

Financial Inclusion Moving towards a Digital Orbit

Manjula Wadhwa

During the course of celebrating 75 years of India's independence, Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi on 16th October 2022, launched 75 Digital Banking Units (DBUs) in 75 locations across the country. The DBUs are part of an ecosystem devised by the government to improve financial inclusion in the country which is crucial for wider, inclusive and sustainable growth. Eleven public sector banks, 12 private sector banks and one small finance bank are participating in the endeavour (DBUs), which aims to spread digital financial literacy and raise awareness of cyber-security risks and safeguards. The DBUs are equipped with tablets and internet services to help individuals and small businesses open savings accounts; check their balances; transfer funds; apply for loans and pay bills and taxes. The self service mode will be available 24x7x365. It is definitely, a big step towards "ease of living", by providing maximum services from minimum digital infrastructure. It will also simplify the banking procedure while providing a robust and secure banking system. In a village or a small town, when a person takes the services of a digital banking unit, everything from sending money to taking loans online will become easy - Does this not substantiate that financial inclusion in India is moving towards a new realm- the tech orbit?

Unquestionably, financial inclusion is the cornerstone of not only a fair, equitable society but also a thriving economy. Boosting inclusive growth and access to finance can make crucial contribution to economic development, enabling social mobility and also ensuring that the largest number of people can participate fully and effectively in economic life. It helps to solve a number of societal issues, such as economic growth, employment, poverty and income equality in both developed and developing countries. However, the issues and challenges of fostering financial inclusion are particularly salient in the developing India.

Since 2008, with the constitution of Dr Rangarajan Committee on Financial Inclusion, there has been so much discourse on the concept that it has become somewhat cliché. Nonetheless, with the realization of the need for a novel approach, the exercise of financial inclusion has transitioned from finding solutions for general problems to addressing specific needs of distinct communities. The focus of the financial inclusion agenda today is on developing a strong financial technology (fintech) ecosystem which can effectively further the goal of making financial services more accessible to an increasing number of people.

At 87%, India had the highest fintech adoption rate in the world in 2021. The market opportunity for fintech products is estimated to reach $1.3 trillion by 2025, growing at a CAGR (compound annual growth rate) of 31% from 2021 onwards. Out of this, the lending tech will account for 47%, while digital payments will occupy 16% of the slice. This is an ever-evolving landscape. Each year we encounter new

Virtual Interviews Made Easy

Sangeeta Gadhok Magan

"I have an interview coming up soon. That too, a virtual one!" This thought alone can be frightening for many, but what exactly do you fear? It is obviously the fear of rejection that constantly continues to kill your confidence. Virtual or online interviews can be even more stressful because there is not only the fear of facing recruiters, but also an added fear of facing the camera.

The initial question that comes to our mind is 'How to prepare?' For most of us, in all our days spent in schools and colleges, we were so absorbed in academics that we never had the time to work on the other and equally important facet of our personality -soft skills. We were just worried about getting good grades and make a great resume because we believed that we needed to impress the recruiters with an impressive resume to get shortlisted for any job opportunity. And of course we have never had to face a camera before.

So, in this article, I will share a few important tips on how to prepare well and sail through the interview process, rather than say the saddest words of anyone's life- 'I wish I had!' Because if you prepare well, there is nothing to fear!

In most online interviews, in just 20 minutes you have to prove yourself in a group of 6-10 people. This is not a trivial task. At the outset, let us understand the difference between an offline and online recruitment process. The recruitment methods have undergone a sea change and although face to face interviews are preferred even today, online interviews are also gaining popularity. So we better start gearing up and become ready to face the camera and the recruiters in an online interview. While online or video interviewing limits the scope of the myriad tried-and-tested methods for making a good impression, there are many more ways to wow your potential employer over an online interaction. So, let's understand some important aspects:

Grooming Matters

You cannot afford to slack; you need to be even more diligent and look as professional as you would in an offline interview. Because the standards remain the same. You cannot carry casual attire even if you are not in a face to face interview. Now that your face is the focus of the camera, it is crucial that you pay even more attention to your grooming. In fact, I would advise you to wear your formal shoes as

PM Shri Narendra Modi Shares his Thoughts on Various Topics

Blessings of Sun God

- The tradition of worshipping the Sun is a proof of how deep our culture, our faith, is related to nature. Chhath Puja illustrates the importance of Sunlight and also reinforces the philosophy that ups and downs are an integral part of life. The festival also fosters unity among communities as the items used for various rituals are prepared by myriad people of society. The festival of Chhath also emphasizes on the importance of cleanliness in our lives. Most importantly, the festival of Chhath has become an example of 'Ek Bharat-Shrestha Bharat'. Today, wherever in the country the people of Bihar and Purvanchal are, Chhath is being celebrated with great pomp. Nowadays, many grand pictures of Chhath Puja come from abroad too, thus proving that our rich heritage is reinforcing its identity in every corner of the world.
- While speaking about the Sun God, why not also discuss his boon - Solar Energy. Today, by combining its traditional experiences with modern science, India has become one of the largest countries to generate electricity from solar energy. Utilizing solar energy has transformed the lives of many poor and middle class families. Many farmers have availed the benefits of Pradhan Mantri Kisan Urja Suraksha evam Uthtan Mahabhiyan (KUSUM) Yojana and installed solar pump sets in their farms, thereby reducing their expenses and dependence on electricity. Solar energy is also supporting small industries in the rural set up like timber work and processing of cow dung for many purposes, thus generating livelihood options.
- Friends, can you imagine that after consuming electricity for a month, you do not get a bill for payment but instead get paid. A few days ago, you must have heard that Modhera of Gujarat become the country's first solar village (Suryagram). Most of the houses in Modhera Suryagram have started generating their own electricity from solar power. Not only do they consume this electricity but also sell it to outsiders. Therefore, every month, instead of paying for electricity, these households get paid for electricity. Modhera's experience can be replicated across the country. The power of the Sun is also helping villagers in other parts of the country in not only saving money but also increasing their income. For instance, Kunni Deori of Odisha is leading a group of tribal women who spin silk on solar powered looms. With inspirations like these. The day is not far when Suryagrams in India will become a big mass movement.

Aatmanirbhar Space Sector

- Our country is doing wonders in the space sector as well. A few days ago India placed 36 satellites in space simultaneously. With this launching, digital connectivity will be further strengthened in the entire country. This is a stellar example of Aatmanirbharta. I say this because I remember those old days when India was denied the Cryogenic Rocket Technology. But the scientists of India not only developed indigenous technology but also took India's space sector to a new height as it has today emerged as a strong player in the global commercial space launch market. Earlier in India, the space sector was confined within the purview of government systems. Since the opening up of the space sector for private players, revolutionary changes have started coming in it. Indian industries and start-ups are engaged in bringing new innovations and new technologies in this field. In particular, the collaboration of IN-SPACE is going to make a big difference in this area. Non-government companies are also getting the facility to launch their payloads and satellites through IN-SPACE. I would urge more and more start-ups and innovators to take full advantage of these huge opportunities being created in India in the space sector.

Youth in Nation Building

- When we speak about 'youth power' and leadership, we often limit our thoughts to students' politics. But the scope of 'youth power' is bigger and very vast. It is the power of the youth, their hard work, their sweat, their talent that will take India to new heights as we set ambitious targets for our centenary celebrations (100 years of Independence) in 2047. The way our youth have been contributing to nation building inspires immense confidence. Lakhs of youth in the country have solved many challenges and given new solutions to problems through innovation platforms like startups and hackathons.

Innovation Goals

- I had made a call for 'Jai Anusandhan' from the Red Fort this Independence Day. I had also talked about making this decade the Techade of India. This month during 14-15 October, all 23 IITs came on one platform for the first time to showcase their innovations and research projects. Students and researchers, who came from all over the country, displayed more than 75 best projects on themes like healthcare, agriculture, robotics, semiconductors, 5G Communications. Although all these projects were one better than the other, I want to draw your attention to some projects. IIT Bhubaneswar has developed a portable ventilator for new born babies. Several IITs are working together on a multilingual project that makes learning local languages easier, thus aiding the National Education Policy. IIT Madras and IIT Kanpur have played a leading role in preparing India's indigenous 5G test bed. I also hope that taking inspiration from IITs, other institutions will also step up their R&D activities.

India and the Environment

- Sensitivity towards the environment is embedded in every particle of our society and we can feel it all around us. There is no dearth of people in the country who spend a lifetime in the protection of the environment like Suresh Kumar ji of Bengaluru. 20 years ago, he had taken the initiative to rejuvenate a forest of Sahakarnagar in the city. Now their beauty of the forest captivates everyone's mind. In another interesting endeavor from Tamil Nadu, a team of tribal women in Anaikatti, Coimbatore have crafted ten thousand eco-friendly terracotta tea cups for export. Likewise, some villages of Tripura have ascended to the level of Bio-Village 2. Bio-Village 2 emphasizes how to minimise the damage caused by natural disasters while adopting various measures to improve the quality of life of the people. There is complete focus on solar energy, biogas, bee keeping and bio fertilizers. Moreover, a few days ago, Mission Life dedicated to protect the environment has also been launched. The simple principle of Mission Life is to promote such a lifestyle, which does not harm the environment. I urge you to also know Mission Life and try to adopt it.

Unity in Sports

- The 31st of October is National Unity Day- the birth anniversary of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel. The Run for Unity organized in every corner of the country on this day strengthens the thread of unity in the country and inspires our youth. The same sentiment was seen during the just concluded National Games. With the theme 'Judega India to Jeetega India', the National Games has given a strong message of unity while promoting sports culture the country. The National Games this time was the biggest ever organized in India. 36 sports were included in this, in which, 7 new and two indigenous competitions, Yogan and Mallakhamb were also included. I congratulate all the teams and players, who won medals, made new records, participated in this sports competition. I would also like to express my heartfelt appreciation to all those people who contributed in the successful organization of the National Games in Gujarat.

Preserving Tribes, Preserving Nature an Environment

- On the 15th of November, we celebrate the Janjateeya

Gaurav Diwas to celebrate the tribal heritage and pride on the birth anniversary of Bhagwan Birsa Munda. Bhagwan Birsa Munda had sacrificed his life to protect India's independence and tribal culture. There is so much that we can learn from Dharti Aba Birsa Munda who had said, 'This earth is ours, we are its protectors.' This statement inspires a sense of duty for the motherland as well as for the environment. Even today, we can learn a lot about nature and environment from the tribal societies of the country.

Remembering the Massacre of Mangarh

- In the month of November, we also remember the massacre of Mangarh, on the border of Gujarat and Rajasthan. Mangarh has had a very special place in India's freedom struggle and our rich tribal heritage. There was a terrible massacre here in November 1913, in which the British brutally murdered the local tribals. It is said that more than a thousand tribals lost their lives in this massacre. This tribal movement was led by Govind Guru ji, whose life is an inspiration to everyone. Today I bow to all those tribal martyrs and the indomitable courage and valor of Govind Guru ji. The more faithfully we follow the ideals of Bhagwan Birsa Munda, Govind Guru and other freedom fighters during Amrit Kaal, the more our country will touch newer heights.

Remembering the Gurus and their Teachings

- The 8th of November is Gurupurab. Throughout his life, Guru Nanak Dev Ji spread light for the sake of humanity. In the last few years, the country has made many efforts to spread the light of Gurus to the masses. We had the privilege of celebrating the 550th Prakash Parv of Guru Nanak Dev Ji on a large scale in the country and abroad. It is equally pleasant to see the development of the Kartarpur Sahib Corridor after decades of waiting. A few days ago, I also got the privilege of laying the foundation stone of the ropeway for Hemkund Sahib. We have to continuously learn from the teachings of our Gurus and remain devoted to them.

Statehood Greetings

- Many states are celebrating their Statehood day in recent days. I convey my best wishes to the people Andhra Pradesh, Kerala, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and Haryana. The stronger the spirit to learn from each other, to cooperate, and to work together, the more the country will go forward.

TOMORROW

O blessed vision! happy child!
Thou art so exquisitely wild,
I think of thee with many fears
For what may be your lot in future years.
-Wordsworth (To Hartley Coleridge-Six years old)

Children are the world's vulnerable natural resources. Without them, there would be, no tomorrow, think about it-To-day.
-George Eliot

You save an old man and you save a unit, but save a boy, and you save a multiplication table.
-"Gipsy" Smith

...We can focus on children as a starting-point in our attempts to address and solve the problems of adults.
-Marco Vianello Chiod

Yours is the golden tomorrow,
Yours are the hands that will reap
Dreams that we sow while you sleep,
Fed with our hope and our sorrow
Rich with tears that we weep,
-Sarojini Naidu (a small voice, UNICEF, May 1979)

Remember the age-old dream....Peace on earth? The lion shall lie down with the lamb and a little child shall lead them? Bring that day closer by helping children.
-Quotable Quotes (ICCW News Bulletin)

A CHILD'S WORLD

I have no name;
I am but two days old."
What shall I call thee"
"I happy am
Joy is my name."
Sweet joy befall thee
-William Blake (Infant Joy)

So runs my dream; but what am I?
An Infant crying in the night
An Infant crying for the light
And with no language but a cry.
-Tennyson (In Memoriam, LIV)

A baby watched a ford, whereto
A wagtail came for drinking;
A blaring bull went wading through,
The wagtail showed no shrinking.
A perfect gentleman then neared;
The wagtail, in a winking,
With terror rose and disappeared;
The baby fell a thinking.
-Thomas Hardy,

Childhood is the world of miracle and wonders as if a creation of rose, barked in light, out of darkness, utterly new and astonishing. The end of childhood is when things cease to astonish us. When the world seems familiar, when one has got used to existence, one has become an adult.
-Eugene Ionesco

The barb in the arrow of childhood's suffering is this - its intense loneliness, its intense ignorance.
-Olive Schreiner (The story of an African Farm)

Have you ever felt like nobody?
Just a tiny speck of air.
When everyone is around you,
And you are just not there.
-Karen Crawford Age 9, USA (Miracles: Poems by Children of the English speaking World, collected by Richard Lewis).

The little world of childhood with its familiar surroundings is a model of the greater world. The more intensively the family has shaped its character upon the child, the more it will tend to feel and see its earlier miniature world again in the bigger world of adult life.
-C.G. Jung (Psychological Reflections, edited by JIande Jacobi and R.F. Hull).

When I was a beggarly boy
And lived in a cellar damp,
I had not a friend or a toy
But I had Alladin's lamp.
-J.R. Lowell (Alladin)

A simple child,
That lightly draws its breath,
And feels its life in every limb,
What should it know of death?
-William Wordsworth (We Are Seven).

The child's heart curseth deeper in the silence than the strong man in his wrath.
-Elizabeth Barrett Browning

The child's grief throbs against its little heart as heavily as the man's sorrow, and the one finds as much delight in his kite or drum, as the other in striking the springs of enterprise, or soaring on the wings of fame.
-E.H. Chopin

The child is surrounded by so much authority, so much school, so much dignity, so much law, that it would have to break down under the weight of all these restraints if it were not saved from such a fate by meeting with a friend.
-Dr. Wilhelm (The Depths of the Soul).

Behold the child, by nature's kindly law,
Pleased with a rattle, tickled with a straw:
Some livelier plaything gives his youth delight,
A little louder, but as empty quite:
Scarfs, garters, gold, amuse his riper stage,
And beads and prayer-books are the toys of age,
Pleased with this bauble still, as that before,
Till tired he sleeps, and life's poor play is o'er.
-Alexander Pope

We want our children to inherit a better world than our own. This is the aim of every father and mother and this is the objective of planned development.

-Indira Gandhi

We have not inherited the earth from our fathers, we have borrowed it from our children.
-Unknown

"Could I climb to the highest place in Athens I would lift up my voice and shout." "Fellow citizens why do we turn and scrape every stone to gather wealth and take so little care of your children to whom one day you must relinquish it all?"
-Socrates

If you make children happy now, you will make them happy twenty years hence by the memory of it.
-Kate Douglas Wiggin

Fathers should not get too discouraged if their sons reject their advice. It will not be wasted; years later the sons will offer it to their own offspring.
-Unkown

Children of the future do not belong to their parents alone; they are the concern of everyone of us, they are literally the hope of the world.
-Meininger

Television has changed the American child from an irresistible force into an immovable object.

-Laurence Peter

Mud is very nice to feel
All squishing out between the toes,
I'd rather squish around in mud
Than smell a yellow rose,
Nobody else but the rosebush knows,
How nice mud feels between the toes. -Polly Chase
Boyden

The slum child bears more than his poverty; he carries the burden of shame as well. Disposed and suspected by the better-off citizen he sees around him only the stunning contrast between his lot and that of luckier children. They may live across the street from him. But they live in buildings that have a right to be there. The slum child's home is an unauthorised shack. Over the future hangs the fear that even this will be knocked down, taken away. To the world that views him with suspicion, he returns distrust. That is the lesson he learns from childhood.
-a small voice, UNICEF, October 1979.

Happiness can improve every child's looks
Happiness can make children eager and interested.
Happiness and good health can go hand in hand.
Happiness improves children's relationships with friends and family.
-John Donne

Alas! regardless of their doom,
The little victims play;
No sense have they of ills to come,
Nor care beyond to-day.
-Gray (On a distant Prospect of Eton College)

What is hope? A smiling rainbow
Children follow through the wet;
Tis not here, still yonder,
yonder: Never urchin found it yet.

Financial Inclusion - Moving to a Digital ...

technologies that make our lives better.

The Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana (PMJDY)

The success of Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana (PMJDY) can be reflected in terms of the opening of over 46 crore bank accounts with deposit balance of Rs 1.74 lakh crore; an expanded coverage to 67 per cent rural or semi-urban areas; and that 56 per cent of Jan Dhan account holders are women. These facts are more than enough for motivating the Government to continue the programme, ofcourse, with a marked shift in approach to meet the challenges and requirements of the emerging FI landscape in the country.

DBT & RuPay: Of late, there has been a shift in focus from 'every household' to 'every adult', with added emphasis on usage of accounts by enhancing Direct Benefit Transfer (DBT) flows through these accounts, promoting digital payments through the use of RuPay cards etc. The underlying pillars of PMJDY - namely, 'banking the unbanked,' 'securing the unsecured' and 'funding the unfunded' - has made it possible to adopt multi-stakeholders' collaborative approach while leveraging technology for serving the unserved and underserved areas as well.

JAM: The Jan Dhan-Aadhar-Mobile (JAM) pipeline created through account holders' consent-based linking of bank accounts with Aadhar and mobile numbers, which is one of the important pillars of the financial inclusion ecosystem, has enabled instant DBT under various government welfare schemes to the eligible beneficiaries. The advantage of the architecture created under FI ecosystem came handy during the COVID-19 pandemic when it facilitated direct income support to farmers under PM-KISAN and transfer of ex-gratia payment to women Jan-Dhan account holders under PM Garib Kalyan Package in a seamless and time-bound manner. Undoubtedly, PMJDY has been one of the most far reaching initiatives towards financial inclusion not only in India but the world.

Jan Dhan Accounts & Micro Insurance: The Finance Ministry has been endeavouring to ensure coverage of PMJDY account holders under micro insurance schemes. Eligible Jan-Dhan account holders will be covered under Pradhan Mantri Jeevan Jyoti Bima Yojana (PMJJBY) and Pradhan Mantri Suraksha Bima Yojana (PMSBY). Banks have already been communicated about the same.

Negligible Inoperative Jan Dhan Accounts: Much is said and talked about the efficacy of PMJDY accounts. As per extant RBI guidelines, a PMJDY account is treated as inoperative if there are no customer induced transactions in the account for over a period of two years. The latest data reveals, out of total 46.25 crore PMJDY accounts, 37.57 crore (81.2 per cent) are operative. Only 8.2 per cent accounts are zero balance accounts, while the average deposit per account is Rs 3,761. Total RuPay cards issued so far to PMJDY account holders stood at 31.94 crore. The number of RuPay cards and their usage has increased over time.

Innovations in Fintech

Over the last few years, technology has given wings to our ambitious programmes of financial inclusion and financial literacy. Innovations in the Fintech space are compelling traditional businesses to rethink their business models. Better telecom connectivity, economical mobile devices and innovative business models are the key factors that are responsible for increased focus on rural economy. For example, the Government (Central and State), the private sector, NGOs, MFIs (Micro Finance Institutions) and other stakeholders have joined hands for delivering some unique financial solutions to the people who were left at the mercy of exploitative money-lenders.

A key differentiator for financial inclusion is a business model that works on a principle of 'low value and high volumes' business strategy to make it a lucrative opportunity. The Business Correspondent model along with innovative cost-efficient tech solutions are enabling various companies to thrive profitably while fulfilling the financial needs of the unbanked. India has been widely hailed for the development and adoption of financial technologies or fintech. This year's budget seeks to leverage this further, as it lists promotion of digital economy and fintech as one of the goals for Amrit Kaal, which the finance minister termed as futuristic and inclusive. Her task would be easier and faster if we start to think like digital start-ups in trying to provide more and more people with access to fruitful financial services. The upcoming technologies that are at the forefront for bringing the financially disadvantaged strata of our society into the formal economy by providing Banking, Credit and other Insurance associated services, are the following:-

Distribution Tech-

- Mobile-Based Financial Platforms-Vernacular
- Micro, Mobile, and Biometric ATMs
- Smart Cards and POS Terminals
- Biometric Devices

Credit Tech

- Neobanks
- Card-Based Credit Facilities-Kisan Credit Cards
- P2P(Peer to Peer) Lending Model
- Microcredit Platforms-B2B (MSMES) & B2C (Farmers, Rural Workforce)

Banking Tech

- No Frills Bank A/c-Digital Banks

Payment Solutions

While looking at the future of financial inclusion in digital mode, we find the number of active internet users in India is expected to increase by 45 per cent in the next five years and touch the stellar figure of 900 million by 2025 from around 622 million in 2020. The numbers seem to indicate that companies will have more of a digital presence compared to a physical one in the near future and many of them have already started providing services digitally, helping them to reduce cost and improve efficiency while amplifying the reach. For potential, look no further than WhatsApp's 2 billion active users worldwide, of which nearly half a billion are in India. The country has 600 million smartphones-adding 25 million more every quarter-and the highest monthly mobile data consumption rate in the world at 12 gigabytes per user per month.

Central Bank Digital Currency

The Reserve Bank of India on 1st November 2022 launched a pilot project on Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC). The platform is called NDS-OM CBDC. Nine prominent banks namely - State Bank of India, Bank of Baroda, Union Bank of India, HDFC Bank, ICICI Bank, Kotak Mahindra Bank, Yes Bank, IDFC Bank and HSBC have been identified for participation in the pilot. The CBDC made a steady and glitch-free debut in the world of real-time trades with several banks using the virtual money to settle nearly 50 government bond transactions cumulatively worth about Rs 275 crore on the first day. With the launch of the CBDC, banks no longer need to rely absolutely on a physical presence; they can provide all their services online with the help of Fintech companies or by developing their own in-house platforms. Digitalization helps customers by enabling direct transactions, access to credit, utility payments etc. without the need for third-party intervention or going to a physical branch or outlet.

Buy Now Pay Later (BNPL)

BNPL has emerged as a highly popular cashless credit avenue for digital-savvy young consumers. At its core, lie the principles of transparency, cost-efficiency and customer-centricity. BNPL companies like LazyPay are well-poised to address the huge gap in credit card usage in the country. Most people cannot apply for credit cards without credit histories and many remain reluctant due to the huge fees involved. Fintech organisations utilise scalable technology and can access alternative data for assessing buyers' creditworthiness and enable faster onboarding. This has led to easy access to credit for many young Indians. With consumer shopping habits experiencing a drastic shift towards e-commerce since the pandemic, BNPL will continue to remain in traction. There will always be times when people are cash-strapped and yet have to make necessary small and big-ticket purchases. The fact that BNPL offerings can be availed in offline stores through PoS (Point of Sale) devices means that small businesses will leverage this technology to increase sales and remain relevant. India's buy Now Pay Later market is expected to grow to $45-50 billion by 2026, from $3.5 billion in 2021.

Online Transactions and Data Security

Recently, the RBI has introduced Card Tokenisation. As per the guidelines, online platforms need to erase our stored debit or credit card details and replace them with a token to secure our data. In 2022 and beyond, we expect this to be implemented across apps and platforms. Tokenisation refers to replacing your card details with a code or "token", which would be unique to you and the device. This makes your transactions safer as the actual card details will not be shared with merchants during processing. So, you will no longer need to key in the 16-digit card number, expiry date, and CVV each time you order online.

Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning in Fintech

Now, let us discuss the scope of promoting financial inclusion in view of the latest and upcoming technology, which has been gradually gaining ground. Artificial Intelligence algorithms are maturing day by day and investments in this technology are increasing. It is transforming the consumer financial services market as well as consumers' interaction with the financial services ecosystem. AI helps the companies to use raw data, analyse it and provide recommended solutions which help financial institutions make informed decisions and stay ahead of the competition. Further, Machine Learning algorithms can calculate credit scores which will improve the financial institutions' ability to lend to customers with light credit history. AI can also predict frauds by observing behavioural patterns which will increase confidence among lenders while dealing with this thin file customer segment.

Scope of Blockchain Technology

Another novel technology that can lead to success in achieving the goal of financial inclusivity is the Blockchain. The term Blockchain refers to distributed digital ledgers. These ledgers employ consensus protocols to create a single version of the truth. Recorded entries cannot be altered due to encryption protocols, rendering the digital ledger immutable. These characteristics make Blockchain an attractive technology for providing transactions for parties with different interests such as lenders or borrowers. Increasing mobile banking among rural populations enables companies to deliver financial services through Blockchain technology. It further provides the credit history of the borrower to the lender, helping the lender monitor creditworthiness of the customers.

Robotic Automation in Financial Institutions

One of the most emerging technologies in the digital world is Robotic Process Automation (RPA) which helps financial institutions reduce cost and further the cause of financial inclusion in many ways. RPA enables banks to generate compliance reports automatically and track or identify fraudulent transactions. It is also used in customer onboarding by capturing data from KYC (Know Your Customer) documents using Optical Character Recognition (OCR) technology. RPA is also being used for account opening, making the process far more efficient compared to the manual one because it eliminates data transcript errors between the system and the customer. It also allows companies to automate the mortgage lending process which includes loan initiation, financial status analysis, documentation, automated customer service etc. Thus RPA helps the banks in terms of saving cost, time and productivity which is a major challenge for financial inclusion.

Role of Neo Banks

Neo Banks take the front-end of financial services to a much higher level by increasing the speed of services and reducing friction. They improve returns and transparency for customers while lowering the customer acquisition cost for their partner banks. Thus, they are serving the demographics that are "under-catered to by main street banks".

Bottlenecks to Effective Financial Inclusion

Financial organizations, governments, and authorities are constantly promoting financial inclusion through digital media. However, despite these wide promoting initiatives, digital financial inclusion is not progressing as predicted or as it should be on account of the following:-

- Consumer ideology is one of the major roadblocks to the achievement of an e-commerce enabled economy or financial inclusion. It is more difficult for emerging, private institutions to construct a degree of loyalty and confidence that will enhance customer ideology to shift their cash into digital account because of the legacies of government-owned banks.
- Digital finance supplier companies expanding to relatively low income regions are challenged by low literacy and the capacity of consumers to interpret the principles and implication of utilizing digital financial products. Consumers prefer cash, and sellers also transact in cash, staying in a cash system.

Virtual Interviews Made Easy

well. Although these may not be visible in an online interview, our attire always has a psychological impact on our confidence.

Background Matters

Would you like your prospective boss come to your unorganized or untidy room at your home? I am sure the answer is, 'No'. Then why should you let them see the same over a video call. An unmade bed, a cluttered couch ... all of these connotes information about you to the interviewer, and none of it is good. The first impression counts and stays. Whether you like it or not, unconscious biases can creep into the decision making process. So, find a neat and clean place at your home where the background is not only uncluttered but also not flashy. A simple light coloured wall behind you is most impressive; a book shelf with neatly arranged books or just a plain wall would do wonders. A very crucial advice is that this is absolutely not the time for your favorite virtual background or any type of filter at all. Stay natural. Where the visual background matters, the background sound also is crucial. A very noisy fan or sound of music or television, sound of family or kids, or pets can be distracting for you as well as the recruiter. Silence your phone; you do not want your WhatsApp messages diverting your attention. Hence, the neat and clean place also needs to be a quiet one, so that you eliminate all distractions both for yourself as well as your prospective employer.

Lighting Matters

Lights, Camera, Action! Yes, light matters, you do not want to be interviewed looking like you're cowering in the dark. Light falling on your face as well as a well lit up background gives a positive feel about you. I am very sure, you want the recruiters to view you in the best light possible; both figuratively and literally. During your video call, always remember to light yourself from the front. Allow natural light to fall on your face if possible, for extra light, use table lamps. However, be careful with the positioning of the light, as wrong angles may cause a glare on your eyeglasses. Avoid the usage of florescent lights.

Non-Verbal Language Matters

Undoubtedly, the words you speak matter, but it has been researched and proven time and again that non-verbal language matters as well and at times matters more. In a face to face interview, the way you enter a room, the way you wish, the way you sit and talk, speaks more about you as a person. Similarly, even in an online interview, the way you sit in front of the camera, your facial expressions, and how you speak matters. In fact here the focus is much more on your facial expressions. How to maintain eye contact with your recruiters is a big question in an online process. The answer is very simple, in fact more simple than a face to face interview; look directly into your camera. Making eye contact, both in a face to face and in an online process, helps foster a sense of unpretentious connection and attentiveness; it can make all the difference when trying to hit it off with your interviewer.

Also crucial is to stay focused and visibly engaged. The only way to show the recruiters that you are motivated and engaged is by practicing active listening. Do not sit with a 'freeze image' kind of a look. The look on an individual's face is often the first thing anyone will see and it is even more observed and analysed during an online interaction. A smile, frown, or grimace tells a lot about your mood, your confidence and how the subsequent conversation will go.

Peter Drucker, Austrian-American author and educator, had it very rightly, "The most important thing in communication is hearing what isn't said." Therefore show some nodding of your head to give affirmations of understanding while the recruiters talk, and ask clarifying questions when necessary. These affirmations show you are actively listening and are engaged in the process, subsequently showcasing your enthusiasm in the process and the profile.

Paralanguage Matters

Also crucial is your paralanguage, most importantly your rate of speech and the modulation. A very high rate of speech can portray nervousness, so monitor your speech. Do not go too slow, the recruiter will be disinterested and do not go too fast, the recruiter may get irritated. The correct modulation of your speech shows you are confident, also showcases your enthusiasm. No one likes to hear a dead voice, a flat monotone. High energy level of candidates is always contagious and appreciated by the panellists. Your bigger challenge during the interview is keeping the conversation lively and going so that the recruiters are not bored listening to you.

Smile to Impress

Do not forget to smile! A smile is the weapon you have with you to ward off any negativity during an interview, it is also the best symbol of confidence. Not only does it create a good impression on the interviewer but it can also make you happy and feel positive during the interview. In today's job market, recruiters do not just look for qualifications anymore; they look for the right person with a level of energy who would match and gel with their workplace environment. However, do not fake a smile, whether you realize it or not, the fake detector is always on. An interviewer can tell if you are faking a smile, which will destroy all your efforts. The best way is to find out what makes you excited about the job profile so your enthusiasm and energy is genuine. You also do not have to have a smile on your face at all times during your interview. This may show a lack of understanding or focus. Only at appropriate times during the interview, you should flash a smile.

Technology Matters

Practice beforehand to become an expert on whatever platform is chosen for your interview (WebEx, Zoom, Microsoft Teams, etc). Leave nothing to chance; if you have not used a particular platform before, download the interface and practice the features by doing some mock calls with a family member or a friend. This will ensure you avoid any technology related breakdowns during the interview. Do a speed test of your Wi-Fi. Poor internet can mean poor communication. It is imperative to ensure your internet is working at an optimum speed; you may even need to ask your family members or roommates to log out while you are in your interview. Virtual interviews can go horribly wrong if you are forgetting you are muted while speaking and even worse is unmuted when the recruiter is speaking or having some strange filter stuck on your face because you chose a virtual background.

Downsides of Online Interviews

Although a virtual interview process has quite a few upsides to it, like being in your comfort zone, rather than rushing through traffic snarls and making it to the venue in time, and many more, the virtual process also has downsides. Technical glitches can pose a major threat to your successfully nailing the interview. Adding to technical problems like, slow internet speed, there are many more glitches that you need to ensure do not happen or those that you can easily avoid.

Other downsides include your inability to visit physical offices, meet potential teammates, observe and understand the company's culture. Last but not least, remote opportunities and virtual interviews have given access to more people, mean more competitors for you.

For better or worse, virtual interviews and remote hiring are here to stay. While there are many unsurpassed advantages to this, there are many challenges as well. The process may be relatively new, however, you need to do your bit to ace the nuances of a virtual interview and nail it. Now that you have understood the vital aspects of the virtual interviews, in the next part of this series on 'Virtual Interviews Made Easy', I am going to discuss about Group Discussion and Personal Interview tips. Till then, keep reading, keep learning, that will keep you shining!

And as I always say to all, 'Carry your sunshine with you!'. You are sure to win hearts and your hard work will pay off! Remember there is no magic wand, only your persistent hard work can be the key to your success.

Financial Inclusion - Moving to a Digital ...

- Some shopkeepers and merchants feel that transitioning from a cash-based economy to a digital one will push small enterprises and people to pay taxes that are so far, not paying taxes.
- Many people living in remote and rural areas still do not have access to the network and digital infrastructure that is needed to foster confidence and frequent use of digital services.
- High pricing of data is also a challenge connecting rural folks to digital financial inclusion.

- The majority of digital financial products are available in English whereas rural folks prefer them in their local languages.
- The lack of relevant financial products is one of the most common obstacles to digital financial inclusion.

Towards the accomplishment of the above vision, when we think about taking digital financial services to every corner of India, we can easily think of taking it to 75 million people or 750 million, instead of 75 districts. In fact, we can stop thinking of absolute numbers and set a target of giving 100% of the eligible population access to formal financial channels. It is possible if everyone in the ecosystem-policymakers, regulators, and the new-age digital players, appreciate one another's role and work towards a common goal.

David Brear, CEO of 11:FS has aptly said:- "Technological innovations will be the heart and blood of the banking industry for many years to come and if big banks do not make the most of it, the new players from Fintech and large technology companies, surely will."

Blue Beaches

India's Journey towards Sustainability

The success of India's tourism sector hinges on the country's unique endowments of biodiversity, forests, rivers, and its rich culture and heritage. The challenges in this sector lie in successfully preserving these in their original form, and making them accessible to domestic and international travelers, together with safeguarding the economic interest and heritage of local communities. While the world is now emphasizing on 'sustainable development' in view of the adverse impact of human activity on climate, the same principle applies to the development of tourism sector as well. It has become necessary to ensure that the negative impact of activities related to tourism is not enlarged unrealistically and the sustainable development of tourist sites is maintained. India being a front-runner in the global action on climate change, has adopted a number of measures to promote eco-friendly and sustainable tourism.

In recognition of India's commitment to protect and conserve the pristine coastal and marine ecosystems through holistic management of the resources, the globally recognized and the coveted International eco-label 'Blue Flag' has been accorded by the Foundation for Environment Education (FEE) to two new beaches - Minicoy Thundi Beach and Kadmat Beach - both in Lakshadweep. This takes the number of Indian beaches certified as 'Blue Flag' to 12.

India's Blue Beaches

The Thundi Beach is one of the most pristine and picturesque beaches in the Lakshadweep archipelago where white sand is lined by turquoise blue water of the lagoon. It is a paradise for swimmers and tourists alike.

The Kadmat Beach is especially popular with cruise tourists who visit the island for water sports. It is a paradise for nature lovers with its pearl white sand, blue lagoon waters, its moderate climate and friendly locals.

Both the beaches have designated staff for beach cleanliness and maintenance; and for safety and security of swimmers. Both the beaches comply with all the 33 criteria mandated by the Foundation for Environment Education (FEE).

The other Indian beaches in the blue list are Shivrajpur-Gujarat, Ghoghla-Diu, Kasarkod and Padubidri-

Karnataka, Kappad- Kerala, Rushikonda - Andhra Pradesh, Golden Beach- Odisha, Radhanagar- Andaman and Nicobar, Kovalam in Tamil Nadu and Eden in Puducherry.

What is Blue Flag Certification?

The mission of FEE's Blue Flag is to promote sustainability in the tourism sector, through environmental education, environmental protection and other sustainable development practices. In order to qualify for this prestigious award, a series of stringent environmental, educational, safety-related and access-related criteria must be met and maintained. Over 5,000 beaches, marinas, and tourism boats in 48 countries have been awarded the label so far.

Started back in 1987, the Blue Flag programme is celebrating its 35th anniversary this year. Blue Flag also campaigns against disparity, inequality, unemployment, health threats, and depletion of natural resources, environmental threats, pollution and general environmental degradation. The Blue Flag engages and contributes to all the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

In India, under the Integrated Coastal Zone Management Project, the Ministry of Environment, Forest & Climate Change (MoEFCC) has piloted Beach Environment & Aesthetic Management Service (BEAMS) programme. Under this programme, various activities related to pollution abatement, beach awareness, aesthetics, safety, surveillance services and environment education, etc., have been done at identified beaches aimed to achieve international standards for Blue Flag certification.

What is BEAMS?

Conceived by the Society of Integrated Coastal Management (SICOM) under MoEFCC, the objective of BEAMS is to abate pollution in coastal waters, promote sustainable development of beach facilities, protect and conserve coastal ecosystems and natural resources, and challenge local authorities and stakeholders to strive and maintain high standards of cleanliness, hygiene and safety for beachgoers in accordance with coastal environment regulations. This programme promotes beach recreation in absolute harmony with nature.

A clean beach is the primary indicator of coastal environmental quality, management and economic health of beach tourism. BEAMS aims to reduce pollutants, promote sustainable development and strive for high standards in the areas of (i) environmental management (ii) environmental education (iii) bathing water quality (iv) safety and security services scientifically.

In the last few years, the MoEFCC has achieved commendable results in environmental management of the Blue Flag beaches. Some of them are enumerated below:

1. Sand dune restoration and nourishment of 95,000 sqm (approx.) with native plantation
2. Reduction in marine litter by 85 per cent and 78 per cent in marine plastic in the last 3 years
3. Scientific and responsible disposal of 750 tonnes of marine litter.
4. Improvement in cleanliness level from 'C' (poor) to 'A++' (outstanding) through scientific measurement system
5. Saving of 1100 ML/year of municipal water through recycling
6. 3 years' database on regular testing of bathing water quality (physical, chemical and biological contamination) and health risk monitoring
7. Approx. 1,25,000 beachgoers have been educated for responsible behaviour at the beaches
8. Increase in footfall for recreation activities by approximately 80 per cent leading to economic development
9. Alternate livelihood opportunities for 500 fishermen families through pollution abatement, safety & services

In the 94th edition of 'Mann ki Baat', Prime Minister Narendra Modi talked about how India has become one of the largest countries to generate electricity from solar energy. Solar energy panels are one of the most popular sources of renewable energy which can be utilized both on a small scale as well as large scale. Are you also a user of the same? Do you feel that solar energy has transformed or changed the pace of development of your area/community?

Question: It has been almost two months since the launch of Azadi Quest games, brought to you by the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting in collaboration with Zynga. Have you played the game yet? What new did you learn about India's freedom movement? Also, what is your take on such kind of edutainment?

DEVASHRI MANANI

GUJARAT

Once, Aristotle was asked, how much, educated men were superior to the uneducated. "As much," he said, "as the living are to the dead." This line aptly describes the importance education holds in the life of a person. Knowledge gained from education, is what helps humans to make decisions in their lives. But in today's world, despite possible obloquy, I hold the opinion that the institutions imparting education have certainly showed us a fine line between schooling and gaining knowledge. As Mark Twain also once rightly said, "I don't let my schooling interfere with my education", we can see that we can educate ourselves not only from books but also from things happening around us in our daily lives. Our lives now a days have come to be dominated by smartphones, which were invented, merely, to help us communicate. In times like these, the government has discovered an effective way of imparting education. I felt so proud when I learnt about the Azadi Quest games because it meant that the government not only realized the real problem, excessive use of technology by children, but also brought an equally handy solution, in the form of edutainment. Personally, when I tried playing the games, I was motivated to learn much more about Indian Independence than I was when I used to mug up things from my textbooks. This new move, which could possibly shape future ways of teaching, has thumbs up from me.
