Remembering Sardar Patel Unifier-Administrator of India

S. B. Singh

Since 2014, Sardar Patel's birth anniversary on 31st October is celebrated as National Unity Day (Rashtriya Ekta Diwas) in India. On this day, a pledge is taken in the government offices;

"I solemnly pledge that I dedicate myself to preserve the unity, integrity and security of the nation and also strive hard to spread this message among my fellow countrymen. I take this pledge in the spirit of unification of my country which was made possible by the vision and action of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel. I also solemnly resolve to make my own contribution to ensure the internal security of my country."

This pledge has been further extended to the school and college students also by the Education Ministry. The huge Statue of Unity built recently in Gujarat is yet another reminder of Patel, the unifier-administrator and a true patriot of India. We remember our great reformers, builders by various epithets. Raja Ram Mohan Roy is called the "Father of Modern India", Gandhi is called the "Father of the Nation", Nehru is called the "Builder of Modern Temples of India", i.e. heavy industries, science and research, dams etc. Sardar Patel stands equally tall because, if he had not prevented Balkanisation of India by giving it geographical integrity and contiguity, the other tasks of nation building would have remained unaccomplished. Patel represents a rare generation of patriots who not only immensely contributed to the freedom struggle under Gandhi's mentorship, but also laid the foundation of a strong independent India by resolving the most intricate problem of weaving a united India out of the existing disparate states. Lord Mountbatten, while calling the task of integration of princely states in a united India the most stupendous one, praised Patel as the man of the hour who rose to the challenge with grit and determination to accomplish this task. Today, we often use the terms "unity" and "integrity" of India which is written in the Preamble. These words assume true meaning when Patel's endeavours are realized.

Patel as the Unifier of India: Churchill once called India merely a 'geographical expression'. He said that "India is no more a single country than the equator." Though Churchill's description of India smacks of his anti-India bias, a fair assessment of the ground reality of pre-independent India leads to the same observation. That India was disunited due to its division into two compartments, viz; British India, ruled directly by the colonial masters and, Princely States, ruled by autocratic princes, was a fact of life. The British established their rule only in sixty percent of the Indian geography, rest forty percent remained under local rulers and was called princely states. Not that the British did not evolve a policy of dominance over the princely states, and left them free in every sense. Through Lord Wellesley's system of Subsidiary Alliance, the independence of the princely states was compromised as they became dependent on the British in their external and defence relations, even in internal policies of the princely states, the British Agent used to interfere frequently. Post-1857, the British policy towards the princely states underwent a significant

"Sky is the Limit for Opportunities in Ayush Sector"

INTERVIEW

-Dr Tanuja Manoj Nesari

The All India Institute of Ayurveda (AIIA), the apex institute of Ayurveda in India under the Ministry of AYUSH, Government of India, successfully conducted a six-week long campaign in the run up to the National Ayurveda Day 2022 on 23rd October. The AIIA was the nodal agency for driving the Ministry of AYUSH's mandate for Ayurveda Day this year. The theme for the celebration was 'Har Din Har Ghar Ayurveda'. Speaking with Sidharath Jha for Employment News, Prof. Dr Tanuja Manoj Nesari, M.D. Ph.D (Ayurveda), Director, AIIA, observed that Ayurveda has provided holistic health to mankind since ancient times, and with the ongoing efforts, the day is not far when this ancient system of medicine will be revived in such a way that it will reach every doorstep not only in India but also the world. Giving details about the mandate, academic scope and setup of the AIIA, Dr Tanuja Manoj Nesari, who is also the Chairperson of Health Sector Sub-skill Council on AYUSH, opined that for those interested in the sector, AYUSH offers an unending sea of entrepreneurial as well as professional opportunities.

Question: India celebrates National Ayurveda Day every year on the occasion of Dhanwantari Jayanti (Dhanteras). Kindly explain to us the theme of this year's Ayurveda Day and the campaigns that were carried out to promote the theme.

Dr Tanuja Manoj Nesari: The theme of this year's Ayurveda day is "Ayurveda Everyday, Ayurveda Everywhere"; "हर दिन हर घर आयुर्वेद?" with the focus on

'Scientificity of Ayurveda.' This theme is in line with the vision of Hon'ble Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi to reach out to the masses and make them aware of the immense benefits of Ayurveda. To promote the theme focus of 'Scientificity of Ayurveda' we have worked 3 J's - J'an Sandesh', J'an Bhagidari' and J'an Andolan'. To further the 3 Js, six themes were selected - (i) Ayurveda for Holistic Health (ii) Ayurveda for Millenials (iii) Ayurvedic Aahar (iv) Ayurveda for Senior Citizens (v) Ayurveda for Mental Wellbeing (vi) Sharing of experiences about Ayurveda. Ayurveda Shows the Way of Healthy Life

Suvidha Kumra

Ayurveda can play an important role in helping the masses in leading a disease-free, healthy and long life, both physical and mental. The potential of Ayurveda in maintaining a healthy life is immense. It can contribute significantly in lowering the burden of non-communicable diseases in India.

Ayurveda not only has treatments but it also teaches such a way of living, which leads to a long and happy life. The three doshas of Vata, Pitta and Kapha are very important in Ayurveda. According to Ayurveda, we can avoid many diseases by maintaining a balance of Vata, Pitta and Kapha in our bodies. When this balance is disturbed, diseases start dominating the body.

In Ayurveda, the emphasis is laid on developing immunity. This stream of medicines uses herbal remedies, home remedies, ayurvedic medicines, dietary modifications, massages and meditation to develop immunity and treat various diseases. According to Ayurveda, a healthy metabolic system, good digestion and proper excretion contribute to vitality. It also stresses on the importance of exercise, yoga, meditation and massage.

Ayurveda offers permanent solutions to many otherwise incurable and lifestyle diseases like diabetes, joint pain, hypertension and heart problems. It not only cures, but also protects health. It is a science of life with a holistic approach to health and personalized medicine.

According to the World Health Organization, about 70-80% of the world population rely on non-conventional medicines mainly from herbal sources in their healthcare. The main reasons for this are the easy availability of these medicines at a very low cost, expensive treatment by modern system and side effects of Allopathic medicines.

There is an urgent need to raise awareness about the strength of Ayurveda treatment. India has a rich resource for plant-based medicines along with an ancient glorious history of practicing Ayurveda Shashtra. Recently, as a result of the steps taken by the Ministry of AYUSH, awareness of Ayurveda has increased among the masses. A large number of people have started looking for the alternatives of modern medicine. In such a situation, Ayurvedic experts will have to prepare themselves through new researches.

Ayurvedic treatment is quite effective. But, at the same time, there are still works to be done in the direction of research, pharmacology and pharmacovigilance of many important Ayurvedic medicines. In order to popularize Ayurveda, there is a need to emphasize on improving research methodology with main emphasis on fundamental research. Research methodology is a method of systematic collection, analysis and interpretation of data. This endeavour will certainly encourage young researchers to work on different areas of research for the development and promotion of Ayurveda. In addition, there is a need to present a comprehensive knowledge of the basic ideologies of Ayurveda with a scientific approach. Besides this, like modern medical systems, there is an urgent need to validate Ayurvedic medicines through advanced research.

Ayurvedic treatment is more effective in most of the chronic and lifestyle diseases. Nevertheless, in comparison to Allopathic treatment, the popularity of Ayurveda is rather less. The majority of the people prefer modern medicines because they give fast relief from diseases as compared to Ayurvedic treatment.

The Ministry of AYUSH has played a pivotal role in introducing and promoting Indian Systems of Medicine globally in the current pandemic scenario. Ayurveda has made a mark by providing prophylactic solutions, viability of many of which has been established through scientific studies. The Ministry has accepted the need for forging partnerships with like-research methodology with main emphasis on fundamental research. Research methodology is a method of systematic collection, analysis and interpretation of data. This endeavour will certainly encourage young researchers to work on different areas of research for the development and promotion of Ayurveda. In addition, there is a need to present a comprehensive knowledge of the basic ideologies of Ayurveda with a scientific approach. Besides this, like modern medical systems, there is an urgent need to validate Ayurvedic medicines through advanced research.

The importance of Ayurveda in India is not needed to be proved to the people, authorities and scientific community. It is a well recognized traditional system of medicine in our country. But, at the same time, there is a need for fundamental research in Ayurveda so that the tremendous knowledge can be refreshed and upgraded. This type of research will surely advance the knowledge of Ayurveda, which will not only benefit India but the whole world. As research is a process that converts data into information and information into knowledge, this will give wide recognition to Ayurveda.

The fundamental research in Ayurveda caters demands of the society and the medical fraternity. The modern scientific research has been initiated in Ayurveda in the field of basic principles. The aim of this basic research is to explore the scientific innovations and opportunities in fundamental concepts of Ayurveda. The fundamental research includes replacement of faith and suppositions with the scientific reasoning complemented with the facts and figures. Such researches generated a lot of interest in researchers towards herbal medicines. Consequently, in the last decade a demand of Ayurveda and other traditional medicines has increased in the medical world.

Over the years, the Central Council for Research in Ayurvedic Sciences (CCRAS), an autonomous body of the Ministry of AYUSH, has been working to formulate, coordinate, develop and promote research activities in traditional systems of medicines for various diseases. At present, 30 Research Institutes are functioning under CCRAS. Council has developed anti-diabetic drug AYUSH-82, AYUSH-SG for Rheumatoid Arthritis, AYUSH-PJ7 for Dengue, AYUSH-SL for Filariasis, AYUSH 64 for Malaria, AYUSH-Rasayan - A&B for Geriatric Health and AYUSH M-3 for Migraine. It has also developed AYUSH-QOL-2C for improving Quality of life of breast & cervical cancer patients in collaboration with All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS), Delhi and St. Jones Medical College (Bengaluru).

In addition to this, CCRAS has validated 82 classical Ayurvedic formulations and 11 new drugs on more than 32 disease conditions, lifestyle diseases such as Diabetes, Bronchial Asthma, Hypertension, Irritable Bowel Syndrome (IBS), Iron Deficiency Anaemia, Osteoarthritis, Rheumatoid arthritis, Haemorrhoids, Computer Vision Syndrome, Obesity etc.

As a result of the research done by the council, a scope has emerged for treatment of diseases like Arthritis, Diabetes, Reproductive Health, Malaria and Skin Disorders.

The Council's results on patient care activities, commercialization of technologies, Support to AYUSH system in standardization of Ayurveda medicines, Launch of PhD Fellowship Scheme and AYUSH Research Portal, publication of documents relevant to clinical care, Research studies for the safety profile of commonly used Ayurveda drugs and development of Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) for clinical research have been extremely encouraging.

The Government of India has decided to celebrate Dhanwantari Jayanti every year as National Ayurveda Day. Dhanwantari is said to be the originator of Ayurveda. According to the legends, he received the knowledge of Ayurveda incarnated by Brahma ji from the Lord Indra and made way for the end of many types of diseases spread in the universe. Legends say that the Ayurveda is eternal truth and timeless and Brahma himself had sent it through the gods in the dead world for the welfare of the living beings.

In eight departments of Ayurveda, the treatment of various incurable diseases has been given through thousands of Sanskrit verses in Kaya Chikitsa, Pediatric Medicine, Home Medicine, Surgery, Shalakya Chikitsa, Vish Chikitsa, Geriatric Medicine, Vajikaran Medicine. Today it is very important to do research on it, so that there can be a permanent solution to the increasing diseases. Under the National AYUSH Mission, the Government of India has continuously tried to do research in Ayurveda system, but we have to think and work beyond this.

Ministry of AYUSH is also implementing a Central Sector Scheme namely AYURGYAN for Research & Innovation in AYUSH. Under the scheme, financial support has been provided for 311 research projects in AYUSH including 34 research projects on COVID-19.

A recent case study published in the research journal AyuHome of the North Eastern Institute of

National Credit Framework

Released for Public Consultation

The Ministry of Education has appealed to all institutions, schools, Industrial Training Institutes (ITIs), All India Council of Technical Education (AICTE) - affiliated engineering colleges, centrally-funded higher education institutions, state universities, and regulatory authorities to host public consultations on the National Credit Framework (NCrF) on their websites. Comments and observations can also be sent to: comments.ncrf@gmail.com

The Ministry of Education has launched the draft National Credit Framework (NCrF) for public consultation. The framework seeks to enable the integration of academic and vocational domains so that there is flexibility and mobility between them. Union Minister of Education and Minister of Skill Development & Entrepreneurship Shri Dharmendra Pradhan has said the framework would be a game-changer by opening numerous options for further progression of students and inter-mingling of school and higher education with vocational education and experiential learning. It will also enable students who have dropped out of mainstream education to re-enter the education ecosystem. It will serve as an umbrella framework for skilling, re-skilling, up-skilling, accreditation, and evaluation encompassing people in educational and skilling institutions and workforce.

NCrF will seamlessly integrate the credits earned through school education, higher education and vocational and skill education by encompassing the National Higher Education Qualification Framework (NHEQF), National Skills Qualification Framework (NSQF) and National School Education Qualification Framework (NSEQF). It also supports educational acceleration for students with gifted learning abilities and recognition of prior learning for the workforce that has acquired knowledge and skills informally through the traditional family inheritance, work experience or other methods.

While catering to multi-disciplinarity and holistic education across sciences, social sciences, arts, humanities and sports, NCrF enables Multiple Entry - Multiple Exit (MEME) pathways in general & vocational education; ensures flexibility for students to choose their learning trajectories and career choices, including option for mid-way course correction or modification, as per their talents and interests.

The NCrF has been jointly developed by a High Level Committee constituted by the Government with members from UGC, AICTE, NCVET, NIOS, CBSE, NCERT, Department of School Education and Learning & Department of Higher Education, Ministry of Education, DGT, and Ministry of Skill Development & Entrepreneurship.

Proposed benefits for various stakeholders are as follows:

For Students

- NCrF will ensure flexibility in the duration of study/ courses through provisions of multiple entries and exit/work options while paving the path for creditisation of all learning hours, including academic, vocational and experiential learning.
- It will have the provision for lifelong learning – any time anywhere learning.
- It will help students by establishing multidisciplinary and holistic education with flexible curricula.
- Allow acquiring more than one award (degree/diploma etc) in the same period.
- Remove the distinction between arts, science, social sciences, commerce, etc.
- Give student credits for every academic/skill/ experience.
- Enhance the scope of core learning to include foundational as well as cognitive learning.

For Institutions

- The framework will bring about a unification of higher education institutions to promote multidisciplinary education, creating a diverse and rich students knowledge base.
- Promote stronger collaboration between institutions.
- Make credit mechanism simpler and uniform.
- Increase focus on research and innovation.
- Promote digital learning, blended learning, and open distance learning.
- Leverage the institutional infrastructure.

For the Government

- The framework is expected to assist the government to increasing the enrolment of students, thereby helping to fulfil the national vision of complementing the demographic dividend and transforming India into the Skill Capital of the World.
- Make vocational education and training / skilling aspirational
- Create a pool of highly educated and trained workforce for Aatmanirbhar Bharat.

For the Industry

- The framework will allow students to attain the National Skills Qualification Framework (NSQF) - approved foundational skills developed by industry.
- Create a multi/cross-sectoral skilled pool of employable youth.
- Integration of quick educational upgradation/up-skilling will ensure ample industry-ready workforce.

- It will also help in re-skilling and up-skilling of existing employees/ engineers.
- By enabling a more holistic design of the study, the framework will create a talent pool with precise expertise.

Remembering Sardar Patel Unifier-Administrator ...

change. For their loyalty to the British during the Revolt of 1857, the princely states were allowed to exist without fear of annexation into British India, provided they accepted what came to be called "British Paramountcy" under which the princes had to accept the British as the paramount or supreme power in India and without consultation with the government, they could not make any alterations in their status. Under the Indian Independence Act, 1947, the British Paramountcy over the princely states lapsed and they were now free to choose their own destiny from among three choices: remain independent, or merge with Pakistan, or merge with India. Most of the princely states, persuaded by Patel to join India in their own benefit, toed his line and agreed to merge with India by signing two legal instruments, one, the Instrument of Accession and two, a Standstill agreement. He explained to the rulers of the princely states that they could no longer continue their separate existence. According to Patel, the transfer of power to the people in the princely states had become irreversible in the wake of independence and the transition should be peaceful. He offered the princes "Privy Purses" and protection of their personal properties as assurance of a secure future for them. Patel dealt with the rulers with grit and determination. He had great persuasive skills mixed with an iron resolve to succeed in his objectives. This is why he has been compared with Bismarck of Germany and Kautilya of India. But the merger of the princely states was not going to be a smooth run. There were princes nurturing anti-India feeling or their ambition to stay independent. Patel would have none of it. He applied his "iron hand" to deal with these recalcitrant princely states.

The states of Junagarh, Dholpur, Indore, Travancore, Jodhpur, Hyderabad, Nashik, and Jammu and Kashmir resisted Patel's plan of integration. Of these, except Junagarh, Hyderabad and Jammu and Kashmir, all others got persuaded subsequently to become part of independent India.

Junagarh: Due to its contiguity with the newly formed Pakistan, it posed a great strategic danger as its Nawab, influenced by his Diwan, Shah Nawaz Bhutto, signed an accession to merge with Pakistan. It would be a great security risk if Junagarh went to Pakistan. Patel applied military force to secure Junagarh and thwarted the devious designs of the Nawab of Junagarh and Pakistan.

Hyderabad: The Nizam of Hyderabad strongly offered resistance to the merger of his state to India and was hobnobbing with Pakistan to merge, or alternatively, he nursed dreams of remaining independent. He refused to sign the Instrument of Accession. The militia force of the Razakars, a communal force that stoked violence on religious lines, came to the support of the Nizam and oppose Hyderabad's integration with India. On the importance of Hyderabad for India, Patel said, "Hyderabad is situated in India's belly. How can the belly breathe if it is cut off from the main body." When the law and order situation deteriorated in Hyderabad, Patel ordered Police action and liberated it from the Nizam.

Jammu and Kashmir: Raja Hari Singh, the Dogra ruler was very indecisive about merger with India and wanted to protract his independence as long as possible. However, he lost this choice when the tribal invasion of Kashmir, led by the regular Pakistani army threatened his very existence. V P Menon, who was assisting Patel in the States Department responsible for merger of princely states, negotiated with the Maharaja and India offered him help if he signed the Instrument of Accession. Maharaja Hari Singh, faced with a Hobson's choice, readily signed the document which allowed India to act in Kashmir. Soon the invaders were expelled and Kashmir was taken in control. However, Nehru, took away Kashmir's affairs from Patel's hands and dealt with it himself. But even so, Patel showed the same commitment to the Kashmir issue that he had shown in respect of other states.

Thus, before his demise, Patel delivered what he had set out to achieve – a single united India and not a fragmented geographical expression. What no one in history could achieve, Patel had achieved.

V P Menon, in his book, "The Story of the Integration of the Indian States", has rightly observed, "The masterly handling of the princes by Patel was the foremost factor in the success of the accession policy."

Patel as Administrator: For Patel, just unifying India was not a complete solution to the problems of the country. He wanted to give it an efficient, effective administration also. Being a great administrator himself, he knew the importance of administration in a democratic India. The All India Services (AIS) was his brainchild. Though Nehru was not fascinated with Patel's idea of having a strong All India Service on the lines of the ICS because he felt that the ICS had become overbearing, unaccountable, and unresponsive to people's needs and no similar service is required in independent India. But Patel overruled him. He was fully convinced that only a merit based, non-partisan, All India Service can rise to the occasion to face challenges. It was on his insistence that Article. 311 and Article. 314 relating to the All India Services were incorporated in the constitution. Patel warned that without such a service, Indian unity cannot be preserved. During his address to the constituent assembly, Patel said that the role of the All India Services is not just confined to maintenance of law and order, but running the institutions that provide the binding cement to the society.

The tradition to celebrate Civil Services Day on 31st April is based on Patel's address to the first batch of the IAS officers on this day at the Metcalfe House in Delhi. Referring to it as the "steel frame" of Indian administration, Patel advised the IAS officers to maintain utmost impartiality and incorruptibility of administration. A civil servant, he warned, should not take part in politics nor should he involve himself in communal wrangles. Thus, Patel laid the foundation of good governance by providing for an accountable, empathetic, and efficient civil service.

When we celebrate the National Unity Day or the Civil Services Day, we should not only perform a ritual of remembering Patel, but we must also internalize the values that he imbibed. Those values are the values of patriotism, service to the nation, preservation of our unity and integrity, and good governance, i.e., 'Suraj'.

Ayurveda Shows the Way of Healthy ...

Ayurveda and Homeopathy, Shillong, has uncovered new evidence in support of the efficacy of Ayurveda in resolving Anidra (Insomnia)-related issues. Medical science has linked insufficient sleep to many health problems ranging from obesity to reduced immunity. Ayurveda also considers sleep to be very important for health. In fact, it is described as one of the Trayopastambh or the three supporting pillars of life. Ayurveda also considers sleep as one of the essential dimensions for happiness and a good life. Sleep leads to a calm mental state.

According to the WHO, health is a state of complete physical, mental or social well-being, not merely the absence of disease, and sleep is its essential pre-requisite. In the current times of precarious lifestyles, stress and other unpredictable environmental factors, sleep quality has become poor for a large number of people. According to estimates by the National Sleep Foundation of America, 1/3 of people worldwide suffer from sleep disorders.

The study report noted that the Ayurveda treatment resulted in significant improvement in the patient's sleep. The study included thorough screening, evaluating and grading before and after treatment for all symptoms selected for evaluation. These symptoms included yawning, drowsiness, fatigue, sleep quality etc. and improvements were seen in all parameters.

The author of the case study Shri Gopesh Mangal is Associate Professor and Head, PG Department of Panchakarma, National Institute of Ayurveda, Jaipur.

The drug manufacturing industries and other supporting industries play an important role in the development of Ayurvedic medicines. The whole supporting system, i.e., raw material collectors, dealers, processing and manufacturing industries, Ayurveda practitioners and consumers must be encouraged. In Ayurveda, around 1100 medicinal plants are used as medicine.

Today, as the demand for herbal products is increasing day by day, enough availability of raw materials with reasonable prices is a big challenge for the industries. Hence, some decisive steps must be taken by the government as well as industries itself to fulfil the supply and meet market demand. There is a need to ensure correct raw materials for the medicine and for this purpose, it is important to carefully monitor entire cycle of raw material collection such as harvesting, processing, transportation, and storage before their use.

Today, the cost of health care is constantly rising, and affecting people's ability to afford health coverage. Traditional medicines are easily available on affordable prices for economically weaker countries like India. The allopathic drugs should be the last rather than first mean of treatment, beginning with the natural healing method like Ayurveda. One of the Ayurvedic treatment modalities such as Panchakarma can remove disease before its manifestation.

The development of guidelines for methodology in Ayurveda requires a vast professional work by both academics and practitioners, who must have the necessary knowledge and motivation for this task.

Although the research process takes time, it is the only way to overcome the difficulties in promoting Ayurveda across the world. Ayurveda can be improved by working in a coordinated and systematic manner without any bias. Therefore, there is an urgent need to design advanced research methodology for its treatment along with validation of Ayurvedic fundamentals.

There is a huge difference in the approach of allopathic and ayurvedic medicines. Ayurveda has evolved into a holistic system with an understanding of physiology that enables one to maintain health and focus on health whereas Allopathy medicines can have many side effects.

Similarly, Allopathy has a huge contribution in the field of emergency medicine, diagnostic technology and surgery where Ayurveda cannot compete with it. Thus, both systems should complement each other in the medical field. Ayurveda needs more research in the areas of drug research as well as fundamental principles and diagnostic tools.

Dr Tanuja Manoj Nesari: In India, standards for raw materials used for preparing formulations are given by Ayurvedic Pharmacopoeia of India (API) which is mandatory for all the manufacturers according to Drugs and Cosmetics Act 1940 and Rules 1945 (amended in 2016). Various techniques are mentioned in API which are to be adhered to receive GMP (Good Manufacturing Practices) Certificate for manufacturers. There are different rules for classical formulations and proprietary formulations in the Drugs and Cosmetics Act. They are mandatory to follow for every manufacturer.

Question: One of the objectives of Ayushman Bharat is to mainstream the Indian system of medicine and integrate the AYUSH infrastructure into Indian healthcare system. How far have we come on this front?

Dr Tanuja Manoj Nesari: Under the visionary leadership of Hon'ble Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modiji, AYUSH infrastructure has also grown immensely with MoU's with other ministries like Railway Ministry and Departments in India which focus on promotion and research in the field of Ayurveda. Taking into consideration the healthcare of citizens of India, various public health projects are also initiated to make Ayurveda as an active part of community health services. Under Ayushman Bharat, various health and wellness centres have been established in which AYUSH is an integral part. In addition to this, outside India also various steps have been initiated like establishing AYUSH Chairs in various countries for promotion of AYUSH everywhere.

Question: The AYUSH sector has a huge potential for employment generation. What is your outlook on employment opportunities in Ayurveda?

Dr Tanuja Manoj Nesari: I completely agree that AYUSH sector is full of opportunities for the one who is interested in the field. The opportunities range right from cultivation of raw materials for drugs, marketing, supply of such raw materials to the manufactures and their marketing. Immense opportunities are also there for Ayurveda Aahara for which the government has also come forward to set the norms and published regulations in this regard. Also, various technical experts are also required for industries and laboratories working for quality control of the products. There is immense scope in research and development too. I can say that sky is the limit and ocean is the opportunity is this sector for the one who looks for it.

Mahakal Lok Project

Another Milestone In India's Religious Tourism

Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi, on 11th October 2022, dedicated Phase I of the Mahakal Lok Project to the nation at Shri Mahakal Lok in Ujjain, Madhya Pradesh. Apart from decongesting the entire area, the project is aimed at enriching the experience of the pilgrims visiting the temple by providing them world-class facilities.

The Government of India has taken several crucial steps in recent years to develop and promote religious tourism in the country. And the newly-inaugurated Mahakal Lok Project is a part of this initiative. Before delving into the aspect of religious tourism in the country, let us first know some facts about the newly-inaugurated Mahakal corridor.

What is Mahakal Lok Project?

Phase I of the Mahakal Lok Project aims to decongest the entire area and also put special emphasis on the conservation and restoration of heritage structures. Under the project, the temple precinct will be expanded by nearly seven times. The total cost of the entire project is around Rs 850 crores.

The existing footfall of the temple, which is currently around 1.5 crore per annum, is expected to be doubled. The development of the project has been planned under two phases.

Features of the Mahakal Corridor

The Mahakal Corridor, also called the Mahakal Path, contains 108 stambhs (pillars) which depict Anand Tandav Swaroop (dance form) of Lord Shiva. Many religious sculptures depicting the life of Lord Shiva are installed along the Mahakal Path.

The mural wall along the path is based on stories about the act of creation, the birth of Ganesha, story of Sati and Daksha among others from the Shiva Purana. The area of plaza is spread over 2.5 hectares and is surrounded by a lotus pond which contains the statue of Shiva along with water fountains.

The entire premise will be monitored 24x7 by Integrated Command and Control Centre with the help of artificial intelligence and surveillance cameras. The area also has world-class amenities to facilitate the pilgrims on their visit.

While on his visit, the Prime Minister entered the Mahakaal Lok from Nandi Dwar- the holy statue of Nandi. He then visited the Mahakal Lok temple complex and viewed the Saptarishi Mandal, the Mandapam, Tripurasura Vadh and Navgraha.

Significance of Mahakal, Ujjain

Ujjain is one of the sacred and oldest cities that exist in India. It is believed Lord Shiva still resides and showers his blessing on this place. The rich culture and heritage of Ujjain attract a large number of tourists every year. This city has many religious pilgrimages. 'Mahakaleshwar Temple', popularly referred to as Mahakal Temple, is a famous shrine that comprises one of the twelve major Jyotirlingas of Lord Shiva.

The glorious temple of Mahakaleshwar has been mentioned in several Hindu scriptures. According to these texts, the temple had been very magnificent and magnanimous. Its foundation and platform were built of stones. The temple rested on the wooden pillars. There had been no sikharas in the temples prior to the Gupta period. The roofs of temples had mostly been flat. It has been described as a unique example of the then art and architecture.

The temple of Mahakaleshwar is recognized as 'Dakshinamurti', since the image of the Lord faces the southern direction. Mahashivratri is the major festival that is observed in the temple with full gusto and fervour.

Religious Tourism in India

India has centers of pilgrimage for various faiths that attracts tourists from across the country and the world. The Government has recognised religious tourism as one of the crucial pillars of the tourism sector and has initiated schemes and is developing circuits to attract tourists and to also spur employment opportunities for the local communities. These initiatives promote India's rich heritage by developing world class infrastructure with all modern amenities. These efforts are not just making pilgrimages more comfortable for the people but also attract tourists from around the world leading to employment generation for the locals. It is imperative that we take all possible steps to maintain cleanliness in these places.

The National Mission on Pilgrimage Rejuvenation and Spiritual, Heritage Augmentation Drive (PRASHAD) focuses on developing and identifying pilgrimage sites across India to enrich the religious tourism experience. It aims to integrate pilgrimage destinations in a prioritised, planned and sustainable manner to provide a complete religious tourism experience. Fifteen thematic circuits have been identified for development under the Swadesh Darshan Scheme. Some of these circuits are the Ramayana Circuit, Buddha Circuit, Sufi circuit, Spiritual Circuit, Tirthankar Circuit, Sikh circuit, and Christian Circuit.

Question: World Mental Health Day is observed on 10th October every year to spread awareness about the rising scale of mental health issues around the Globe. What steps, in your opinion, should be taken at the level of schools and colleges to help the children and youth cope and overcome this prevailing issue? And how can taking care of one's Mental Health be encouraged in such institutions?

SHIVANI DUTTA

BIHAR

World Mental health day is observed on 10th October to spread awareness about the rising scale of mental health issues around the globe. Last year, the renowned tennis player Naomi Osaka gained attention when she pulled herself out from the French open citing mental health issues. The Covid-19 pandemic has only caused an increase in such cases as people started spending more time virtually and physical interactions became less common. The most vulnerable to this situation are children and the youth of the country. As lifestyles are changing and the incursion of technology became integral to our lives it is high time to look for ways where we can help the children and the youth to cope and overcome the issues related to mental health. The mental health literacy should start from school as most of a child's time is spent there. As a first step it should be made mandatory for the schools and colleges to hold yoga and meditation sessions regularly, as this will help in reducing study or exam pressure of students. Secondly, children and youth should be encouraged to take part in extracurricular and physical activities. This will enable them to spend time in their hobbies and help them building a positive mindset. Thirdly, disseminating basic information about the symptoms of mental health issues and depression to children, as the lack of awareness about the symptoms hold them back to talk about the issues openly and last but not the least, organising professional counselor sessions for students who want to seek help in speaking their heart out and open up about their issues. These steps will help the children and the youth as well as educational institutions to promote sound mental health in society.
