NATIONAL LOGISTICS POLICY 2022

A PUSH FOR ACHIEVING GLOBAL STANDARDS

Atul K Thakur

Modernising the logistics sector is not an optional action plan, more so for a country like India which has a large stake in international trade and with a propensity to grow further in the world order.

The World Bank Logistics Performance Index (2018) ranked India 44th in terms of the ease and efficiency with which products can be moved into and inside the country. The Index is a weighted average of the country's scores on six key dimensions: customs performance, infrastructure quality, ease of arranging shipments, logistics services quality, consignments tracking and tracing and timeliness of shipments. The ranking did not concur with the country's standing of prominence in the global economy and its ambitions. Therefore, the need for a comprehensive logistics policy was felt in order to meet global standards as reduced logistics cost improves efficiency, cutting across various sectors of the economy, encouraging value addition and enterprise.

There are numerous reasons that can be attributed to the various hiccups faced by India's logistics sector. The major ones being (i) India's logistics sector is largely unorganised and fragmented (ii) the sector has been running without a cost advantage (iii) the regulatory framework is complex and governed by numerous stakeholders. There are more than 20 government agencies, 40 PGAs (Partner Government Agencies), 37 export promotion councils, 500 certifications, 10000 commodities. It also involves a huge employment base, 200 shipping agencies, 36 logistics services, 129 Inland Container Depots (ICDs), 168

Container Freight Stations (CFSs), 50 IT (Information Technology) ecosystems and banks & insurance agencies. Further, 81 authorities and 500 certificates are required for Export-Import (EXIM).

In numbers, it is hard to ascertain the exact cost percentage on logistics in India while there is conformity that it is well above the average of developed countries. The policy seeks to reduce the logistics cost from 14 percent of Gross Domestic Product (GDP) to a global average of 8 per cent by 2030. Investment Information and Credit Rating Agency of India Limited (ICRA) estimates that the sector will develop at a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 10.5 per cent through 2025 after growing at a CAGR of 7.8 per cent over the past five years.

At the heart of the policy is a push for laying down an interdisciplinary, cross-sectoral and multi-jurisdictional framework for positioning logistics at par with developed countries by rationalising the terms and action.

NLP: Implementation Road-map

It is estimated that the worth of the Indian logistics market will be around USD 215 billion in next two years compared to about USD 160 billion at present. The

CAREERS IN SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT & LOGISTICS

The vision of the National Logistics Policy is "to develop a technologically enabled, integrated, cost-efficient, resilient, sustainable and trusted logistics ecosystem in the country for accelerated and inclusive growth." The National Logistics Policy clearly lays down an action agenda for immediate on ground implementation of various initiatives; human resource development and creation of a pool of skilled manpower is one of them. This will require mainstreaming of logistics in higher education, upskilling and re-skilling of existing workforce.

Currently, the Indian logistics sector provides livelihood to more than 22 million people. The National Logistics Policy will improve India's performance in global rankings and pave the way for India to become a global logistics hub. It is estimated that the worth of Indian logistics market will be around USD 215 billion in next two years compared to about USD 160 billion at present. Further, the policy will facilitate 10% decrease in indirect logistics cost leading to the growth of 5 to 8% in exports. Therefore, a plethora of employment opportunities will be added not only in the logistics sector per se but also the entire gamut of sectors involved in the value chain.

National Logistics Human Resource Strategy

Logistics is very important for any company as, without its proper execution, the company would cease to function and there would be chaos all over the organization. Currently in India, there is a noticeable lack of skilled manpower, inadequate system for job role identification and competency mapping. So how can you qualify yourself to help fill the void? By getting educated!

The National Logistics Policy envisages that the Logistics Sector-Skill Council (LSSC) with the guidance of the Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship and the Department of Higher Education will pursue development of an overarching National Logistics Human Resource Strategy based on stakeholder consultation. The strategy will include mapping of each logistics sector job role to a nodal line Ministry/Department. The strategy will also provide a roadmap for promoting uniform

360° View of India's Right to Information Act

Darpan Mago

The Centre for Law and Democracy (CLD) ranks India 8th (2021 ratings) in terms of the efficacy of its Right to Information (RTI) Act. Evaluating the spot in comparison to the ranking of the United States, considered one of the most developed nations, which stands at the 74th position, India's RTI journey has been progressive. CLD is a non-profit based in Canada which releases the RTI rankings in collaboration with Access Info Europe (AIE), a Spain-based non-profit. The ranking analyses a country's legal framework and enablers provided by the Government to its citizens to conveniently access the information contained in Government documents. While this rating does not assess India's active or live performance towards execution or implementation of the RTI Act, yet can be seen as a credible measure of the strength and power that is enshrined in the RTI law and conduciveness in the system towards supplying information to its citizens hassle-free. The top 10 countries in CLD rankings are as under:

Ranking	Country	Marks Scored (out of 150)
1	Afghanistan	139
2	Mexico	136
3	Serbia	135
4	Sri Lanka	131
5	Slovenia	129
6	Albania	127
7	Gambia	127
8	India	127
9	Croatia	127
10	Liberia	126

The yardsticks chosen by CLD and AIE to generate the rankings are publicly available on their website and might not be exhaustive yet are elaborate enough. These rankings have been chosen for this article because both organizations, prima facie, seem credible in their marking framework and analysis, with their work being popularly quoted by both Indian and international media houses.

The Genesis of RTI in India

Before the RTI Act promulgated in 2005, all initial methods to seek information from the Government were complicated and often involved elaborate judicial procedures and authoritative due diligence of the Government officials. Releasing the information was like letting out gold reserves from Government vaults. All this conscientiousness was unnecessary, which was more of an obsolete approach left by the British rulers to hide information and retain power.

Giving access to information to citizens is a well-defined right equal to the fundamental right of freedom of expression guaranteed by Article 19 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948) of the United Nations. Importantly, this article might not be exhaustive on historical events that led to the birth of the RTI Act in India, yet sincerely attempts have been made to encapsulate many of those events, which were a precursor to the final RTI Act that is in place today. Beyond what has been captured here, there might be other important events and contributions.

Initially, the Right to Information about Government's functions was first echoed in several court proceedings like in the 1975 case of the State of Uttar Pradesh vs Raj Narain, wherein the Supreme Court bench led by Justice KK Mathew, ordered to disclose the Blue Book to the applicant titled "Rules and instructions for the protection of the Prime Minister when on tour or in travel." Herein, the Hon'ble Supreme Court ordered that part of the documents be disclosed to the applicant from this 'Blue Book' because the citizen has the right to know and that it was in the public interest. After many similar cases, the debate about giving the citizens free access to government information gained momentum.

In India, the Right to Information Act came into existence primarily through the efforts of the Mazdoor Kisan Shakti Sangathan (MKSS), a non-partisan and non-governmental organization working for the upliftment of peasants and workers in rural areas of Rajasthan. When these workers faced a series of systematic instances of corruption, they sat on a historic 40-day long protest in Beawar in the year 1996 to open the Government's information vaults and seek access to vital information about their wage work like vouchers, bills and muster rolls of public works in Panchayats. On witnessing this struggle Prabhakar Joshi, a Hindi journalist of Gandhian bent, pledged his strong support to the struggles of these people and wrote an editorial in the newspaper Jansatta titled: 'Hum Janenge, Hum Jiyeenge, which later became a popular slogan -

'The Right to Know and the Right to Live'.

Further, in 1977 the commotion around the choked information corridors of India resurfaced when the then Government led by Morarji Desai constituted a working group to ascertain the usefulness of the Official Secrets Act, 1923, enacted by the British, which was then considered the biggest hurdle in the release of Government information to the public. A few years later in 1989-90, the then Prime Minister VP Singh became the first politician to recognize the importance of information release and attempted to enact a legislation, but political instability thwarted the effort.

In 1996, the National Campaign for People's Right to Information (NCPRI) was formed, which resulted in a nascent draft of the RTI law in India. This group comprised people working in academia and leaders of progressive community movements like lawyers, journalists, activists and retired civil servants. NCPRI, along with the Press Council of India, came up with the first draft of the RTI bill. On 04th May 1997, Tamil Nadu became the first Indian state to pass the RTI law. However, the bill was deemed to have many loopholes and hence faced a lot of criticism. Nevertheless, states like Goa, Madhya Pradesh and the NCT of Delhi followed suit shortly.

In 2002, the Parliament passed the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), which was a precursor to the RTI Act and a better version of what was there in Tamil Nadu and other states. This law applied to all of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir (now a Union Territory). This version also came under criticism as it did not fairly recognise a citizen's right to be entitled to critical information on the Government's functions, and also curbed the appeal mechanism without introducing any independent body to offer relief to dissatisfied citizens. It further ran the risk of being misused because it had a provision to reject applications that were perceived as "general information" by any Government body. When people who need the RTI Act the most, are often from the grassroots, and might not be as precise and artful in questioning, this rejection provision in FOIA kept the entire onus of releasing information on the Government in good faith.

Observing the limitations of the Freedom of Information Act, NCPRI continued its efforts, which contributed to strengthening and suggesting changes in this Act. In 2004, the inputs from NCPRI were presented to the National Advisory Council (NAC) to make this law even stronger and more effective. Despite some political hiccups, amid pressure from the civil society, a strict version of FOIA, 2002 transitioned to become the RTI bill, which was passed by the parliament and finally promulgated as the Right to Information Act, 2005 on October 12, 2005.

Concept of Public Authority (PA) under the RTI Act

Any entity from which the information is being sought by the applicant, under the RTI Act, is known as a Public Authority. All Government bodies are Public Authorities, but not all Public Authorities might be seen as Government bodies. Some non-Government bodies can also be brought under its purview. What would happen if a body, which is supported or funded by the Government, yet is not administered by it, goes on to dispute its compliance with the RTI Act? This non-compliance would certainly raise questions about transparency.

However, Indian lawmakers are a step ahead and had already envisioned this situation before hand. So that such bodies that are supported by the Government through funding, do not try to escape their responsibilities and transparency norms under the RTI Act, the term Public Authority has been beautifully and cleverly introduced in the RTI Act. Below is the interesting definition of Public Authority (PA) quoted from the RTI Act itself:

"Public Authority means any authority or body or institution of self-government established or constituted-

- by or under the Constitution;
- by any other law made by Parliament;
- by any other law made by State Legislature;
- by notification issued or order made by the appropriate Government, and includes any-
 - body owned, controlled or substantially financed;
 - Non-Government organization substantially financed, directly or indirectly by funds provided by the appropriate Government"

To un-complicate, any entity or a body, which has been covered under the Right to Information law is safely known as a Public Authority (PA) instead of being a called Government body, which as the name suggests, is answerable and accountable to the people of India. Every citizen of India has a right to complain about any entity, directly or indirectly financed by the Government, to the Central Information Commission, State Information Commissions or Courts, if it is not adhering to the RTI Act, even if such entity is not directly run or owned by the Government. Importantly, then the decision to bring such bodies under the purview of the RTI Act is up to these judicial bodies.

Indian Sign Language An Inclusive Communication

Hon'ble Prime Minister, Shri Narendra Modi, in his recent 'Mann ki Baat', talked in length about the Indian Sign Language and Indian Sign Language Research and Training Centre (ISLRTC). He talked about how the campaign about sign language that had started in the country 7-8 years ago, with the establishment of ISLRTC, is benefitting millions of specially-abled persons. Let us get to know more about the Indian Sign Language.

What is Sign Language?

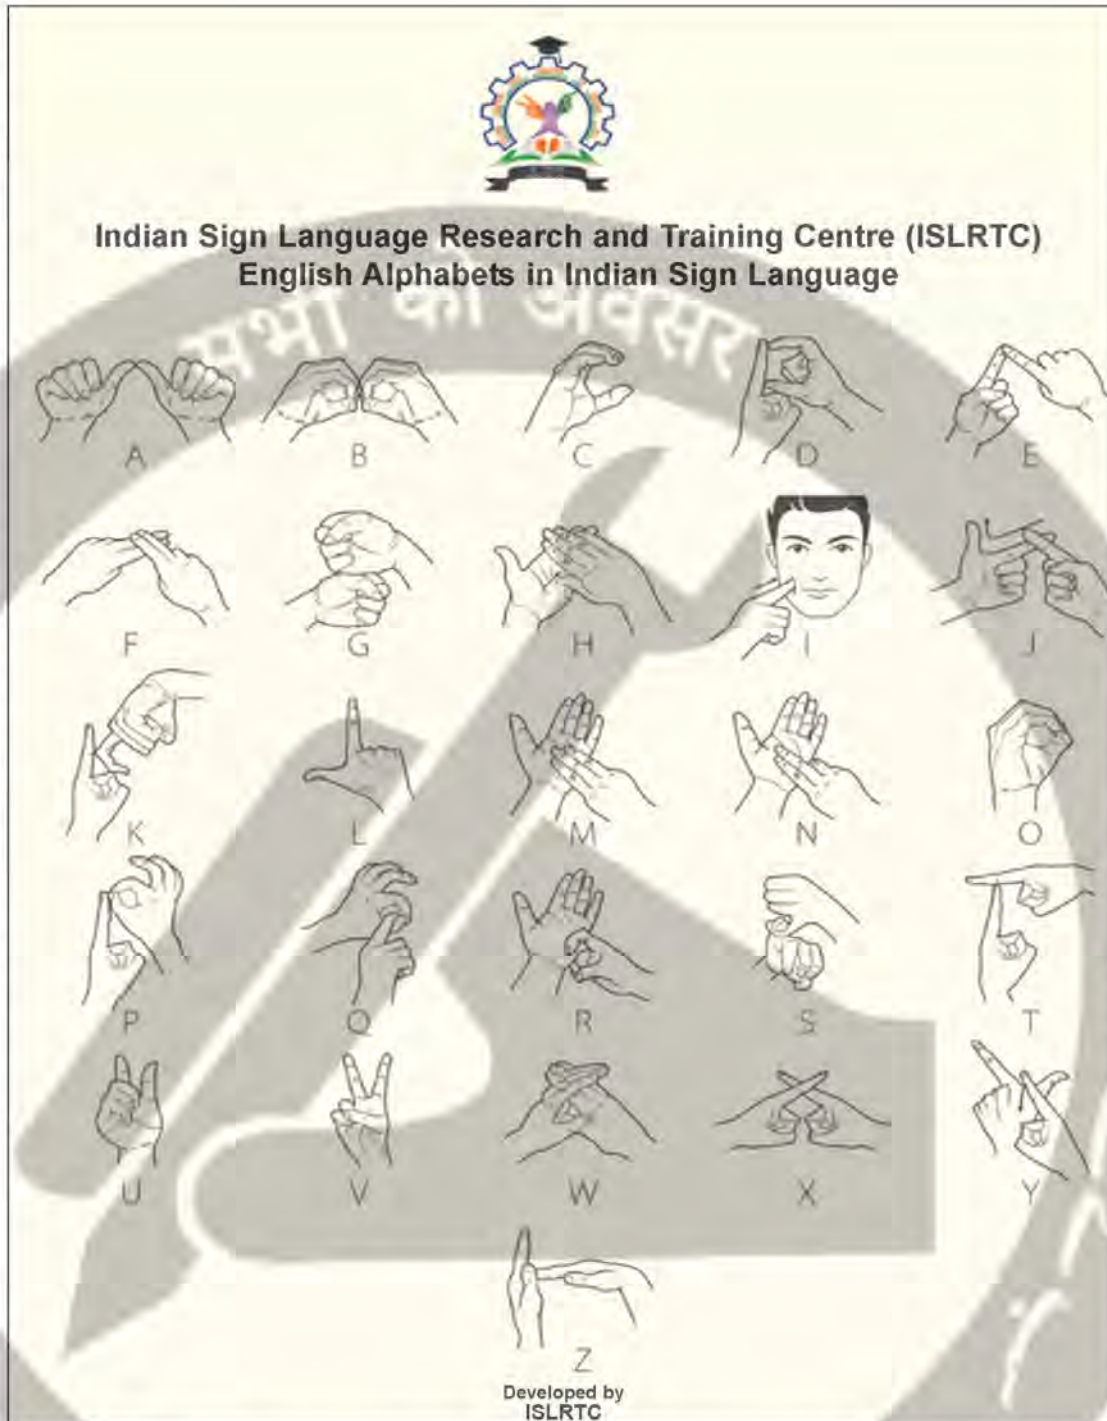

Britannica defines 'sign language' as any means of communication through bodily movements, especially of the hands and arms, used when spoken communication is impossible or not desirable. The practice is probably older than speech. Sign language may be as coarsely expressed as mere grimaces, shrugs, or pointings; or it may employ a delicately nuanced combination of coded manual signals reinforced by facial expression and perhaps augmented by words spelled out in a manual alphabet. Wherever vocal communication is impossible, as between speakers of mutually unintelligible languages or when one or more would-be communicators is deaf, sign language can be used to bridge the gap.

Indian Sign Language

Indian Sign Language is used in the deaf community all over India. The deaf community in India in urban areas comes together in educational institutions, deaf clubs and associations, and social gatherings. In rural areas, deaf people are usually isolated from each other and have no or little access to any sign language. Therefore, the use of Indian Sign Language is currently concentrated in towns and cities. It remains a major challenge to provide access to Indian Sign Language for persons with hearing impairment in rural areas. It was imperative that an independent institute on Indian Sign Language be set up so that there is exclusive focus on promoting Indian Sign Language and conducting training and research on ISL.

Indian Sign Language Research and Training Centre (ISLRTC), New Delhi, an autonomous body under the Department of Empowerment of Persons with Disabilities (Divyangjan), Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, was established in 2015. The Centre's vision is to build an inclusive society in which equal opportunities are provided for the growth and development of Persons with Disabilities so that they can lead productive, safe and dignified lives. The objectives of the ISLRTC include:

- Developing manpower for using Indian Sign Language (ISL) and teaching and conducting research in ISL,

- including bilingualism;
- Promoting the use of ISL as an educational medium for deaf students at primary, secondary and higher education levels;
- Carrying out research through collaboration with universities and other educational institutions in India and abroad and create linguistic records/ analyses of the ISL, including creation of ISL corpus (vocabulary);
- Orienting and training various groups, i.e. Government officials, teachers, professionals, community leaders and the public at large for understanding and using ISL;
- Collaborating with organizations of the deaf and other institutions in the field of disability to promote and propagate ISL; and
- Collecting information relating to sign language used in other parts of the world so that this input can be used to upgrade the Indian Sign Language.

In 2018, the first Indian Sign Language Dictionary of 3,000 words was launched. Today the dictionary has 10,000 words. Developed by Indian Sign Language Research & Training Centre (ISLRTC) under Department of Empowerment of Persons with Disabilities (DEPwD), M/o Social Justice & Empowerment, the dictionary consists of various categories of words. The ISL dictionary consists of words of five categories:

- Everyday Terms: This category includes terms that are used in everyday communication. The videos contain the sign and the corresponding English term.
- Legal Terms: This category includes videos for 237 legal terms that help explain complicated legal terminology like "Affidavit", "Acquittal", etc., that are used in various legal situations.
- Academic Terms: To help deaf children understand complex academic concepts, the academic dictionary contains explanations for terms like "Nervous System", "Rotation" and "Revolution", etc. The words are from various subjects like Physics, Geography, Biology, Maths, etc. This category contains 229 videos for 212 terms.
- Medical Terms: This category includes 200 sign videos for 200 medical terms that will help the deaf community to better understand medical terminology used in hospitals and in medical situations.

- Technical Terms: This category has 206 videos of signs and explanations in ISL for 204 technical terms that are used in vocational training or in computer courses.

The ISLRTC has developed an ISL Dictionary for deaf people and hearing people, offering them the maximum words to learn and expressing their feelings, ideas, etc. The aim of the ISL dictionary is to help spread the use of ISL and result in better education and employment opportunities for deaf people. The dictionary is intended to serve as a resource for ISL teachers, ISL learners, teachers of the deaf, interpreters, parents of deaf children, researchers, etc. Deaf users will benefit from this dictionary since they can look up information about a particular sign and its English/Hindi equivalents.

The ISL Dictionary also contains regional signs used in different parts of the country. The basic idea is to remove communication barriers between the deaf and hearing communities. Its aim is to give deaf people the constitutional right to speech and opportunity of freedom of expression and also bring them into the mainstream of the society. A word list was also given with the English and Hindi equivalents of the signs. The academic, medical, legal and technical terms have explanations in ISL so that deaf can understand the complex terms that are commonly used in education or in legal or medical situations.

Since the launch, the ISL Dictionary has been utilized by special educators, ISL interpreters, parents of children with hearing disabilities, professionals in the field, organizations working with people with hearing disabilities as well as by the general public. The dictionary is also being used as a resource to develop educational content for children with disabilities and speech/text-to-sign and sign-to-speech/text machine translation software. The ISL Dictionary is a crucial resource for promoting awareness about ISL, facilitating communication and providing better accessibility services to persons with hearing disabilities, and thus is a necessary step in realizing the goals of the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (RPwD) Act, 2016.

Indian Sign Language in NEP

The National Education Policy 2020 at para 4.22, inter-alia, recommends for standardization of the Indian Sign Language (ISL) across the country and development of National and State curriculum materials for use by students with hearing impairment. The National Council of Educational Research and Training (NCERT) has signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the ISLRTC for developing NCERT textbook based videos in Indian Sign Language. The ISL Dictionary, launched in video format, and is available on DIKSHA Portal for wider access and dissemination among stakeholders. NCERT is strengthening this dictionary by embedding audio and subtitles in the videos so that the reach of the 10,000 words dictionary is not restricted to the hearing impaired only. In addition, NCERT is also collaborating with ISLRTC to add new terms and words based on school curriculum to the existing ISL Dictionary of 10,000 words. So far, NCERT has developed 800 plus ISL videos from classes I to VI and uploaded on DIKSHA for its use by hearing impaired (HI) persons. These videos are also disseminated through PM eVidya (One Class, One Channel), DTH TV Channels, on a regular basis to ensure coherent access to these e-contents.

CAREERS IN SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT ...

presence of training institutes across the country. A target of six months from now has been set for finalizing the strategy.

Why Choose Logistics as a Career?

India has a large stake in international trade with a propensity to grow further in the world order. Every trade, business or organization has a supply chain management setup to take care of the elementary steps that begin with obtaining the raw material and ending with taking the finished product to store shelves or client's door. However, its management is not the task of a single person whether it is a huge enterprise or a small business. A well-managed team can make it successful and logistics is the most important piece of the supply chain management (SCM) puzzle.

Role of Logisticians in SCM

The job of logisticians falls under the broader umbrella of supply chain management (SCM). Typical job duties include developing relationships with suppliers, ensuring all materials are transported on time, understanding customer needs and finding ways to minimize the cost of moving goods and materials. Many other people in the supply chain will depend on the logistician. It is the logistician's diligence and planning that will allow everyone else to do their job, but there may be sticky situations when the unexpected occurs. This means the logistician needs to keep calm under pressure and communicate effectively to stakeholders who are likely under pressure as well.

Common Logistics Job Profiles

Logistics offer a wide range of career choices. Professionals in this sector have the lucky option of working for a variety of domains including the manufacturing sector, airlines, shipping, rail road, Online Export-Import Facilitators (OEIFs), retail chains, e-commerce platforms, defence sector, etc. So, whether you have recently completed a degree in this field or you simply want to change careers, following is a list of careers that are considered the best in logistics.

Freight Agent: A freight agent coordinates, oversees and tracks the shipment of goods through airlines, trains or shipping docks. They ensure that shipments are picked up and delivered on time, paperwork is completed, and fees are collected. For international shipments, agents prepare and verify customs and tariff forms. They coordinate transportation and logistics details with shipping and freight companies, determine shipping methods and routes from pick-up location to final destination, advise clients on transportation and payment options. They also estimate, negotiate, and determine postal rates, shipment costs, and other charges. Notifying the clients of cargo shipments, status en route, and time of delivery are also part of their job. Agents also prepare bills of lading, invoices, and other required shipping documents. They have to trace lost shipments when necessary. Cargo and freight agents typically manage shipments for multiple clients at once. They often arrange their clients' cargo and freight by destination, and send out many shipments simultaneously.

Supply Chain Manager: Supply chain managers are one of the lead logistics positions in a company. If you consider yourself managerial and communicative, this role might be for you. Supply chain managers oversee the import or creation of raw materials to be used by a business. They track the materials as they are combined, shaped, and altered to form new products, and monitor these items all throughout the product development process. This ensures that adequate supplies are on hand. Lastly, they develop a delivery system that will ensure maximum product creation and optimal shipments to customers or other manufacturers for further use. Ideally, the manager will be able to bring in fresh ideas that allow the company to deliver its products at higher quantities or at a faster rate to the market.

Warehouse Logistics Manager: The Warehouse Logistics Manager's main responsibility is to oversee and organise the operational tasks of storage for shipping client orders in the quantities and time frame required. He ensures the optimisation of the daily tasks in order to facilitate flow (unpacking, returns, preparation, shipment). As a manager he allocates the workload within the warehouse's operational staff and ensures the updating of inventory and transfers to other depots. He optimises the operational costs and ensures the purchase of warehouse consumables. He also participates in the improvement of safety conditions of the warehouse.

Transportation Analyst: Transportation analysts identify problem areas and budget deviations in a company's transportation and supply network. Their job is to collect and interpret data, identify faults, and prepare recommendations to save the company's time and money. They analyse the planning and movement of supplies using specialised software and determine new processes for inventory management, supply chain plans or procurement.

Logistics Engineer: These professionals apply scientific and mathematical engineering principles to the distribution of consumer goods and services to build more efficient infrastructure. They evaluate all aspects and methods of distribution or supply chain to improve efficiency and generate higher profits for their employer. They handle inventory, process orders, plan warehouse layouts, and help design product packaging for better and more streamlined shipping efficiency.

Inventory Manager: Job responsibilities include devising ways to optimize inventory control procedures; inspecting the levels of business supplies and raw material to identify shortages; ensuring product stock is adequate for all distribution channels and can cover direct demand from customers. A successful inventory manager is a reliable professional with excellent record-keeping abilities. They possess great attention to detail and a business mindset. The goal is to ensure that all business operations have adequate material to achieve their objectives.

Procurement Manager: A Procurement Manager, or Purchasing Manager, oversees a company's sourcing capabilities and supply chain. They are responsible for finding and evaluating suppliers, products and services, negotiating contracts and acquiring the most cost-efficient deals without compromising on quality. By networking and building relationships with suppliers, procurement managers can successfully work towards their goal of implementing cost-saving strategies and improving overall company operations.

Customer Service Representative: A logistics customer service representative acts as the middleman between clients or suppliers and the logistics team. They will communicate any issues to engineers or managers and relay the solutions to the client or supplier. This job also involves offering quotations, handling sales invoices and maintaining client records. Ideally, a customer service representative in this field should have experience or knowledge of logistics in order to properly understand the process and have a firm grasp of client and supplier concerns.

Logistics Consultant: Logistics consultants typically have a wide range of responsibilities, which can include planning and managing complex supply chains across multiple modes of transportation. They help companies improve efficiency through the use of technology, such as electronic data interchange (EDI) systems. They require creating reports based on analyses of performance data to help clients make strategic decisions about operations. Consultants also dig for new market opportunities for clients by identifying customer needs, goals, and preferences. They analyze data to determine the best locations for new warehouses or distribution centers based on population density, economic growth potential, and other factors. A career as a logistics consultant requires travelling to different distribution sites, maintaining relationships with clients and managing several projects at once.

International Logistics Manager: International logistics managers coordinate with overseas vendors to manage import activities in order to meet service level expectations. They also develop and implement supply chain strategy for international business expansions; assist in managing shipment and custom activities for import services and negotiate sea and air freight quotes with carriers. While doing so, they identify opportunities for cost reduction, material flow improvement, and business development. They create and maintain detailed financial reporting on all import activities including order management, logistics and shipping. International logistics managers will have to ensure that all the companies' logistics activities are carried out in accordance with local, national and international customs and regulations.

Educational Programmes/Courses

Transport and Logistics courses are offered under the umbrella of supply chain management specialisation. Transport & Logistics deals with planning, implementing, and controlling the storage of goods and services, from point of origin to consumption. Owing to rapid growth in e-commerce and other related industries, a career in the transport & logistics field provides a promising future.

Students pursuing transport & logistics courses are taught about purchasing, warehousing, decision inventory management, material management, supply chain analytics, supply chain benchmarking etc. so that as Supply Chain or Transport managers candidates can plan and manage growth, quality and stream of goods and services in a professional environment.

The most successful logisticians have a strong understanding of Supply Chain Management as a whole. Therefore, degree program focused squarely on Supply Chain and Logistics Management can provide an excellent foundation for understanding how all of the individual elements of supply chain management fit together. In India, transport & logistics courses are available at the certificate level, degree level, postgraduate diploma and postgraduate degree levels. Students can pursue transport & logistics courses either full-time or through distance learning. Some institutes offer an MBA with specialization in supply chain management, operations management and logistics.

The courses at all levels aim to provide a cutting-edge experience to candidates who wish to enter the operations, supply chain and logistics industry. Most of the programmes will offer you the following insights:

- Introduction to Operations Management.
- Business Statistics and Analytics
- Quality Management
- Supply Chain Management
- Logistics
- Contemporary Topics and Operations and Supply Chain
- Project Management (On the job training)

Eligibility: For undergraduate courses, candidates need to have cleared 10+2 from a recognized board. For postgraduate courses, candidates need to have graduation or equivalent education from a recognized university. For pursuing an MBA with specialization in supply chain management and logistics, candidates may also require to pass the entrance examinations conducted at national and state levels. Candidates qualifying the entrance exams will have to appear for group discussion and personal interview rounds. Listed below are some examinations for admission to Transport & Logistics courses:

- CAT (Common Admission Test): It is the gateway to IIMs, FMS Delhi, IMT, SPJIMR, IIT-DoMS, MDI Gurgaon, IMI Delhi and other top ranked MBA colleges.
- XAT (Xavier Aptitude Test): This is the gateway to XLRI Xavier School of Management, Jamshedpur.
- CMAT (Common Management Admission Test): It is conducted by the NTA (National Testing Agency) and valid for admission to all government institutions. Many private institutes also accept CMAT score for admission.
- MAT (Management Aptitude Test): It is conducted by the All India Management Association (AIMA) multiple times a year. This is also a gateway for 800+ MBA Colleges in India.
- SNAP (Symbiosis National Aptitude Test): It is a national-level test held in computer-based mode for admission in more than 26 MBA /M.Sc. programmes offered by 15 Symbiosis International (Deemed) University affiliated institutes.
- ATMA (AIMS Test for Management Admissions): Conducted by the Association of Indian Management Schools (AIMS), the test is one of the popular national level MBA entrance exams for admission to MBA, PGDM, PGDBA and other post graduate management courses. ATMA is recognized as quality test by AICTE and Ministry of HRD, Govt of India. About 200 MBA colleges across India accept ATMA score for MBA admission.
- NMAT by GMAC (National Management Aptitude Test by Graduate Management Admission Council): The

NATIONAL LOGISTICS POLICY 2022 ...

National Logistics Policy 2022 has eight action areas that will be implemented through the Comprehensive Logistics Action Plan (CLAP): (i) Integrated Digital Logistics Systems (ii) Standardisation of physical assets and benchmarking service quality standards (iii) Logistics Human Resources Development and Capacity Building (iv) State Engagement (v) EXIM (Export-Import) Logistics (vi) Service Improvement framework (vii) Sectoral Plan for Efficient Logistics (viii) Facilitation of Development of Logistics Parks.

Four key actions for immediate implementation are:

- Digital integration: There will be digital integration of different systems of seven various departments (like road transport, railways, aviation, commerce ministries and foreign trade).
- Unified Logistics Interface Platform (ULIP): This has been prepared as an integrated portal in which information about the location of goods can be obtained on a real-time basis with considerable ease. This National Industrial Corridor Development Corporation (NICDC) Logistics Data Bank Project has been leveraged.
- Ease of Logistics (ELOG): This will enable transparency and accessibility.
- System Improvement Group (SIG): This will monitor all logistics-related projects regularly.

It is vital to note that there is a low rate of technological adoption across different stakeholders. Usually the logistics cost is increased by the high indirect expenses brought on by erratic supply chains and subpar first and last-mile connectivity. The above-mentioned policy interventions are to ensure that logistical problems are minimized, exports increase significantly, and small businesses and the workforce involved gain substantial profit.

Also, it would be important to create a single window e-logistics market and focus on the generation of employment and skills, and make Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) nationally and globally competitive. For capacity-building and making the logistics sector process-driven in India, an integrated digital system will help in a big way for facilitating a unified regulatory environment and policy across the country. A unified policy environment will be helpful if seamless integration is ensured in implementation phases.

How NLP Enhances India's Economic Outlook

Cutting down the response time, cost, waste and exponentially improving the coordination and efficiency for a robust last-mile connectivity should lead the National Logistics Policy to exactly make the impact where it is required most in a value chain. At the time when India is in a race of offering the world its manufacturing capability and thus housing the production facilities of major multinational companies (in addition to what all exists), it is sacrosanct to strategise competitiveness and processes. Attracting new investments in the post-pandemic times will depend a lot on how the transformed processes and competitiveness are giving India an edge above its competitors. The positive momentum shall ensure greater demand of Indian products (besides services where India already leads) in the global market. A scenario like this will enthuse the possibilities at macro level with quality employment and economic growth.

How NLP Complements India's International Trade Targets

It wouldn't be over-optimism in recognising the logistics sector as the most crucial determinant of India's international trade, essentially so for its key role in domestic and international movements of the products and thus giving a much needed traction to the value system and exports. Improving the logistics sector will facilitate a 10% decrease in indirect logistics cost leading to the growth of 5 to 8% in exports. The National Logistics Policy is made to promote seamless movement of goods and equipping the Indian industries to cope with the challenges that are upfront as India is aspiring for a greater integration with the world market for diversifying its products and leveraging the next phase of globalisation but without compromising on its resolve of 'self-reliance'. While it appears in dichotomy, the fact remains that India is open for the world and its enhanced industrial capacity is the next big thing to be explored through international business partnerships and collaboration. With the endowed natural and human resources and conducive business environment, the world's largest democracy (India) is offering a hope to the world for a closer economic interface.

How NLP Complements Previous Connectivity Projects

The National Logistics Policy's transformational capacities further increase when combined with previous connectivity and infrastructure improvement schemes like:

- Gati Shakti: While development of integrated infrastructure and network planning is envisaged to be addressed through the PM Gati Shakti National Master Plan, for efficiency in services (processes, digital systems, regulatory framework) and human resource, the National Logistics Policy is the logical next step. This will provide a comprehensive agenda for development of entire logistics ecosystem. Gati Shakti plans to bring forth a monumental reform in connectivity and transportation infrastructure. To achieve this, sixteen Ministries, including Railways and Roads, are working together to create a unified and streamlined network of connectivity. The vision is to eliminate departmentalization and encourage seamless communication and institutionalize all-inclusive project planning.

- The Sagarmala Project that envisions using the potential of the coastline and waterways to reduce the amount of infrastructure needed to reach their targets.
- Bharatmala Project that focuses on reducing critical infrastructure gaps to increase the effectiveness of road traffic circulation across the nation.
- Udaan: The Centre's flagship regional air connectivity scheme has taken off impressively with the scheme now aiming to connect the earlier unconnected parts of India to not only domestic but also international destinations.

Complementing these connectivity and infrastructure schemes, the National Logistics Policy appears to be promising and the industry is keeping faith in it while awaiting its benefits with increased value addition and enterprise.

How NLP Streamlines the Logistics Business

The logistics sector was granted Infrastructure status in 2017, making it easier for companies operating within these segments to raise long-term credit from banks and other financial institutions at lower rates. It also majorly helps in attracting foreign investments to the sector. The National Logistics Policy should give further impetus to the logistics sector with a unified policy and regulatory environment for end-to-end logistics services and an overarching institutional framework that will govern the logistics sector and enhance its competitiveness.

Conclusion

Aligned with the vision of economic reforms, India's journey in the policy space since 1991 should be seen through the prisms of both change and continuity. A vision of developing world class infrastructure through integration of stakeholders in holistic planning shall be always helpful for ensuring efficiency and synergy in the execution of the project, as a steering force, it should be prioritised in the implementation phase as well.

who is on permanent muster rolls of the Public Authority, having functions of receiving the information requests and ensuring their timely disposal within the stipulated 30-day period. Playing the role of PIO is the hardest, when an errant might just want to promote opacity, the PIO from within the same Public Authority is entrusted to be independent under the RTI Act and ensure transparency.

As a PIO does not perform all operational functions in a Public Authority (PA), so they might not have all information demanded by the RTI applicants at their immediate disposal. To support the PIO here, section 5(4) and 5(5) of the RTI Act says that the PIO is empowered to approach or seek the assistance of any person in the Public Authority, whom they think might have that information. Now, if a PIO writes to any person in the Public Authority to cooperate with releasing the sought information, which they intuitively think is stored with this other person of a different department, then this person is deemed as an extension of the PIO, who has to fully extend support to the designated PIO by sharing them the sought information. Upon receipt of information from this other person or conveniently termed as - deemed PIO, the designated PIO will then evaluate to see if the information shared meets the regulations of the RTI Act and that all queries posed by the applicant have sufficiently been responded to. When everything is found okay, the PIO can dispatch the information to the applicant or object to responses from the deemed PIOs and have them revised. To note, a PIO functions independent of the local hierarchy in that Public Authority and has to fairly discharge their duties being governed only by the RTI Act, which can override the local and usual official rules and regulations.

The RTI Act mentions no term as the "deemed PIO" however the same has come to light from several hearings conducted at the Central Information Commission, wherein the Commission has extended the accountability of the designated PIO, to someone who was assisting or in turn providing information to this PIO. If the PIO has been acting honestly throughout, yet the problem is at the end of someone who is supplying the information to the PIO, the Commission has gone to the extent of holding this other person (deemed PIO) fully accountable and bringing them under equal penalty provisions or strictures as the designated PIO.

First Appellate Authority (FAA)

After the PIO, the First Appellate Authority is also from within the same PA, which is usually a senior person or the management personnel from that PA. When the Public Information Office of a Public Authority, for any reason, fails to satisfy the applicant by giving part or no information, the RTI Act has an escalation provision, wherein usually, this First Appellate Authority (FAA) is approached for seeking relief.

The First Appellate Authority examines the pleas of the citizen while considering the views of the PIO. If there is a genuine public interest that is being marred by withholding a piece of information from the applicant, the FAA has the power to overrule the PIO and can direct them to supply the information as demanded by the applicant. On the contrary, if the FAA finds PIO's reservations in releasing that information are valid, they will reject the citizen's demand for that information. Usually, Section 8 of the RTI Act has all major provisions under which a citizen can be denied information by the PIO.

Information Commission(s) and the Concept of Second Appeal

Let us say the RTI applicant has approached both the PIO and the FAA, yet is still not satisfied with their response. Then they have the right to approach the Central Information Commission or the State Information Commission (if it is a State Government matter) to either file a complaint against the PIO or contest the received response for having it judged before the independent Information Commissioners (IC). This stage is known as the Second Appeal process.

All Second Appeals are settled at the Central Information Commission or the State Information Commissions, before the bench of the respective Information Commissioner (IC), where both the RTI applicant and the PIO appear together in a hearing process. Here, a PIO has to explain why they supplied part or no information to the applicant and if such withholding duly falls under the provisions of the RTI Act, and the applicant has to argue how the release of that information would satisfy the public interest at large. Hearing both sides, the PIO and the applicant, the Commission on the merits of arguments presented strikes a balance, and takes a stand either with the applicant or with the PIO or can reach a middle ground. The Information Commissioners truly perform the functions of striking a delicate balance by holding the true public interest in prominence. In this second appeal stage, it all depends on how the subject matter is being argued before the IC by both the RTI applicant and the PA respondents (PIO).

The Information Commissioners (IC) have the power, which is somewhat similar in modality to a judge in a court of law. If an IC chooses to overrule both the PIO and its FAA, and issues orders for the release of this information to satisfaction of the applicant, they become statutory directions that have to be immediately followed with by the PIO. The First Appellate Authority (FAA) is usually immune to strictures or penalties, yet the PIO (or deemed PIO) can be given a stricture or imposed a financial penalty of Rs. 250/- per day to a maximum of Rs. 25,000/-, in case any malpractice is observed by the IC. The days for deciding the penalty amount are usually counted from the 31st day of filing the RTI application when the information release was due from the PIO's end, yet they failed to do so.

RTI Transparency Audits

The Government and its stakeholder functionaries, through RTI Act's section 4, fundamentally believe that there must be a good standard and quantum of information already available in the public domain so that there isn't a need to frequently file RTI applications. While this was enshrined in the Act, there earlier was no provision to check if all public authorities were even doing it, and were doing it right.

To ensure that no Public Authority (those under Central Government) fail to relay information in the public domain Suo-motu (automatically), the Central Information Commission (CIC) has laid down about 120 parameters, against which the Public Authorities are expected to have information readily available on their websites. In the year 2017, the Government got strict and introduced the norm of RTI Transparency Audits, wherein directions were issued to all Central PAs to appoint an auditor, who will audit their website's information disclosures on an annual basis to evaluate if those PAs were compliant with those 120 Suo-motu information disclosure parameters.

It is highly pertinent to note that, Section 4 of the RTI Act lays emphasis on Suo-motu disclosures, however, mandates no annual RTI audit. It is only the Central Government's constant endeavour to improve the automatic information release mechanism to its citizens, that they now sternly issue directions to public authorities under them to get the RTI transparency audits done annually. As per observable information available to this author, there are over 2,200 (and counting) Public Authorities registered with the Central Information Commission, which are due for RTI audits every year. Out of these, in the last few years, close to 700-800 PAs got their audits done and reports sent to the Central Information Commission for final recommendations. It is important to note that the first RTI transparency audit took place in the year 2017-2018. Ensuring that all Public Authorities connected to Central Government come under the RTI audit purview is a gigantic time-consuming exercise. Despite this, the Central Information Commission (CIC) and the Department of Personnel and Training (DoPT) are leaving no stone unturned toward constantly increasing the number of audits every year. These audits are currently being done by the Public Authorities connected with the Central Government, while some Public Authorities connected with the State Governments have much work ahead of them. Importantly, as per observable information, there are about 80 Government auditing institutions available to conduct such RTI audits for PAs at a not-for-profit fee.

Conclusion: The Way Ahead

The Central Government's notable efforts to make basic information to be always there in the public domain by enforcing annual RTI transparency audits is a commendable move that has elevated the overall RTI Act performance standards. We are at a juncture when India has completed 75 years of its independence, and the RTI Act has played a prominent role for 17 years in supporting the public to directly evaluate Government's service quality standards. As India is an RTI Act-compliant nation, every errant officer today is naturally discouraged to attempt anything illegal, while the honest ones must never fear!

BEST ENTRY FOR

ISSUE DATED 24 - 30 September 2022

Question: World Tourism Day is observed on 27th September every year. Tourism is one of the largest sectors contributing to the world economy. India being the hub of diverse tourist destinations attracts people from across the globe. While the Government is taking various initiatives to make the country tourist-friendly, what do you think makes your city/state a go-to destination for tourists?

S SAMEER AHMED, KARNATAKA

India is a country of diverse states, each one has its own cultural heritage and historical importance. Some of the essential features that attract the tourists are: Culture, infrastructure, flora and fauna, shopping, access/amenities and affordability of services. Karnataka is known as the land of palaces. It has got innumerable places that are worth visiting. Karnataka is a land of sheer diversity with a myriad of landscapes, great heritage and culture, wildlife and beaches. It has highest number of protected monuments i.e. about 510, situated in places like Hampi, Badami, Shravanabelagola, Mysore, Sringeri, Kolar etc.

There are two world heritage sites i.e. at Hampi and Pattadakal. Mysore Palace is the 2nd most visited after Taj Mahal. The palace is known for its rich heritage, beauty and the epitome of royalty. Jog Falls is the 2nd highest waterfall in Asia situated in Shimoga district of Karnataka. The state has also been given the title of Rock Climbers' Paradise. There are a plethora of hill stations namely Nandi Hills, Agumbe, Baba Budangiri, Talakaveri, Savandurga and Madhugiri.

As far as wildlife is concerned, the state is home to a large population of tigers and elephants in India; the leopard population being the 3rd highest. There are about 5 National Parks, 30 Wildlife Sanctuaries and 15 Conservation reserves which are sources of attraction for people of all age groups.

Bangalore, the capital of Karnataka is known by many sobriquets like India's Silicon Valley, IT City, BT City etc. and is an ideal destination for shoppers and seekers of clement weather.

The state boasts of an astonishing range of cuisine. Some of the iconic dishes include: Idli, Mysore Masala Dosa, Ragi ball (mudde), Mysore Pak, obbattu, bisisbele bath which is a wholesome meal and easily available in almost all the restaurants. The accommodation and other expenses are relatively not much expensive. i.e; the cost to benefit ratio is always maintained.

In addition to it, for the tourists who are scientifically driven, the state has some of the country's most renowned scientific institutions namely IISc, ISRO, IIA, RRI, JNCASR etc.

■ 5G Services Rolled Out in 8 Cities; to Cover Entire Country by 2023 End

India has joined a select group of countries that offer 5G telephony. While Airtel was the first telecom major to launch 5G services in the four metropolises and other major cities from 1st October 2022, Reliance Jio and Vodafone Idea are set to follow suit. The entire country will be covered by 5G by the end of December 2023. Apart from enabling the common citizen to enjoy high speed internet services, the 5G technology will ensure very high speed mobile broadband with ultra accurate positioning that will propel the growth of all sectors of the economy. 5G will aid the farmers in carrying out precision agriculture, pest control, aquaculture, livestock monitoring etc by ensuring real-time transmission of data using Internet of Things (IoT)/sensors/video, controlled delivery of water, nutrients, and pesticides to increase yield. High speed, accurate and real time transmission of data will also provide a major fillip to other sectors like Health, FinTech, Education, Logistics, Transport, Tourism and Disaster Management. It will also lend a major push to Industry 4.0 by enabling Robot-Robot, Worker-Robot communication for higher efficiency and output. Meanwhile, the Centre has approved Rs 36 thousand crore to install 25 thousand new telecom towers in next 500 days in the country.

■ Ayushman Bharat Launches QR Code Based OPD Registration System on Pilot Mode

The Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission has introduced a QR Code based rapid OPD (outpatient department) registration system allowing patients to avoid the hustle of long queues for OPD consultation. With this, the National Health Authority hopes to make healthcare accessible and efficient. The system, introduced on a pilot basis in Lady Hardinge Medical College and Smt. Sucheta Kriplani Hospital in New Delhi, allows patients to scan a QR code, fill in the requisite details, and obtain an online appointment for OPD consultation at the hospital or health facility of their choice. The facility will be gradually expanded to other health centres across the country.

■ India's Female Infant Mortality Rate Drops to Same Level as that of Males

India's female infant mortality rate (IMR) has dropped to same level as that of males, according to the Sample Registration System Statistical Report 2020. However in sixteen states, IMR remained higher for female babies than male but the gap had reduced since 2011. Chhattisgarh had the highest gap in 2020, with a male infant mortality rate of 35 compared to female infant mortality rate of 41. Women and Child Development Minister Smriti Irani has said that efforts made towards Beti Bachao Beti Padhao through an integrated approach encompassing advocacy, healthcare and education is breaking the gender bias and resulting in improved numbers across all parameters.

■ In a Big Boost to Self Reliance in Defence; Indian Air Force Inducts HAL's Light Combat Helicopter

'Prachanda' -the indigenously-developed Light Combat Helicopter (LCH) produced by Hindustan Aeronautics Ltd (HAL) has been formally inducted in the Indian Air Force. Defence Minister Shri Rajnath Singh, while addressing the induction ceremony at Air Force Station, Jodhpur, Rajasthan said the LCH not only adds to the combat capability of the Air Force but is also a great leap towards the goal of Atmanirbhar Bharat. 'Prachanda', powered by two 'Shakti' engines is the only attack helicopter in the world which can land and take-off at an altitude of 5,000 meters with a considerable load of weapons and fuel. Under the Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyaan, the government is encouraging indigenous design, development and manufacture of defence equipment in the country to reduce their import. Not only this, by promoting local manufacturing, the government also aims to achieve Rs 35,000 crore defence exports target by 2025.

■ National Lok Adalat to be held across the country on 12th November

National Lok Adalat will be held across the country on 12th November this year to dispose of pending cases through settlement. The Department of Consumer Affairs is reaching out to consumers, companies, and organizations through SMS and emails. It has the phone numbers and emails of three lakh parties whose cases are pending before the commissions. More than 16,800 pending cases have been identified in insurance, over 71,000 in banking, over 33,000 in electricity, more than 2000 in railways, and more than 1000 pending cases have been identified in e-commerce. The mission of the Lok Adalat is to strengthen consumer protection and safety through progressive legislation and provide access to fair and efficient grievance redressal mechanisms.

■ Universities, Higher Educational Institutes to Create 25% Supernumerary Seats for Foreigners

The University Grants Commission has issued guidelines with regard to 25 percent supernumerary seats to be created for foreign students in Universities and Higher Educational Institutions. The Universities will be free to choose their admission policy for foreign students. As per the guidelines, 25 percent of the extra seats that will be created over and above the existing number of seats will not include the international students under exchange programmes or through a Memorandum of Understanding between institutions or between Government of India and other countries.

■ India Strongly Condemns North Korea's Missile Launch Over Japan

India has strongly condemned North Korea's ballistic missile launch over Japan and said that these moves affect the peace and security of the region and beyond. While addressing the United Nations Security Council (UNSC), India's Permanent Representative to the UN, Ruchira Kamboj said the Global South has already been disproportionately affected by the prevailing geopolitical situation and related challenges. She added that it is therefore important to continue to make all efforts to maintain peace and stability.

■ OPEC to Cut Oil Production by 2 Million Barrels Per Day

The Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) and its Russia-led allies have agreed to cut oil production by two million barrels a day at a Vienna meeting. It is the deepest cuts to oil production since the 2020 COVID pandemic. The cut could spur a recovery in oil prices that have dropped to about US$ 90 from US$120 three months ago on fears of a global economic recession, rising US interest rates, and a stronger dollar. However, the cut in real terms might be less than the headline figure, with multiple OPEC members currently producing less than their assigned quota.

■ India Becomes World's Largest Producer, 2nd Largest Exporter of Sugar

India has emerged as the world's largest producer and second largest exporter of sugar. In Sugar Season 2021-22, a record of more than 5000 lakh MT of sugarcane was produced in the country. The season has proven to be a watershed season for the Indian sugar industry as record high sugar exports of over 109 lakh metric tons have been registered. This is an outcome of the synchronous and collaborative efforts of Central and State Governments, farmers, and sugar mills with a supportive overall ecosystem for business in the country, according to the Ministry of Food Processing Industries.

■ India's Merchandise Export Grow by 15% During April-Sept 2022

India's merchandise export has grown by over 15 per cent to US$ 229 billion from April to September this year in comparison to the same period last year. However, the merchandise export of nearly US$ 32 billion in September this year is 3.52 per cent less in comparison to the same month last year. Export in certain sectors has seen a decline on account of a slowdown in some developed economies and a consequential slowdown in demands. The export of non-petroleum and non-gems and jewellery from April to September this year was over US$158 billion, an increase of 5.53 per cent over the same period last year.
