting against Moscow in the United Nations General Assembly over its militarism.

Ignorance Exposed: European Commission's President Ursula von der Leyen in her address to the Raisina Dialogue stressed that Europe believed in the 'rule of law and fundamental rights' pointing out that democracy in Europe was 2000-year-old while now India was its largest home. It is well documented that democratic republics existed in India from the 6th Century BC to 400 AD, much before it found its moorings in Europe, as claimed by Ursula.

Besides Ursula other European leaders such as Norway's Foreign Minister, Anniken Huitfeldt spoke of brutal killings and bombings by Russian forces. In short, they questioned India's role in defending free societies.

No more a pale imitator: India did well to turn the tables. It asserted how Europe's invocation of global unity in protecting the rules-based order in the wake of the Russian invasion in Ukraine is selective. Jaishankar wondered why there was no outrage and rule-based order not applied when there was turbulence in Afghanistan?

"When the rules-based order was under challenge in Asia, the advice we got from Europe was to do more trade. At least we're not giving you that advice. In terms of Afghanistan, please show me which part of the rules-based order justified what the world did there," he noted testily.

Similarly, European powers did not react when India was attacked by China at the Line of Actual Control (LAC) or when Pakistan was supporting terrorists not only in India but also in Afghanistan.

His observations came while fielding questions from visiting global counterparts during the Raisina Dialogue.

On pressure being mounted by the western nations for New Delhi to toe Europe's line in sanctioning Moscow, Jaishankar said- we don't behave as a 'pale imitator' of other nations and are also not bound by the approvals of other quarters or forces, unleashing a full-blooded, picture of New India to the world.

Global Perception: All this proves that India can and will tilt towards itself. This is also being realised by many of those who attended the Raisina Dialogue, 2022.

Stephen Harper, Former Prime Minister of Canada, who was present, said that the Indian government is creating the nation's own identity vis-à-vis China. "India is defining itself and its definition is changing according to its economic transformation, global trade, support in medical issues and its nature of being a free and democratic society," he observed. "As China rises as a disruptive power, India pushes itself to play a greater role," Harper added.

The Raisina Dialogue also brought to the fore the number of actors in the world who are brimming with optimism and confidence to collaborate with India.

Velina Tchakarova, Director of the Vienna based think tank- Austrian Institute for European, and Security Policy added that Europe's perception of India has changed 'gradually positive' over the years. "There is an understanding that we need to do more with India on bilateral and multilateral terms. Amidst the new bipolar tussle between America and China, there can be a third way for Europe and for India to play a role. Both can build their own centre of trading power," Tchakarova added, emphasizing the need to sign the bilateral free trade agreement (FTA) between India and Europe as early as possible.

Sessions: Over 100 sessions spread over three days during the global summit kept leaders, policymakers and experts engaged in intellectually stimulating conversations on the emerging challenges in different sectors.

A session titled, 'The Battle Against Vaccine Apartheid', discussed steps to bridge the vaccine divide. How can nations be incentivised to urgently invest in vaccinating the underserved geographies? Is it time to rethink investments into global health care systems? What could be the contours of a new global health agenda at the G20? Considering the two-year-long battle against the pandemic, these questions are timely and will decide the course of action ahead.

Another session was on the manipulation of information being marshalled by state and non-state actors as a weapon of war. As lines between fact and fiction blur, information warfare is set to be the 21st century's most devastating and consequential digital battleground. How can states and corporations limit the harms of online disinformation wars fuelled by bots? Without endangering free speech, how can they address the social divisions and subversion engendered by manipulated content?

Two other interesting sessions in geopolitics were the attack on multilateralism and how the UN has failed to respond to multiple crises while the other was China after the Ukraine conflict.

On the last day, two other sessions on gendered governance focused on how women are reshaping our thinking on power, politics, and peace. It also discussed the feminist foreign policy. Another session titled, Women Leadership and Sustainable Development Goals focussed on how woman leadership be enhanced across the political sphere, boardrooms, and financial systems?

The Raisina Dialogue is just the beginning of how India can be a new thought leader and pave the way for the present and future not only for India but for the welfare of entire humanity.

The share of self-employed workers also happens to be the highest in the lowest income categories. The country's unemployment rate is 4.8% (2019-20), and the worker population ratio is 46.8%. In the area of health infrastructure, there has been a considerable improvement in increasing the infrastructural capacity with a targeted focus on rural areas. Besides, the amended policy also provides for adding new members to the National Biofuel Coordination Committee (NBCC) and grant permission for the export of biofuels in specific cases. The amendments will pave the way for 'Make in India' drive thereby leading to a reduction in import of petroleum products through the generation of more biofuels.
