

Horticulture Exports Bearing Fruit the Indian Way

K V Priya

India's horticultural production, which stood at 286 million tonnes (MT) in 2015-16, was logged at 334.60 MT in 2020-21. This whopping increase has helped the country push up its fruit exports by a big margin to more geographical areas in the world, thanks to the APEDA (Agricultural and Processed Food Products Export Development Authority) and the Central Government.

Horticultural production is blossoming across India - quite literally. What is even more important is that, Indian fruit exports, thanks to enhanced production, are making their presence felt in different geographies of the world, bringing in good tidings for all stakeholders. A look at the trajectory of horticulture exports, buffeted by robust production, tells it all. India's horticultural production in 2015-16 stood at 286 million tonnes (MT); in 2016-17 it was 300 MT, in 2017-18, production was pegged at 307 MT, going up to 314 MT in 2018-19. By 2019-20, horticulture output had reached 320 MT and in 2020-21, India witnessed the highest ever horticulture produce of 334.60 MT.

India retains its position as the second largest producer of fruits and vegetables, globally. Currently, Indian horticulture produce is exported to over 70 countries; primary among them are nations in the Middle East, Southeast and South Asia, the UK, EU member states and the US. By country, India's top three export destinations are UAE (16 percent), Bangladesh (13 percent) and Netherlands (9 percent). More recently exports to African countries have also gone up.

Horticulture Accounts for 33% of Agriculture GVA

According to the National Horticulture Board, Indian horticulture sector contributes about 33% to the agriculture Gross Value Added (GVA), making a very sizeable contribution to the Indian economy. Apart from ensuring the nation's nutritional security, it provides alternate rural employment opportunities, diversification in farm activities, and enhanced income to farmers. No surprise then that for more than eight years, India's horticulture production has continuously outpaced its food grain production. Unlike the Green Revolution, which is limited to a few states such as Haryana, Punjab, and Western Uttar Pradesh, the horticultural revolution is blooming across the Indian landscape, from Kashmir to Kanyakumari. Millions of farmers in India have adopted horticulture, many of them inclined to switch from cereal-based crops to horticulture crops.

Horticulture harvests are cash crops and have two to three production cycles. Good quality fresh produce gets premium price in the domestic market. Vegetables are short duration crops that are mostly grown on small patches of land by marginal farmers, often in less than an acre of land. As farm holdings become increasingly fragmented, production of vegetables ensures quick returns to farmers, compared to traditional crops like rice, wheat, or pulses. Also, wheat and rice require more water, being inherently monsoon-dependent, as compared to horticulture crops.

Make Your Career Soar High with Air Sports

Ranjana Singh

India aspires to become one of the top nations hosting air sports by the year 2030, as envisioned in the National Air Sports Policy 2022 (NASP) unveiled in June this year. The policy aims to create an ecosystem conducive for safe, affordable, accessible, enjoyable and sustainable air sports leisure pursuits and competitions in India. Launching the policy, Union Minister for Civil Aviation, Shri Jyotiraditya Scindia, said, "From a small market size of around 5,000 odd air sports practitioners creating around Rs 80-100 crore of annual revenue in India, I feel we can target over Rs 8,000 - Rs 10,000 crore annual revenue and generate over 1,00,000 direct jobs. The economic multiplier benefits in terms of travel, tourism, support services and local infrastructure development will be over three times."

Though activities like paragliding and hot air ballooning are already operational in different parts of India, the NASP explicitly spells out the following sporting and adventure activities that will be promoted and regulated (to be revised as and when required).

- Aerobatics
- Aero-modelling and model rocketry
- Amateur-built and experimental aircraft
- Ballooning
- Drones
- Gliding and powered gliding
- Hang gliding and powered hang gliding

- Parachuting (including skydiving, BASE1 jumping and wingsuits etc.)
- Paragliding and paramotoring (including powered parachute trikes etc.)
- Powered aircraft (including ultralight, microlight and light sports aircraft etc.); and
- Rotorcraft (including autogyro).

Scope of Air Sports in India

Air sports are particularly popular in Europe followed by North America and Australia. During peak winters, the level of air sports activity reduces in Europe and enthusiasts move to other countries. India has a large geographical expanse, diverse topography, fair-weather conditions, large population of employable youth, topped with a growing culture for adventure sports and aviation. Therefore, India can bank upon the opportunity to host the migratory air sports professionals, many of whom are high-spending tourists too. The ASFI (Air Sports Federation of India) and the regional air sports associations have been tasked with developing a hassle-free process to enable the movement to air

Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel and National Unity

Dr. Ashwin Parijat Anshu

The emergence of India as a modern nation ready to take its rightful place in the world is a story of men and women who were willing to live their lives, not for the fulfilment of their personal desires - religious or otherwise, but who were willing to embrace the needs of a vast humanity with all the complexity it posed. Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, the Iron Man of India, was one of the finest representatives of such makers of modern India. He was Gandhi's trusted lieutenant who carried his ideas into action through his leadership qualities, a man of action whose vision of a unified India became the bedrock on which the independent nation emerged and continues to grow.

A Faithful Follower

If Gandhi could present such a powerful challenge to the British hegemony knocking off the conception of the superiority of the Europeans from Indian minds, it was due in no small part, to the backing of such faithful followers like Sardar Patel who responded to his calls like a soldier responding to his general. Referring to his decision to answer Gandhi's call for help to carry out the Kheda Satyagraha of 1918, Sardar Patel recalled in 1938, "When I joined Gandhiji, I collected some firewood, lit a fire and put all considerations of my family, my career, my reputation and everything into the fire. I do not know what would be left of all these except the ashes." To appreciate the significance of this sacrifice of one's worldly dreams, one needs to consider that at that time Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel was one of the foremost criminal lawyers in Ahmedabad, widely respected for his sharp mind and sense of honour. At the conclusion of the Kheda Satyagraha, in a speech before peasants, Gandhi acknowledged Vallabhbhai to be his 'deputy commander' and said, "If it were not for his assistance, this campaign could not have been carried through so successfully." Gandhi had given Patel his mission of life, "living with him convinced me that India's salvation lay only in treading the path shown by him."

The Making of a Mass Leader

The years following the withdrawal of the Non-Cooperation Movement had seen a palpable demoralisation spread among all sections of people and even worse the rise of communal divisions in society. Some were disillusioned with Gandhi's leadership whereas some others found communist and socialist ideologies more appealing. There were divisions emerging within the Congress among the 'pro-changers' and the 'no-changers' and the spectre of a split loomed large. It was in these years that the 'Sardar', the leader of masses with supreme ability to weave a spirit of harmony among all came into his own.

In these critical years, Sardar Patel not only sought to prevent the morale of the anti-colonial struggle from flagging but also to prevent divisions strengthening within the Congress and the society at large. The three Satyagraha campaigns in Nagpur (1923), Borsad (1923) and above all Bardoli (1928) not only won important victories for the rights of the peasants and the nationalist public weakening the British hegemony but also sought to include different sections of society into a united struggle against the Raj. Thus in 1922, at the instance of Sardar Patel, the Kathiawad Political Congress called for the eradication of untouchability. Understanding fully well that many traditionalist Patidars would not be very favourable to the cause, he a proud Patidar himself set an example by seating himself in the enclosure designated for the untouchables.

An episode in the Bardoli struggle, where Sardar Patel's organisational abilities shone with dazzling brilliance shows how much he cared for Hindu-Muslim unity. He prevented a group of very agitated Patidars from taking revenge on a Muslim liquor vendor who had attacked a picketing satyagrahi by making them accept a public apology from the guilty vendor which resolved the issue amicably. Earlier too, while supporting Gandhiji's Khilafat agitation in 1920 to express solidarity with Indian Muslim sentiments, he had said: "It has been a heart-breaking episode for the Indian Muslims and how can Hindus stand unaffected when they see their fellow countrymen thus in distress."

Patel was not prepared to see Hindus and Muslims drift away from each other. He was much pained by the partition of India which he accepted as an inevitable fact only in the face of Muslim League intransigence, the unworkability of the Cabinet

Mission Plan, the prospect of a civil war and the looming threat of the balkanisation of India if a united India had a weakened Centre. In the Constituent Assembly, as Chairman of the Advisory Committee on Minorities and Fundamental Rights, Patel inspired confidence and with skilful manoeuvring, he scotched the subtle move claiming separate representation for Muslims.

The Master of Statecraft

Undoubtedly, Patel's greatest contribution that has etched his place in Indian history forever was the integration of around 565 disparate princely states of different shapes and sizes within the Union of India. President Rajendra Prasad, paying tribute to Sardar Patel wrote in 1952: "That there is an India to think and talk about is very largely due to Sardar Patel's statesmanship and firm administration". The former President of India, K.R. Narayanan said in a speech on August 14, 1998: "If Nehru laid the foundations of modern India building up its economic, industrial and scientific infrastructure and trying to forge the emotional unity of India, Sardar Patel transformed India into a Union out of the patchwork quilt of Provinces and Princely States. He could be called the Bismarck of India; who unified the nation not by "blood and iron", but merely by his iron will and astute statecraft."

Winston Churchill, the thorough imperialist that he was, never took kindly to the prospect of a united India, a prospect that seemed very real after Britain was severely weakened as a result of the World War-II. He had confided to Wavell who was a likeminded imperialist his idea of breaking India into Hindustan, Pakistan and a "Princes-stan" - a plan to balkanise India into many disparate units and thus to weaken it forever. When Clement Atlee announced on 20th February 1947 that 'His Majesty's Government do not intend to hand over their powers and obligations under paramountcy to any government of British India', rulers of several states claimed that they would become independent from 15 August 1947 when British rule ended!

Patel was much alive to the threat posed by the claims of the princely states, and assuming the charge of the newly created States' Department told V.P. Menon that, "the situation held dangerous potentialities and that if we did not handle it promptly and effectively, our hard-earned freedom might disappear through the States' door." Patel's persuasive diplomacy, firmness and astute statecraft ensured that most of the states acceded to India by 15th August 1947. When the Dewan of Travancore, Sir C.P. Ramaswamy Iyer, held out the argument that no one could negotiate a merger of the State with India as Travancore was ruled in the name and on behalf of the tutelary deity, Sri Padmanabha, the Sardar snapped with a twinkle in his eye "Is that so? Then please tell me how could Travancore's rulers allow Lord Padmanabha to become subservient to the British Crown?" K.R. Narayanan, recalled in the speech referred to above.

In the case of Junagadh and Hyderabad the aspect of the 'lauhporush' (Iron Man) in Sardar Patel was in full exhibit. He neutralised Pakistan's claim over Junagadh by holding a plebiscite while in Hyderabad, the Indian Army was sent and the Nizam was made to accept Indian accession on 16th September 1948 after all other means had been frustrated by its ruler.

The Creation of All India Services

Many Indian leaders had been apprehensive of wielding of administrative authority by an All-India Civil Service given their experience of the British rule which was practically maintained by the ICS (Indian Civil Service) officers. But Sardar Patel had the foresight to conceive an All

India Civil Services endowed with full constitutional protection that would act as the 'Steel Frame of India' as indeed it has proved itself to be subsequently. Asking the Constituent Assembly to look at the All-India Civil Services as an asset rather than a hindrance to the Indian nation he said on 10th October 1949, "The Union will go, you will not have a united India, if you have not a good All-India Service". While addressing the very first batch of the IAS (Indian Administrative Service) on 21st April 1947, Sardar Patel reminded that the former ICS was neither Indian, nor civil nor imbued with any sense of service. As against this he advised the new recruits, "Your predecessors were brought up in the traditions in which they ... kept themselves aloof from the common run of the people. It will be your bounden duty to treat the common men in India as your own."

John Strachey, a British Civil Servant had said in 1888 that "the first and most important thing to learn about India is that there is not and never was an India". Under the leadership and vision of Sardar Patel, the All India Services ensured that not only India survived the critical years following Independence when faced with formidable challenges but also developed as a modern democratic nation. As the grateful nation celebrates the 147th birth anniversary of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel this year (31st October), it honours this great 'Son of the Soil' ever again.

sports professionals and enthusiasts to India. This will enable Indian air sports enthusiasts and governing bodies to learn from the experience of the visiting professionals, get exposed to global best practices, thereby learning ways and means to create opportunities of hosting recreational adventure activities as well as global competitions in India.

Entrepreneurial Opportunities

Air Sports Equipment Market: According to Technavio's "Air Sports Equipment Market by Product, Application, and Geography - Forecast and Analysis 2021-2025", the market will grow by US$ 842.57 Million at a CAGR (compound annual growth rate) of 6.39% during the forecast period. The report is segmented by product (paraglider, canopy, and reserve parachute, container and harness, protective gear, and others), application (skydiving, paragliding, BASE jumping, and bungee jumping), and geography (Europe, APAC, North America, South America, and Middle East and African countries). Technavio is a leading global technology research and advisory company.

Technological innovations in the product portfolio are one of the major factors that attract customers and increase sales. Vendors in the market are constantly improving their air sports equipment to make trips more safe, secure, and comfortable. Technological innovations are based on several factors such as fabric design, system engineering, mechanical design, control systems, and rigging and packing.

The key stakeholders in the air sports equipment market include the • Raw material traders/suppliers/distributors • Equipment manufacturers • Equipment distributors/traders/wholesalers/suppliers/retailers • Regulatory bodies • Commercial research and development (R&D) institutions • Importers and exporters • Government organizations, research organizations, and consulting firms • Trade associations and industry bodies • End-use industries.

In the NAPS 2022, the Government of India has specified that support will be provided for boosting innovation, research and entrepreneurship in air sports via targeted programs. The Government has made it clear that it may consider allowing import of air sports equipment (new and previously used) with reduced import duty for a particular number of years, subject to laid down norms of airworthiness, while pushing for local manufacturing. For this, the Government plans to offer Production-Linked Incentive (PLI) for domestic manufacturing of air sports equipment under the Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyan. Complex equipment for air sports include aircraft, specialised parachutes, helmets, batteries, GPS trackers and radio aids etc. which are currently being imported. Moreover, airports, by their very nature, involve a higher level of risk than other regular sports. This provides a ground for new aviation technologies and safety procedures. Therefore, the popularity of air sports in India will open up huge opportunities for the design, manufacturing and retail and maintenance of sporting equipments as well as safety equipments. Not only this, it will also provide opportunities for entrepreneurs to engage in the business of training of personnel for operating and maintaining such equipments.

Air Sports Tourism Business: With the ongoing thrust on promoting India as a hub for adventure sports including air sports, investors are eager to put in their money on adventure tourism firms, holiday resorts, leisure camps, excursion agencies, adventure sports agencies, commercial recreation centers, sports centers, athletic clubs, adventure training institutions, and travel channels and blogs. As tourism businesses centred on air sports are not overly congested, they make for novel and unique business pro-positions. Such businesses will not only ensure handsome profit for investors and business owners, but will also generate a plethora of employment opportunities for the workforce.

Rewarding Job Profiles in Air Sports Sector

- Aerobatics Pilot: Aerobatics are skilful displays of flying aircraft, usually to entertain people watching from the ground. Aerobatics Pilots need a set of skills, qualifications and talent, far exceeding those required of a regular pilot. An Aerobatic Pilot needs to explore the limits of the airplane under challenging, often adverse, weather conditions by applying highly specialized technically supported precision flying strategies in a custom created stunt airplane.
- Aeromodelling and Model Rocketry: Aeromodelling and model rocketry are the art of designing, building and flying miniaturized aircrafts and rockets (powered or non-powered). It is both a hobby and sport; the hobby aspect involves building and assembling model aircraft, and the sport part involves the flying. Enthusiasts can participate in various national and international aeromodelling and model rocketry competitions and win recognition and prizes. Miniature aircraft and rockets are also a hit among collectors; hence designing and building such aircraft for exhibitions, sales etc, can be a bright career option. After gaining a certain degree of expertise, one can also opt for operating an institute offering courses and training in aeromodelling and model rocketry.

- Amateur-built and experimental aircraft maker: A career centered on the construction and operation of amateur and home built aircraft, and the restoration of vintage aircraft is also a lucrative one.

- Hot Air Balloon Pilot: Hot air ballooning is a hit among excited tourists as well as eager advertisers. The one thing that every hot air balloon needs is a skilled and certified hot air balloon pilot. Hot air balloon pilots are specially trained for conducting balloon flights and need to have knowledge of meteorology, airmanship, navigation, flight rules, codes of conduct, pre and post flight procedures, airport operations, balloon maneuvers, emergency procedures, and regulations.

- Drone Racer: Drone sports, or FPV (First Person View), is the only sport that combines the virtual world with physical reality. Where the rider controls the plane wirelessly, using virtual reality glasses to see the plane's perspective as if he is controlling from inside the plane, with the basic information of flight emerging from the plane and battery settings. And the rider uses this information to achieve the best flying style. FPV competitions are gaining popularity worldwide with teams hiring people trained in wireless flying skills.

- Glider Pilots: Gliding is a technical sport and to become proficient, you will need to build a wealth of knowledge on topics like soaring techniques and meteorology. You will also need to be familiar with the theory and essentials of flight, safety, navigation and regulations in order to become a licensed glider pilot. The aerodynamics are especially important since your proficiency as a glider pilot rests on your ability to maximize your time in the sky by skillfully applying knowledge of aerodynamic principles.

- Hang Gliding Pilots/Trainers: Hang gliders are controlled by shifting the pilot's weight with respect to the glider. Pilots are suspended from a strap connected to the glider's frame (hence the name "hang" glider). By moving forward and backward and side to side at the end of this strap, the pilot alters the center of gravity of the glider. This then causes the glider to pitch or roll in the direction of the pilot's motion and thus allows both speed control and turning. One has to learn rigging the glider, pre flight inspection, ground handling, launching and landing skills, in order to become a hang glider pilot. With these skills, one can also become a hang glider instructor for training those seeking to fly solo.

- Sky Diving Instructor/Jumpmaster/AFF Instructor: Skydiving or parachuting is of various types - Tandem, Static Line, Instructor-

Assisted Deployment (IAD), and Accelerated Freefall (AFF). In Tandem skydiving, a client or student skydiver is connected to an instructor via a harness. The instructor guides the student through the whole jump from exit through freefall, piloting the canopy, and landing. In Static Line, IAD, the instructor does not accompany the student but their role is nonetheless important. In most AFF programs, two instructors jump with the student during their first three AFF jumps, although some programs may use only one instructor. On the initial levels, the instructor(s) hold on to the student until the student deploys their own parachute. Hence, this method is classified as harness hold training. The AFF instructors have no physical connection to the student other than their grip on the student, so once the student's parachute is deployed the instructors fly away and deploy their own canopies. Students are dependent on their AFF instructor while gaining control and altitude awareness while in freefall. AFF Instructors must assist students as they learn new maneuvers, (i.e. pull sequence, stable freefall, turns, forward motion, track, instability drills, etc.). Candidates interested in becoming AFF instructor should have a solid control of their own freefall skills and awareness and will be tested on both flying skills and teaching abilities. In addition to freefall skills, AFF Instructors must teach tasks regarding canopy flight, gear & equipment, spotting & aircraft, in-depth emergency procedures and the extant rules & regulations.

- Sports Pilot Trainer: The exhilaration felt during flying an aircraft matches nothing. Therefore, recreational flying tops the list of aerosport activities. Adventure flying or recreational flying is done on ultralight, microlight and light sports aircraft. For enthusiasts, getting a private/sports pilot license is the first step towards realising the dream of flying an airplane. There are many institutes offering professional, recreational, and adventure sport pilot training and certification to aviators for a fee. Such institutes recruit trained pilots and instructors with requisite knowledge, skill, and experience for training aviators, and certifying their ability through written, oral, and practical examinations.

- Rotorcraft/Helicopter Flying Instructor: Rotorcraft/Helicopter sports include the flying of the aircraft and a set of exercises in piloting accuracy at a low altitude and in a limited time. This sporting or hobby flying is permitted only after the enthusiast acquires a pilot certification for the same. Flying academies require trained aviators to teach ground training topics and flight maneuvers, ways to identify in-flight safety hazards and ways to overcome them.

Training and Education in Air Sports

While there are institutes in India that offer certification courses in paragliding, skydiving, drone pilot training etc, for more specialized training like aerobatics and AFF, the NASP envisions tying up with the armed forces. "The armed forces of India, Central Armed Police Forces (CAPF) and various state police forces have excellent training facilities, equipment and instructors for air sports. ASFI will engage with the Ministry of Defence, Ministry of Home Affairs and State police forces to explore opportunities for extending their facilities to the public on a reasonable fee basis; without compromising on quality, safety, national security and operational requirements of the forces," the policy document reads. Moreover, the NASP spells out that programs aimed at raising interest in air sports will be encouraged. Schools, colleges and universities will be encouraged to have air sports included in their curriculum. Students will be encouraged to participate in domestic and international competitions conducted periodically for children in different age categories. Support may be provided for boosting innovation, research and entrepreneurship in air sports via targeted programs.

Horticulture Exports ...

Better Income

Though several gaps remain, what drive the demand for horticultural produce are better income, urbanisation and higher consumption of fruits and vegetables. The global reach of Indian horticulture is not just confined to mangoes and banana. India ranks number two in the production of fruits and vegetables, worldwide. During 2021-22, the total export of fresh fruits stood at around 10.5 lakh MT, valued at US$ 738 million. Grapes occupy the premier position in fresh fruit exports followed by pomegranates, mango, banana, and oranges. The export of grapes constitutes a whopping 41% of the share of total export of fruits. Apart from mango and banana, the other fresh fruits exported last year include pomegranate (US$ 92.3 million-99,043 MT), oranges (US$ 54.2 million-1,19,548 MT), pineapple (US$ 4.45 million-7,665 MT) and guava (US$ 2.71 million-5,339 MT). This significant growth in production has triggered an export-rush for fruits and vegetables to the traditional big markets - United Kingdom, United Arab Emirates, Bangladesh, and Middle East countries.

Despite the COVID pandemic, the Agricultural and Processed Food Products Export Development Authority (APEDA), India's apex agriculture promotion body, has pursued its marketing objectives with the European Union (EU) markets resulting in the growth of exports of bananas, grapes, citrus by more than 9% in 2020-21 over 2019-20.

Promisingly, this is just the icing on the Indian horticulture export cake. "Fuelled by a dozen initiatives taken under the visionary leadership of Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi, a consistent backer of promoting export of agricultural products, the India horticulture horizon is set to become broader in the coming years" asserts APEDA Chairman Dr M Angamuthu.

APEDA's Crucial Role

To boost India's horticulture exports, APEDA is playing the crucial role of a catalyst. It has initiated several steps like helping exporters through its financial assistance schemes for setting up specialised infrastructure, branding products, market promotion and quality development.

To tap potential opportunities for pushing Indian horticultural exports in the global market, APEDA regularly interacts with Indian missions abroad, enabling them to utilize opportunities by organizing Virtual Trade Fairs, where Indian exporters meet importers to discuss possibilities.

Keeping in mind the PM's call for 'Vocal For Local' and 'Atmanirbhar Bharat' (self-reliant India), APEDA has been focussing on promotion of exports of locally sourced GI-tagged as well as indigenous, ethnic agricultural products. A

Total Horticulture	2020-21 (Final)	2021-22 (Second Advance Estimate)	2021-22 (3rd Advance Estimate)
Area (in million hectares)	27.48	27.74	28.08
Production (in Million Tonnes)	334.60	341.63	342.33

- The total horticulture production is estimated to be 342.33 million tonnes in the year 2021-22, showing an increase of about 7.73 million tonnes (an increase of 2.3%) over the year 2020-21 (final).
- Production of fruits is estimated to be 107.24 million tonnes as against 102.48 million tonnes in 2020-21.
- Production of vegetables is estimated to be 204.84 million tonnes as against 200.45 million tonnes in 2020-21.

GI or Geographical Indication is a sign used on products that have a specific geographical origin and possess qualities or a reputation that are attributed to that origin. To function as a GI, a sign must identify a product as originating in each given place.

New products and fresh export destinations have been identified and accordingly the trial shipments have been facilitated. During the last two years, export shipments of moringa, patented village rice, red rice, flavoured jaggery powder and organic millets, among others, have taken place. Products such as jamun, dragon fruit, dehydrated mahua flowers, GI varieties of mango, Bhalia wheat from Gujarat, Madurai malli, King chilli (GI), Mihidana, Sitabhog and others, have been exported this year.

APEDA has also managed to push exports from Jammu & Kashmir (J&K); the first consignment of Mishri variety of cherries was shipped from Srinagar to Dubai. Saffron and dry fruits from the UT of J&K to Saudi Arabian FMCG Lulu Group International have been channelized along with sending samples. On the cards is the export of walnuts and apples from J&K.

The export of Himalayan millets, Himalayan goat meat and fresh vegetables has been facilitated from Uttarakhand along with apples from Himachal Pradesh, in association with the Himachal Pradesh Horticulture Produce Marketing & Processing Corporation (HPMC). Fresh jackfruit (from Tripura), Burmese grapes, red rice (Assam) and GI-tagged King chilli (Nagaland) have been sourced from the farmers in Northeast India and exported to multiple destinations.

Unexplored Northeast

Located in the foothills of the Himalayas, the Northeast is unexplored in terms of potentials it offers. Realising this well, APEDA has been regularly interacting with the eight state governments in the region, persuading them for export promotion and effective implementation of Agri Export Policy to harness the potential of fresh Agri produce like Assam lemon, ginger, jackfruit, nutrients according to the soil quality of each farm and control of excessive use of pesticides by the farmers. Add to it sale of unauthorized pesticides permitting only registered pesticides with proper label claim and declaration of pest free areas, i.e., Ralstonia-free potatoes, removal of Fruits Flies and Stone weevil-free mangoes and Striga-free groundnuts.

As horticultural produce is a perishable commodity, it requires post-harvest pineapple, kiwi, and red chilli. To boost exports from this region, fresh jackfruit (from Tripura), Burmese grapes, tender jackfruit, green chilli (Assam) and GI-tagged King chilli (Nagaland) have been sourced from the farmers and exported.

The question to ask is this: why are India's exports, despite being a top horticultural producer, so small and less than two per cent in the global market?

The overall agricultural production in the country primarily caters to the country's 1.4 billion population since the domestic consumption is very high. The surplus generated in the production of Agri commodities is being exported. India's share in global Agri exports is 2.5 per cent, ranked ninth in world trade. Agri export contributes nearly 14 per cent to India's total merchandise exports. APEDA exports pertaining to Agri products is US$ 24.57 billion out of a total export of Agri products of US$ 50.2 billion during 2021-22. There has been a growth of about 20% in Dollar terms as compared to the same period in the previous year for the April-March period. In the Corona pandemic scenario, APEDA persistently pursued EU markets, resulting in the growth of exports of bananas, onions, grapes, citrus of more than 9% in 2020-21 over the year 2019-20.

Challenges and Constraints

Several challenges and constraints, continue to hamper the export supply chain. These include resolving sanitary and phytosanitary measures and technical barriers to trade, market access and tariff issues, provision of quality seeds and infrastructure like primary collection centres, cold chains, packhouse and processing units, among other facilities. Above all India needs to address sea protocols for perishables on priority for long distance markets. For example, India has only been able to ship this produce with only 2-4 days transit period. Compare this to what Philippines and Ecuador have achieved in successfully developing sea protocols for exporting bananas for 40 and 24 days of sea journey respectively!

To address these and other problems, the union government unveiled a major path breaking initiative in the first ever Agriculture Export Policy (AEP) announced in 2018, which sets its sights high. It aims to push up agricultural exports to US$ 100 billion in the next few years with a stable trade policy regime. It also seeks to diversify the Indian export basket, destinations and boost high value- and value-added agricultural exports, with special focus on perishables.

Key Pillars of AEP

- To diversify export basket, destinations and boost high value- and value-added agricultural exports, with special focus on perishables.
- To promote novel, indigenous, organic, ethnic, traditional, and non-traditional Agri products exports.
- To provide an institutional mechanism for pursuing market access, tackling barriers and deal with sanitary and phytosanitary issues.
- Strive to increase India's share in the world Agri exports by integrating with the global value chain at the earliest.

- Enable farmers to get the benefit of export opportunities in overseas market. The idea is to promote and incentivise farm enterprises. One key strategy to achieve this target is the seeking of greater involvement of state governments by focusing on developing clusters, which have the potential for export-oriented production in different Agri-climatic zone across India. Within these clusters, greater thrust is placed on value addition, promotion, and branding of Agri-produce.

Joining hands

To identify and boost the export value chain of these clusters, the National Horticultural Board has joined hands with organizations such as APEDA, National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (NABARD), National Cooperative Development Corporation (NCDC), Small Farmers' Agri-Business Consortium (SFAC), National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation of India (NAFED) and the Tribal Cooperative Marketing Development Federation of India or TRIFED.

The objective is to leverage geographic specialisations and promote integrated market-led development. This includes pre-production, post-harvest, logistics, branding, and marketing pertaining to both primary and processed Agri-commodities. It also seeks to address the gaps in information-sharing on myriad sanitary issues for export markets. To achieve this, a series of capacity building initiatives have been undertaken. Farm-producing organisations (FPOs) and self-help groups are trained as entrepreneurs and transformed as exporters in collaboration with State Agricultural Departments, State Agricultural Universities and Krishi Vigyan Kendras.

The following are examples of horticultural trade, which have resulted in pushing up exports and farmers' income.

- Varanasi Cluster (Fresh Vegetables), Uttar Pradesh: The first trial sea shipment of 14MT fresh vegetables (green chillies) export to Dubai was made in December 2019, after the procurement took place from farmers in the Varanasi cluster region. Exports of around 20,000 MT of Agri products, which includes 5,000 MT fresh fruits; vegetables and approximately 15,000 MT cereals (including Basmati rice) has taken place from the Varanasi region so far.

India's Largest Rocket Makes Maiden Commercial Flight with Heaviest Payload

The Indian Space Research Organisation successfully launched its Geosynchronous Satellite Launch Vehicle (GSLV) Mark-3 (also designated LVM3) carrying 36 OneWeb satellites, from Satish Dhawan Space Centre on 23rd October 2022. The launch marks the first dedicated commercial launch for New Space India Limited (NSIL) using the LVM3 rocket.

How was the Launch Unique?

This was the first LVM3-dedicated commercial launch on demand through NSIL, a Central Public Sector Enterprise (CPSE) under the Department of Space and the commercial arm of the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO). This was also the first multi-satellite launch of LVM3 to LEO (Low Earth Orbit) and the first Indian rocket with a 6T payload.

NSIL has signed two launch service contracts with Network Access Associates Limited (OneWeb), United Kingdom, for launching OneWeb LEO Broadband Communication Satellites on-board ISRO's heaviest launcher LVM3. The October 23rd launch was the first of these two.

This contract is a historic milestone for NSIL and ISRO, as LVM3 has now made its entry into the global commercial launch service market. With this successful launch, the LVM3 has become a catalyst for the Indian Space Programme, opening new vistas for heavy payloads to the LEO. This was one of the biggest commercial orders by India's premier space organization, and the first using the LVM3 rocket.

EN EXPLAINS

company and NSIL have entered into an agreement that will help ensure that OneWeb completes its satellite launch programme. OneWeb is a global communications network, powered from space, enabling connectivity for governments, businesses, and communities. It is implemen-missions, which includes the critical Chandrayaan-2 mission. The vehicle has gone through several critical tests as a part of human rating for the Gaganyaan programme. The cryo stage was uniquely designed to orient and re-orient in orthogonal direction to meet the customer requirements of injecting satellites precisely and with a gap to

Department of Space, Government of India and the commercial arm of ISRO. As part of space reforms announced by the Government during January 2020, NSIL got mandated to undertake operational satellite missions on a "Demand Driven" model, wherein NSIL has the responsibility to build, launch, own, and operate the satellites and provide services to customers.

In June this year, GSAT-24 became the first demand-driven satellite to be configured by ISRO and owned, operated, and funded by NSIL for a commercial user.

The Indian Space Programme primarily focuses on deriving socio-economic benefits from space technology and its applications for national development. The NSIL comes into play where the country can commercially exploit the products and services emanating from the Indian Space Programme.

The NSIL is enabling Indian Industries to scale up a high-technology manufacturing base for space programme through technology transfer mechanisms and catering to emerging global commercial small satellite launch service market, satellite services for various domestic and international application needs and enabling space technology spin-offs for the betterment of mankind through industry interface.

OneWeb India-1 Mission

Timeline

On April 20, 2022, it was announced that OneWeb, the LEO satellite communications ting a constellation of LEO satellites. India's Bharti Enterprises serves as a major investor and shareholder in OneWeb.

On September 20, 2022, OneWeb's 36 satellites arrived at the Satish Dhawan Space Centre in Sriharikota SDSC-SHAR, India.

On October 23, 2022, OneWeb's satellites separated successfully from the LVM3 and were dispensed in nine phases over a period of one hour and 15 minutes, with signal acquisition on all 36 satellites confirmed. All 36 satellites are operational, bringing OneWeb's total Gen 1 LEO constellation to 462 satellites.

With its 14th launch, OneWeb has more than 70 per cent of its planned 648 Gen 1 LEO satellite fleet in orbit as it progresses to deliver "high-speed, low-latency connectivity services around the world". The company needs four more launches to meet its target of activating global coverage in 2023.

The LVM3 launch vehicle, realized with completely indigenized technology, had four consecutive successful avoid collision. The vehicle was realized in a short span of time on a demand-driven basis to meet the user's timeline.

The LVM3, or the Geosynchronous Satellite Launch Vehicle (GSLV) Mark 3 rocket, was conceived primarily for launching geostationary satellites with a payload capacity of 4T, which can be used for launching 6T payloads for LEO.

Launchers or launch vehicles are used to carry payloads such as spacecraft, space probes, and satellites from the surface to the outer space. India has two operational launchers - Polar Satellite Launch Vehicle (PSLV) and Geosynchronous Satellite Launch Vehicle (GSLV).

Horticulture Exports ...

● Anantpur Cluster (Banana), Andhra Pradesh:

Five FPOs in a banana cluster identified have been actively cultivating the fruit under contract farming through MoU or agreement with a buy back arrangement with five leading banana exporters.

● Nagpur Cluster (Orange) Maharashtra:

The focus is to increase exports and brand the famous Nagpur orange in the Middle East countries. The first sea consignment of Nagpur oranges(15MT) was shipped to Dubai on February 13, 2020, with adequate VHT facility. The Vapor Heat Treatment or VHT is a system for steadily killing eggs and larvae of fruit flies parasitizing inside the fruit with vapour and heat, without injuring fresh fruits. More than 100MT of oranges have been exported to UAE and supplied to top supermarket chains like the Lulu Super mart and the Safari Mall, Nesto. More than 2,000 MT of fresh mandarin have been exported from Nagpur to Bangladesh.

● Theni Cluster (Banana), Tamil Nadu

The FPO named Western Ghat Banana Producer Group has been linked for supplying fresh produce for exports to Maldives and Middle East destinations.

The cluster approach has created a win-win situation for all as it has led to increase in exports and has doubled the income of the farmers. Farmers engaged in horticulture, whose produce has made it to foreign shores, have gained anywhere from 30 to 50 per cent more than what it fetched them in the local market.

The successful model of banana exports from clusters of Anantpur in Andhra Pradesh, Theni in Tamil Nadu and Jalgaon, Solapur, in Maharashtra are being replicated at other places. Other successful models have been grape clusters from Nashik and mango from Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh. The export hub project of vegetable and fruits has been able to demonstrate usefulness of backward and forward linkages. Clusters for banana, pomegranate, mango, grapes, rose onions, potato and orange have been identified in different states as well.

Indian horticulture export is subject to competition in international markets from Asian countries like China, Japan, Thailand, and Philippines, among others.

Similarly, competition is also stiff from the nine member states of the Commonwealth of Independent Countries (CIS) and the other regions in Africa and America. The absence of bilateral agreements between major importers and India has also proved to be a handicap. APEDA proposes aggressive negotiations for bilateral agreements for turning the stakes in India's favour.

APEDA's market access initiatives have helped in reaching Indian mangoes to Japan, Korea, the USA, China, Australia and Malaysia, onions, okra and tomato for Bhutan and grapes and mangoes for Argentina and Mauritius. Similarly, market access for grapes and pomegranates has also been achieved in many potential markets like the USA and Australia.

As part of pushing the export envelope, country-specific Agri-export strategy reports have been prepared for 60 nations in consultation with Indian embassies and High Commissions of the respective countries to tap emerging opportunities.

States Get into the Act

In addition to the Centre's agriculture export policy, several states have unveiled their own Agri export policies, which is likely to boost the ecosystem that is vital for horticultural produce and exports. For instance, 22 states have finalized concrete Agri export plans. These include Maharashtra, U.P., Kerala, Nagaland, Tamil Nadu, Assam, Punjab, Karnataka, Gujarat, Rajasthan, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Manipur, Sikkim, Uttarakhand, M.P., Mizoram, Meghalaya, Tripura, Arunachal Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh, and Goa. The action plans of the remaining six states are at different stages of finalization.

Extensive use of technology to ensure traceability to farms is being undertaken as it a crucial barrier to horticulture exports from India. APEDA has played a vital role in implementing the following product-specific traceability systems in conformity with the requirements of the importing countries.

One of them is GrapeNet, an internet based electronic service offered by APEDA to the stakeholders for facilitating testing and certification of grapes for export from India in compliance with the standards identified by the National Research Centre for Grapes (NRC), Pune, based on consultation with the exporters.

GrapeNet collects, stores, and reports forward and backward traces and quality assurance data entered by the stakeholders, i.e., exporters, laboratories, and PSC authorities within the grapes supply chain in India. Similarly, Horti.net, an internet based electronic service, is available for other fruits and vegetables. To bring in enhanced trust and transparency, blockchain technology that covers all the stakeholders involved in the process of export of grapes, has been introduced. Blockchain is an immutable, time-stamped series record of data that is distributed and managed by cluster of computers.

Infrastructure

APEDA is offering financial assistance under the Agriculture and Processed Food Export Promotion Scheme of the Component Infrastructure Development. The scheme has been beneficial for setting up of modern integrated packhouses with facilities, as per requirements of importing countries. In addition, the scheme also covers assistance for purchase of refrigerated vehicles to support the supply chain. These two components have largely helped exporters of fresh horticulture produce like mangoes, pomegranates, grapes, bananas, fresh vegetables, and floriculture sector. The efforts made by APEDA in setting up of 250 export-oriented EU-compliant pack houses in private sector, has won them wide appreciation. Financial assistance provided to state governments under infrastructure development has also enhanced their capacities to export.

The Prevention of Pest and Diseases and Pesticide Residue Control - To overcome the challenge of managing pest and diseases, the central and state governments have come out with standard operating procedures (SOPs) for producing pest free horticultural produce in their region. The SOPs include management of farm practices under Good Agricultural Practices (GAP).

Scientific pre- and post-harvest management to avoid losses - Various developments have taken place in pre-and post-harvest management techniques. The strengthening of farmgate coldchain infrastructure has helped formers. The efforts will result in achieving higher productivity and prevent losses. There are some examples like that of bananas, where the produce is sourced from many farmers in contiguous areas. The pre- and post-harvest management is established by companies, processors exporters at the farm gate or in the contiguous areas by using mobile equipment.

The management of exports of bananas from the Anantapur region in Andhra Pradesh, establishment of forward linkages and setting up of mobile equipment for pre- and post-harvest installed by the exporters in the production area, has given ample ideas to work on for creating successful models.

APEDA Chairman Angamuthu has observed that all the key stakeholders are working hard to ensure that the export promotion policies in the horticultural sector, bear fruit in the years ahead. India is on a good wicket.

Two More Indian Beaches Get Prestigious "Blue Flag" Certification

In recognition of India's commitment to protect and conserve the pristine coastal and marine ecosystems through holistic management of the resources, the globally recognized and the coveted International eco-label "Blue Flag" has been accorded to two new beaches - Minicoy Thundi Beach and Kadmat Beach both in Lakshadweep. This takes the number of beaches certified under the Blue Flag certification to twelve. The Thundi Beach is one of the most pristine and picturesque beaches in the Lakshadweep archipelago where white sand is lined by turquoise blue water of the lagoon. It is a paradise for swimmers and tourists alike. The Kadmat Beach is especially popular with cruise tourists who visit the island for water sports. It is a paradise for nature lovers with its pearl white sand, blue lagoon waters, its moderate climate and friendly locals. Both the beaches have designated staff for beach cleanliness and maintenance; and for safety and security of swimmers. Both the beaches comply with all the 33 criteria as mandated by the Foundation for Environment Education (FEE). Headquartered in Denmark, the FEE is a non-governmental, non-profit organisation promoting sustainable development through environmental education. FEE is active through five programmes; Blue Flag, Eco-Schools, Young Reporters for the Environment, Learning about Forests and Green Key International.

Indian Researchers Find Solution for strengthening Non-Earthquake-Resistant Buildings

Researchers from Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur, have found a solution for retrofitting old non-earthquake-resistant buildings with a technology that can prevent major damage to such buildings from earthquakes without compromising on their strength. The technology called semi-confined unreinforced brick masonry (SC-URBM) can resolve the problem of spread of settlements in earthquake-prone areas with constructions that have been built without following earthquake-preventive building codes. Just like in most developing countries, unreinforced brick masonry (URBM) has been a common practice in urban, semi-urban, and rural areas of India. Considering that major parts of India are under seismic zone III or above and most of the URBM buildings are old and structurally deficient, strengthening of URBM buildings located in earthquake-prone areas is extremely important. This technology for strengthening existing URBM buildings is not only architecturally aesthetic but can also be implemented easily by manpower available locally (masons). The research has been published in the ASCE Journal of Structural Engineering.
