Significance of the Indian Constitution

Lakshmi J.

India became the largest democracy in the world with the adoption of the Constitution by the members of the Constituent Assembly on 26th November 1949. In 1979, the Supreme Court Bar Association under the leadership of Dr. L.M. Singhvi, had decided to celebrate November 26 as Law Day. From November, 2015, the Government of India decided to celebrate the 26th day of November each year as 'Constitution Day' to promote Constitutional values among citizens. The notification reads as follows:

"Whereas the people of India, having solemnly resolved to secure to all its citizens Justice, Liberty, Equality and to promote Fraternity among all, adopted, enacted and gave to themselves the Constitution of India in the Constituent Assembly on the 26th day of November, 1949;
And whereas the Drafting Committee of the Constituent Assembly, under the Chairmanship of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar, provided its invaluable services in drafting the Constitution of India and the nation is celebrating the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Birth Anniversary of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar in recognition of his contribution to building modern India;
Now, therefore, the Government of India has decided to celebrate the 26th day of the November of every year as the "Constitution Day" to promote constitutional values among citizens."

On 26th January 2022, our nation celebrated its 73rd Republic Day. The Constituent Assembly by drafting the Constitution made us responsible for our self-governance. We thereby gained freedom to transform the destiny and to achieve our aims and aspirations. The members of the drafting committee realized that Constitution could not by itself make a new India, but they intended to light the way. The Indian Independence Act of 1947 also empowered the Constituent Assembly to frame laws for India until the new Constitution came into force.

The framers of the Constitution borrowed mainly from three sources for making of the Constitutional provisions. The foundation document was the Government of India Act, 1935 passed by the Parliament of the United Kingdom in London. The Act thereby established a parliamentary system, containing a vast administrative detail for the structure of the government, established a centralized federal system, and provided for elections to provincial legislatures. It provided the basis for the government until the newly framed Constitution replaced it in 1950. The framers also borrowed from other Constitutions to include fundamental rights and directive principles, a body of social and economic rights.

Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru had once said regarding the framing of the Constitution, *"This cannot be done by the wisest of lawyers sitting together in conclave; it cannot be done by small committees trying to balance interests and calling that constitution-making; it can never be done under the shadow of an external authority. It can only be done effectively when the political and psychological conditions are present, and the urge and sanctions come from the masses".*The framers of the Constitution had more or less done justice to this vision of Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru.

The Constituent Assembly held its first meeting on 9th December 1946 in the Constitution Hall, presently the Central Hall of the Parliament House. The Constituent Assembly, put together to

Career Opportunities in the Realm of Social Media Management

Ranjana Singh

In India, increased availability of internet connections and access in recent years, propelled by the Central Government's Digital India initiative, has been directly proportional to the growth of social media users. Internet penetration has been on the rise with over 658 million Indians being able to access the internet (As of January 2022 Statista.com data), which makes India the second largest market globally after China.

For the common people, social media platforms like Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, YouTube, Whatsapp, and Snapchat and are fun diversions, but for others, social media is a serious business. For brands, having a social media presence is no longer optional; it is vital for survival. So it is not surprising that this phenomenon has led to the genesis of an entirely new career domain: social media marketing. Although the terms e-marketing and digital marketing are still dominant in academia,

Social Media Management (SMM) is becoming more popular for both practitioners and researchers.

Businesses, governments, nonprofits, celebrities, all need talented, insightful, educated people as social media managers - and they pay well to attract and keep them. Other than social media managers, there are many in-demand job profiles in the realm of social media marketing that will expand over the next few years; they include analysts, content creators, influencers, community managers, etc.

Goals of Social Media Management

- Increase brand awareness
- Drive traffic to your website
- Generate new leads
- Boost brand engagement
- Build a community around your business
- Provide social customer service
- Increase mentions in the press
- Listen to conversations about your brand (feedback)
- Grow revenue (by increasing signups or sales)

Perks of Pursuing a Social Media Career

- Variety of choices: As a social media professional, you can choose to be a marketer, a strategist, a copywriter, a designer, an analyst, an influencer, a customer service representative, and sometimes all of them.
- You are never done learning: One of the most challenging yet rewarding aspects about working in social media is that you have to constantly refine and develop your skills to

India Joins Mangrove Alliance for Climate

The Mangrove Alliance for Climate (MAC) was launched at the 27th session of Conference of Parties (COP27) of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) at Sharm El-Sheikh, Egypt, with India as a member.

India contributes to nearly half of the total mangrove cover in South Asia and West Bengal, the home to Sundarbans, has the highest percentage of mangrove cover in India. Spread over India and Bangladesh the Sundarbans are also the single largest mangrove forest in the world. Gujarat and Andaman, and Nicobar Islands, Maharashtra, Odisha, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Goa, and Kerala too have mangrove forests. Thus, India's membership to the alliance will give a major boost to the protection and recovery of mangroves.

What is MAC?

MAC, announced by the UAE Minister of Climate Change and Environment, Mariam bint Mohammed Almheiri, is an intergovernmental alliance that seeks to expand and hasten the progress toward the conservation and restoration of mangrove ecosystems. Led by the UAE and Indonesia, the initiative seeks to scale up and accelerate the conservation and restoration of mangrove ecosystems for the benefit of communities worldwide. India is among the first five countries to join the MAC, other than Australia, Japan, Spain, and Sri Lanka. The action aims to scale up and accelerate the conservation and restoration of the mangrove forests.

As part of the MAC, India's efforts on its natural regeneration and planned plantation activities are expected to increase.

What are Mangroves?

Mangroves are small trees and shrubs which grow along the coastlines, thrive in salty water and form unique forests on the edge of land and the sea. Mangrove forests are formed by trees that have adapted to live in the warm intertidal areas of the world wherever waters are sufficiently calm and where there are sufficient sediments to set down roots. These diverse forests are found world-wide across the tropics and sub-tropics, growing in deltas, estuaries, lagoons and sheltered shores in a wide belt around the planet, and are of critical importance to biodiversity and to people.

EN EXPLAINS

Mangroves never exist in isolation. They are often found interconnected with other tidal wetland systems, as well as with nearby terrestrial, freshwater and marine habitats, including coral reefs and seagrass beds. Mangroves essentially form an underwater jungle, generating a vast abundance of aquatic life. The edges of mangrove creeks are safe havens for young fish, providing protection from predation and ample food.

Simultaneously they provide rich feeding grounds for predatory fish, which visit the mangrove fringes to prey on those individuals unlucky enough not to have secured a good hiding place. Deeper into the mangroves, the intervening mudflats are home to large numbers of clams and crabs, which burrow in the nutrient rich soft sediments.

Mangrove ecosystems are among the most productive and ecologically important ecosystems in the world. They provide significant climate change mitigation and adaptation co-benefits since they are capable of storing carbon up to 400 percent faster than land-based tropical rainforests.

They protect coastal regions from rising sea levels, erosion, and storm surges and provide breeding grounds for marine biodiversity. Around 80 per cent of the global fish population rely on these ecosystems for their survival. Mangrove forests can store ten times more carbon per hectare than terrestrial forests. Also, they can store carbon up to 400 percent faster than land-based tropical rainforests.

Conservation and Protection of Mangroves in India

India has mangrove forests along more than 30% of its coastline. Nearly 50% of the country's mangrove forests are in the Sundarbans. This region is home to 58 species of mammals, 55 species of reptiles, and around 248 bird species, along with a human population of 12 million in the greater Sundarbans region.

The Government has taken steps to protect, sustain, conserve and augment forests in the country through promotional as well as regulatory measures. The promotional measures are being implemented through a Central Sector Scheme under National Coastal Mission Programme on 'Conservation and Management of Mangroves and Coral Reefs'. Under this programme, annual Management Action Plan (MAP) for conservation and management of mangroves are formulated and implemented in all the coastal States and Union Territories.

India has adopted three strategies for management of mangrove forests; promotion, regulatory, and participatory. As per the 2021 India State of Forest Report, the states that

Success Story

INTERVIEW

The Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (UPPSC) declared the PCS (Provincial Civil Service) examination 2021 final results on 19th October 2022. The UPPSC-PCS 2021 examination was conducted for various posts including Deputy Collector, Deputy Superintendent of Police, Block Development Officer, Assistant Regional Transport Officer, Assistant Commissioner (Commercial Tax), District Commandent Homeguards, Treasury Officer/ Accounts Officer (Treasury), Cane Inspector and Assistant Sugar Commissioner, District Cane Officer U.P. Agriculture Service Group "B" (Development Branch), Superintendent Jail, Manager Credit (Small Industries), Manager Marketing and Economic Survey (Small Industries), Executive Officer Grade I/ Assistant Nagar Ayukta, District Basic Education Officer/ Associate DIOS & other equivalent Administrative Posts, Assistant Director Industries (Marketing), Assistant Labour Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner Industries, Statistical Officer, etc. Out of the 627 candidates who qualified the examination, Shri Atul Kumar Singh of Pratapgarh secured the highest rank. In a conversation with Employment News, Shri Atul Kumar Singh shared his journey, experiences and valuable tips on the essential aspects of serious preparations for competitive examinations. Excerpts from his interview:

Question: Please briefly explain your journey. How many years or preparations and how many attempts did it take for you to get your desired results?

Atul Kumar Singh: After completing B.Tech. from IIT - Kharagpur, I worked in the corporate sector for 4-5 years. Then I decided to appear for UPSC (Union Public Service Commission) Civil Services Examination (CSE). I missed IFS (Indian Foreign Service) final list by 2 marks in 2017. Then I decided to try my luck in the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission examination. In 2019 UPPSC exams, I managed to qualify for the post of BDO (Block Development Officer). In the same year, I secured 1st rank in the Uttar Pradesh (Assistant Conservator of Forest) examination. However, I kept aiming higher. In UPPSC 2021, I got 1st rank (Deputy Collector). This, I managed in three serious attempts.

Question: In which paper did you score the most and how?

Atul Kumar Singh: Mark Sheets are not out yet. I think I must have done well in all the papers. Especially in Mathematics (optional), my accuracy must have been better this time. I am sure I have scored well in General Studies as well. My strategy mainly hinged on revising standard books multiple times and having short notes on all the subtopics given in four GS papers and attempting several mock test papers. For Mathematics, after completing standard books, solving past 15 years UPPSC question papers plus giving other mock test papers was the key.

Question: Do you think focusing more on your strengths bear better results or should you focus more on conquering your weaknesses?

Atul Kumar Singh: Strength must be emphasized to get good rank. At the same time weakness must be addressed too to ensure your score does not fall too low overall. I strongly believe that we should focus on weakness in the early phase of preparation and polish our strengths throughout the preparation. In the last few months of preparation, focus must entirely be on the strengths as weakness cannot be improved beyond a certain limit. Hence an optimum balance between the weakness and strength is required.

Question: Does having good command over the language give you an edge?

Atul Kumar Singh: It is enough if you use decent, simple language, though grammar should not be very deficient. The bottom line is, you don't have to be Shakespeare or Prem Chand to clear competitive examinations in India. Good content with facts and figures, along with supporting diagrams, flowchart, and quotations to beautify our answer in a simple lucid manner is more than sufficient.

Question: How reliable is the Internet in sourcing study material? Can you suggest some credible platforms?

Atul Kumar Singh: The Internet is a must source, especially if you are doing self study. But we shall not be swayed too much by the oceans of information on the Internet. Credible sites such as websites belonging to government departments or reputed institutes like think tanks and academia are good source of credible information. Some coaching institutes also offer free repository of materials on their blogs/websites. Here, I would like to mention that Employment News/Rozgar Samachar also publish articles on important subjects that are objective, informative, and credible. The News Digest page of the weekly is a great source for current affairs briefs.

Shri Atul Kumar Singh
Rank-1st, UPPSC-PCS 2021

Question: Do candidates having greater access to technology benefit in any way?

Atul Kumar Singh: We do not have to be a hi-fi techie to master the art of preparation for competitive examination. However, having access to IoT (Internet of Things) makes digging information and sharing resources a bit easier. For example, if we have a smartphone, we can join Telegram and WhatsApp groups where likeminded people meet and share study materials. We can also have dialogues and productive discourse in such platforms at our will.

Question: What according to you are the best methods/ sources of practice?

Atul Kumar Singh: In my experience, in case of both the UPSC and UPPSC, the method of practice is solving previous year question papers (last 5 to 10 years). Mock test papers prepared by reputed coaching institutes are also good as they replicate exam conditions. Also we tend to increase our accuracy in prelims by giving mock tests. In optional subjects like Mathematics, practice is the only way to improve your accuracy. While preparing for 2021 UPPSC, I attempted close to 47+ tests (30 for Mathematics + 12 for GS + 5 for Essay).

Question: Did you take the help of coaching institutes? What other ways of guidance do you suggest for aspirants who cannot afford coaching?

Atul Kumar Singh: For me, self study worked the best. Efficient and sustained self study with standard books is a more productive approach. Make short notes on tough topics of GS and optional paper and revise them multiple times. Attempt a lot of mock tests both for the prelims and the mains. Special focus on previous year question paper is a must. Following are the list of books I studied religiously for the papers I had opted for.

- Modern Indian History: Rajiv Ahir Spectrum.
- Ancient and Medieval History: Old NCERT 11th class or Tamilnadu board books.
- Polity: Laxmikant
- Science and Tech: Current Affairs + Ghatna Chakra Purvalokan.
- World history : Old NCERT 9th / 10th
- International Relations: Current Affairs+ NCERT+ Rajiv Sikari.
- Current Affairs: Ghatna Sar for prelims and Ghatna Chakra for mains.
- Purvalokan by Ghatna Chakra for prelims (especially for Geography, Modern Indian History, Polity, Environment, Biology).
- For mains Ghatna Chakra gives current plus static portion in 5-6 volumes.

Question: Did the pandemic affect your preparations and results? How do you suggest aspirants to deal with such unforeseen circumstances?

Atul Kumar Singh: It was an extremely tough time for most of us. I lost my mother during the pandemic. Despite the emotional turmoil, remaining calm and having perseverance was the only viable option for me. Remaining focused on our target gives us strength to overcome such challenges.

Question: In your opinion, is it possible for someone to have a job and yet effectively prepare for competitive examination? Does having work experience help the candidate in any way?

Atul Kumar Singh: For UPSC it will require highly efficient time managing skills for a working candidate. But UPPSC is still doable with a job in hand. Many have successfully done it. We need to minimize our sources and do multiple revisions to get best result if we are dealing with paucity of time. Having work experience may help in the interview etc but not too much. Early bird catches the fly. Hence if we can afford, we must start the preparations as early as possible.

Question: In your opinion, should a civil service aspirant, who is also pursuing a graduation degree, make preparing for the competitive exam a priority or should one keep career options open by choosing a professional course at graduation level?

Atul Kumar Singh: It is a very subjective question. It depends on your aptitude, and career aspirations. However no graduation degree is easy or difficult. Even B.A. in humanities is quite challenging, provided we study sincerely keeping civil services in mind. Though professional courses like Engineering and Management do have an edge as far as back up option is concerned. Humanities students can also go for teaching, PhD, etc as a backup. A sincere candidate with fire in the belly to achieve bigger dreams will always do well in life irrespective of his or her stream provided he works hard in the right direction.

Question: What were the major impediments you faced during the preparations and how did you overcome them?

Atul Kumar Singh: Social pressure was one of the impediments as I was married and have two kids. But the major one was the IIT tag as expectations was manifold. Failing is not an option here. If you succeed, people will take it as a given, since you are graduated from a reputed institute. Like everyone else, I struggled to sustain focus, and have perseverance. Yet, I stood firm in my approach of preparation based on syllabus and previous year question papers. Also support from your close ones like parents and spouse makes things relatively easier.

Significance of the Indian Constitution

draft the Constitution of India, held its first session on 9th December 1946. On 11th December 1946, Dr. Rajendra Prasad was elected as the permanent Chairman of the Constituent Assembly. Dr. B.R. Ambedkar who took the initiative as the Chairman of its Drafting Committee is remembered as the Chief Architect of the Indian Constitution. Dr. Ambedkar had played a dynamic role in leading the drafting committee and Constituent Assembly to guide our country being completely aware of our unique social, cultural and religious diversity. These sessions ended on November 26, 1949.

The Constitution's spirit came from a third source: the Objective Resolution adopted during the December 1946 Assembly session. Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru had drafted the Objective resolution which said that the Indian Union, whose integrity was to be maintained, derived its authority and power from the Indian people. On 13th December 1946, Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru moved the 'Objective Resolution', which later became the preamble to the Constitution of India. The Preamble of the Constitution contains the direction and purpose of the Constitution.

Granville Austin, an American historian on the Indian Constitution has remarked that the provisions of the Indian Constitution are more or less aimed to further the goals of the social revolution or attempt to foster this revolution by establishing the conditions necessary for its achievement and is therefore a social document.He says, the commitment to the social revolution lies in Parts III and IV, in the Fundamental Rights and in the Directive Principles of State Policy, the conscience of the Constitution. The Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles of State Policy had their roots deep in the struggle for independence. The Rights and Principles thus connect India's future, present, and past, adding greatly to the significance of their inclusion in the Constitution, backing the social revolution in India.

The Indian Constitution by and large seeks to promote Rule of Law through many of its provisions. For example, Parliament and State Legislatures are democratically elected on the basis of adult suffrage. The Constitution makes adequate provisions guaranteeing independence of judiciary. Judicial Review has been guaranteed through several Constitutional provisions. The Supreme Court has characterized judicial review as a "basic feature of the Constitution" and Dr. B. R. Ambedkar has noted Article 32 as the 'heart and soul' of the Constitution. Further, the Supreme Court has shielded the Constitution from any attack by evolving the basic structure doctrine, which says that the basic features of the Constitution cannot be amended. The Constitutional provisions have now assumed great significance as it is used to control administrative powers lest they should become arbitrary.

India's existence till date as a democracy should be credited to its Constitution. The sacred document has survived the test of time and many challenges. It has evolved with time without losing its inherent features and for the same the credit must be given to the framers of the Constitution and to the judiciary for dynamically interpreting the Constitution with the needs of changing times.

show gain in mangrove cover are Odisha (8 Sq.km) and Maharashtra (4 Sq.km).

Regulatory measures are implemented through Coastal Regulation Zone (CRZ) Notification (2019) under the Environment (Protection) Act, 1986; the Wild Life (Protection) Act, 1972; the Indian Forest Act, 1927; the Biological Diversity Act, 2002; and rules under these acts as amended from time to time.

As per information provided by the World Wide Fund for Nature, India, citizens of nine States (Maharashtra, Goa, Gujarat, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Odisha, West Bengal and Karnataka) have been enjoined on mangrove conservation through the 'Magical Mangroves' campaign. Hundreds of volunteers have committed their time towards being educated on mangrove conservation and to inspire more community members to do the same. Volunteers are equipped with a curated toolkit of presentations, videos, story books, and a mangroves app.

The Government under Centrally sponsored scheme for Conservation & Management of Mangroves, extends assistance to Coastal State/UTs for implementation of action plans including survey and demarcation, alternation and supplementary livelihood, protection measures and education and awareness activities.

The Government has also piloted an Integrated Coastal Zone Management Project in Coastal stretches of 3 states namely Gujarat, Odisha and West Bengal, with the objective of conservation and protection of coastal resources which included plantation of mangroves as one of the major activities.

Career Opportunities in the Realm of ...

continue advancing in your career. An effective social media professional brings both hard skills and soft skills to the table. Hard skills like data analysis and copywriting can be more easily studied and learnt, whereas soft skills like being organized and making connections may be more difficult to learn, but are just as important. The more you focus on cultivating these skills, the more you'll be able to drive results, realize true business impact and level up your own abilities.

- Monotony is out of question: Social media platforms are dynamic, so marketing and management tactics must change along with them. This can make for a very exciting career, as you are always learning new things and meeting new challenges. You will certainly never be bored!
- You can become an irreplaceable asset: In a highly competitive market, uniqueness sells. Brands need to consistently engage with their audience with interesting and unique content and such content need to conform to the brand's image. This means that if you are skilled enough to bring to the table what the brand precisely requires, you will be an irreplaceable asset to any marketing team.
- Creativity takes the front seat: Having the opportunity to be creative at work is a huge plus for many young people. Social media combines so many different aspects - photography/video graphy, storytelling, writing, acting, music, visual communication, verbal communication, innovation, technology etc. Hence, there will be a lot of tactics, technologies, and skill sets that you may be required to exhibit.

Categories of Jobs in Social Media Management

Social media management can be broken into three key areas: strategy, content, and community management. Typically, a task within a social media job will fall under one of these three categories.

a) Content: Content is the king as it is the thread that connects the audience with the brand. When done right, the content can help businesses and entities build a strong online presence, reach the right audience and ensure engagement (likes, shares, re-tweets etc.). It is that facet of social media management that involves the creation and sharing of material that does not explicitly promote a brand but is intended to stimulate interest in its products or services. The most common type of social media management content includes user-generated content (images, videos, texts, stories created by followers). They may be in the form of product reviews, caption contests, and fun challenges etc. Other forms include videos, livestreams, infographics and educational/ instructional content. In whichever format, the content has to resonate well with the target audience.

Role of Influencers: Influencer marketing is a buzzword in the marketing world and is no longer restricted to a few businesses or agencies. As a result, influencers have increased in almost every significant industry and brands are using them more than ever before. Hence, it has become common now to spot social media users who have given up careers in different domains and have chosen to exclusively devote their time to social media influencing. If we have managed to accept the fact that social media influencer is a real job; let us get on to the bit about why exactly this is a job that needs to be handled with a great deal of responsibility. Social media influencers have the power to change attitudes and mindset - which they can change for the better, and scarily, even for the worse. To become an influencer, you need to have a sound knowledge on what you claim to be your niche is and use that knowledge to influence people in believing and subscribing to the same set of ideas or thoughts- on social media.

b) Strategy: The key ingredient for engaging in social media management is having a strategy. Without a strategy, a business might be posting on social media platforms without understanding what the company's goals are, who the target audience are and what they want. Without a strategy, it will be hard to achieve results on social media. Another interesting point about strategy is that different social media channels may require different strategies, depending on the product or idea that is being promoted.

c) Community Management: Community management is about building relationships and how the brand seizes the opportunity to interact with its community on online public platforms. Your community consists of your current customers, target audiences, and all the people who interact with your brand directly and indirectly online. Managing your community becomes more and more important the bigger your customer base becomes. Educational Qualifications

A degree is not always a requirement for a social media job. However, having one can be a great advantage, especially if it is a degree in creative art or marketing. Also, there are a plethora of short-term social media marketing courses which you can opt for to gain a better understanding of the social media realm. A diploma or certificate gained through such short term courses will place a candidate a notch over those not possessing such documents.

Diploma, Certification, Online Courses

Before making social media your career arena, you are expected to have an understanding of how to develop a social media marketing strategy to generate brand awareness for your business; how to use social media listening to find out what works best for your followers; how to extend your reach on social media platforms and leverage influencers to attract new audiences; and how to get the most out of your social media investments. Institutes that offer courses in digital marketing encapsulate all these into specific modules designed for social media marketing.

For example, the Advanced Certification in Digital Marketing and Analytics by Centre for Continuing Education (CCE), IIT Madras, is designed to help you master skills such as understanding the key fundamentals of marketing as well as essential digital marketing skills like organic marketing, paid marketing, marketing analytics, and more. This program also helps you understand how data science plays an important role in marketing analytics.

Courses like these teach you how to relate to and identify the social media channel that fits the requirement of a project. Such courses also teach the students strategies followed in the industry with proficiency and guidance, making them capable of solving complex situations while innovating. Some courses also offer the opportunity to engage in real-time campaigns providing hands-on training using domain name, website and budget for campaigns.

For those interested in the creative aspect of social media marketing, you should opt for courses that offer guidance in setting goals and success metrics and determine the target audience while offering avenues to test and polish your creative abilities, thereby, helping you create content that is not only entertaining but also one that ensures online visibility to the brand. For example, the Post Graduate Certificate Programme in Crafting Creative Communication (CCC) offered by MICA (Mudra Institute of Communications, Ahmedabad). It is a specialised programme designed to cater to the ever-evolving demands of the advertising, media and communication industry. Students are exposed to a variety of creative mediums such as film, photography, graphic design and art to enable effective execution of their ideas and stories.

"Is creativity a natural talent or nurtured skill?" - This question has been debated from centuries. Yet, in the context of social media content creation and marketing, the fact remains that even if you are born with intense creative acumen, you need to acquire the skills of marketing in order to gain maximum reach and recognition. Therefore, a carefully designed course in creative communication and marketing will help acquire the following traits and talents:

- Idea generation techniques
- Art of effective storytelling
- Writing with the visual and aural
- Drawing from life
- Ways of seeing
- Copywriting
- Art direction
- Writing creative briefs
- Campaign planning
- Semiotics
- Photography
- Film-making
- Film appreciation
- Animation & stop motion
- Tool learning
- Branding
- Customer-centric communication
- Advertising management
- New Media and experiential marketing

For beginners who have never been in marketing/communication/creative industry before and who would like to learn a bit of everything (including social media marketing), Google's Digital Marketing Certification course is best suited. The course includes Search Engine Optimization (SEO), content marketing, and web optimization. It also teaches you how to set goals for your chosen social media platforms and how to create a sustainable long-term social media strategy.

Advanced courses in social media management typically cover the following topics.

- What is social media and why is it popular?
- Leading social media apps and what makes them popular
- Rules and regulations related to social media
- Measurement of performance in social media
- Algorithms of various social media platforms
- Difference between organic and paid social media marketing
- Introduction to Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Pinterest, LinkedIn and Snapchat
- Introduction to Facebook Ads and Instagram Marketing
- Building a quality customer base online from scratch
- Audience targeting options - demographics, interests, and behaviour
- Facebook and Instagram ad placement and budgeting options
- Various types of ad formats on Facebook and Instagram
- Importance of landing pages and remarketing
- Setting up Ads on Twitter and LinkedIn

There are many institutes for social media marketing courses. But first, you have to decide what course is best for you. Which institute will give you the best learning experience? The best courses are those that focus on core principles and practices over specific platforms and explains how social media can be used to both complement and strengthen overall marketing and business goals; enable students to create engaging content, develop social media budgets, manage a thriving social media community and measure & optimize for overall improved performance. A candidate can pursue these Social Media Marketing courses after class 10th, 12th, or after graduation which varies as per the course format.

Some of the institutions/online platforms that offer such holistic courses (long term and short duration) are:

- Indian Institute of Management (IIM), Calcutta
- Indian Institute of Management (IIM), Bangalore
- Doon Business School, Dehradun
- Mudra Institute of Communications (MICA), Ahmedabad
- Indian Institute of Digital Education (IIDE), Mumbai
- Madras Christian College, Chennai

MGNREGA Scheme in Sundarbans Area Leading to Improvement in Livelihood

Dr. Prosenjit Majumdar

The Sundarbans is a mosaic of islands of different shapes and sizes, perennially washed by brackish water shrilling in and around the endless labyrinths of water channels with a unique ecosystem dominated by mangrove forests. It gets its name from the Sundari trees, a special kind of mangrove tree, found in this area. The Sundarbans abound Saltwater Crocodile, King Cobra, Wild Pig, Spotted Deer, Monkey, and different varieties of birds along with the majestic Royal Bengal Tiger. It has been declared as one of the UNESCO's World Heritage Sites. The property is currently being managed and regularly monitored by the regular staff of the Forest Department. The key objective of management is to manage the property to retain biodiversity, aesthetic values, and integrity. Several Forest offices and camps are located in certain important parts of the forest. However, in recent times, the ecosystem of this forest is under threat due to unscientific human interferences. The forest resources such as honey, wax, etc. are being collected by local people which is in huge demand in the market due to its high quality and taste. A delicate balance is needed to maintain and facilitate the ecological processes of the property on a sustainable basis.The site is intersected by a complex network of tidal waterways, mudflats, and small islands of salt-tolerant mangrove forests, and presents an excellent example of ongoing ecological processes. Tigers readily cross these islands and human-tiger conflicts are common in this area. However, the nylon fencing around the forest prevents the tigers invade the villages. But lately, the forest department is facing problems in controlling the wild straying into the villages because of the lack of staff, infrastructure, and funds.

To reverse the rapid loss of mangrove forests and to promote sustainable use of this invaluable ecosystem, along with filling up the gap of lack of forest guard and infrastructure, a scheme named Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA) is being implemented to provide at least 100 days of guaranteed wage employment in a financial year to every rural household for enhancing livelihood and security of the unskilled manual workers. Under this scheme, the majority of MGNREGA related endeavours are spent on the creation of assets that help in the betterment of subsistence opportunities and further enhance the village economy. To achieve this objective, the MGNREGA scheme is converged mostly in the forest area which is beneficial for both the local people and the forest department.

The working conditions inside the forests are extremely tough. Several problems of the forest officials have been solved by implementing the MGNREGA scheme to Bonnie Camp which is located close to Bay of Bengal. Mr. Manash Kumar Ghosh, Additional Divisional Forest Officer, South 24Pgs district of West Bengal and other Forest Officers made the Bonnie Camp of Sundarbans area beautified and resolved several issues of the forest staff, posted inside the camp.

Shri Budhhadeb Guha, a famous novelist named the camp as 'Bonnie Camp'. The camp provides Social Protection and Livelihood Security to the most vulnerable people living in and around of forest area of Sundarbans by providing employment opportunities. Local communities depend on the forest for their livelihood and therefore have an interest in protecting it. Besides the local people being involved as labour under MGNREGA scheme for the beatification of the campsite, there also have been several other upshots, mentioned below:

CREATION OF ASSET WITH OUT FOREST MANPOWER: Most of the time forest guards are busy in patrolling as a result it is very difficult for them to develop the campsite. Assets have been created in the Bonnie campsite of Sundarbans under convergence of MGNREGA through the joint efforts of the local community and the forest department which has contributed to the conservation and management of natural resources around the area. The camp has a beautiful and well-maintained park, artificial bridge over a small pond and the forest gardens which were developed inside the camp site by engaging the local people through the convergence of MGNREGA scheme. These assets contributed to the beautification of the campsite. Sweet water ponds were constructed inside and outside of the forest area and tree plantation is done by the local people under MGNREGA scheme. The sweet water is used to provide drinking water for the wild animals. The locals involve themselves in fencing works to prevent illegal poaching and prevent wild animals to enter the villages.

AGRICULTURE PRODUCT: The forest guard and forest staff posted inside the campsite face difficulties in obtaining vegetables as there is no market nearby their site. The land inside the campsite is used to grow vegetables by the locals with the help of Forest Guard and later on, these vegetables are used by the Forest Guard for their daily sustenance and also the local people engaged under MGNREGA scheme use it when they temporarily stay inside the campsite for creation of assets inside the forest and development of campsite. Forest gardens have been a significant source of food security for these people.

SOCIAL ISOLATION: Only 6-8 people are working inside the campsite of the forest. They are socially isolated due to staying inside for lengthy periods, having no communication with family, and a very poor mobile network that increases the chance of various psychologic problems. They are physically separated from their family members and lives in a remote forest area that results from loneliness or low self-esteem. Over time, a person may develop social anxiety, depression, or other mental health concerns. The people engaged under the MGNREGA scheme is staying temporarily inside the camp can help forest officials to build social skills and connect with each other's which helps the forest officials to recover from the effects of isolation.

COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION IN FOREST MANAGEMENT: The constant shortage of forest staff makes it difficult for the forest department to protect the forest. Local assistance is highly required for the effective protection of the forest. A community always plays an important role in the protection of wild animals. During their stay at the campsite, several awareness programs on afforestation and eco-system were organized. The community help results in the effective conservation and preservation of forest resources and the action for the conservation of many forest species. Developing relationships between the Forest Guard/forest department and the local people is established based on mutual trust that develops when the people participate in the labour activities inside the camp area through MGNREGA. Forest security against the poachers has been addressed through the MGNREGA scheme. They also keep a watch to protect the forest from fires. During their stay at the campsite, the local people are trained to do the job of forest guards to save the wild animals which help to reduce the casualties.

REDUCE CONFLICT AMONG LOCAL AND FOREST GUARD: Many local people have ways of thinking that the wild animals and the forest are the property of the forest department that develops the conflict between local people and forest guard which force them to act against forest officials. The biggest challenge facing any forest guard today is to protect themselves from the local people. Exploiting forest product in Sundarbans is prohibited for everyone, including the locals. But, the locals are heavily dependent on forests product for their food, housing, and livelihood. Preventing locals from these areas is practically difficult without the co-operation of local people. The participation of local people through MGNREGA in the forest helps economic balance. More women were employed in developing the campsite under the MGNREGA scheme which helps both parties not only reap economic benefits of the local community but also social amiability among the villagers and the forest guard.

VILLAGE PEOPLE SUPPLY THE FOOD TO FOREST GUARD DURING PATROLLING: While patrolling sometimes either they do not have time to cook or do not have raw materials to cook. During the time of developmental activities inside the campsite, the forest guard develops a harmonious relationship with the local village people who are engaged as labour under MGNREGA scheme as a result some local people when they are in their village, extend their help and sometimes provide food to the forest guard while patrolling.

It is a merit that an alternative income generation has also been created for the local people which offer them a better and more progressive lifestyle. Thus, after successfully implementing the MGNREGA scheme in Bonnie camp, the same concept is being used to implement the MGNREGA scheme in other camps of Sundarbans namely 'Kalash' and 'Chulkati' which are located in the last islands of Sundarbans, West Bengal.

If you do not possess a degree/diploma in creative art, communication or marketing, but possess all the requisite skills for taking up a job role in social media marketing team, you can validate your proficiency by undergoing various online certification programme. Individual certification works in the way of the certifier providing training content to individuals and conducting online exams based on the content. Over the years, the certification has become a minimum or expected requirement for entry-level marketing roles for agencies and corporations.

By earning certifications, it will be easier for hiring agents/managers to recognize your ability to identify core components of social media marketing, optimization skills, choose the appropriate campaign for your marketing objectives. You can show your current and prospective employers that you are a certified online advertising professional with a personalized certificate that you can print. Some of the most common certification programs for digital marketing are:

- Shopping Ads Certification

Building an Effective Portfolio

It is a must for a social media job applicant to have a meticulously compiled portfolio. A hiring manager will look for someone with experience in campaign planning and execution, creative talent, and community management skills, depending on the need of the organization. Therefore, before putting together a portfolio, deeply analyze your personal strengths - what do you enjoy the most? Creating content? Scouring the social media for identifying the best platforms for promoting your brand? Or making funny comments, using the perfect emoji in every situation, inciting a debate/ contest in the comments section and finding the best way to entertain your audience? Take advantage of your best skills and make them the focus of your portfolio so that hiring agents clearly see you seamlessly gliding into a role becoming an integral part of a social media marketing team.

A digital portfolio is best suited for any job role in social media marketing. Having a visualized form of data that is presented in a narrative manner allows the hiring manager to easily comprehend quite a bit of information in a short amount of time, while also giving them a peek into your creative acumen and convincing skills.

Question of the Week

National Pollution Prevention Day is observed on 2nd December every year in India. The day is observed in the memory of people who lost their lives in the Bhopal gas tragedy, which is considered one of the most devastating industrial pollution disasters in the country.

To avoid such tragedies in the future, what steps in your opinion should the industries take to manage industrial waste and also reduce their harmful impact on the environment?

ISSUE DATED 5 - 11 November 2022

Question: The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) has announced that it will be implementing a new pay equity policy for its contracted women cricketers, effectively paying men and women cricketers the same match fee. This is a landmark move as we move towards becoming an equal society. What other fields, in your opinion, should follow the lead and take such steps to eliminate gender discrimination?

PADMAJA T, HYDERABAD

Article 39(d) of the Indian Constitution sets the objective of equal pay for men and women. However, unfortunately, wage discrimination and inequality are still prevalent in a section of India's unorganized sector, particularly in rural areas.

The BCCI made a historic decision not long ago when they decided to pay men and women the same amount. In unorganized sectors such as agriculture labour, construction companies, hotel management, and domestic work, gender inequality is often seen. It doesn't matter if a person is male or female; the fact that they are looking for work indicates that they require a salary to meet the requirements of their day-to-day lives.

The salary of an agriculture labourer is often not the same for men and women because it is assumed that women will take longer hours than men. For domestic employees, no standard salaries are seen, despite the minimum wages being fixed by authorities, the workers due to their illiteracy and ignorance are paid reduced wages.

The hotel management sector prefers to hire more women to work in the cleaning departments, even though these employees are given additional responsibilities and are paid less. Due to the patriarchal structure of our society, in which men traditionally serve as the head of their households and women are subordinated to men in all areas of life, the female labor force is exploited by being paid less money and offered less opportunities. We need to create awareness among all kinds of employees regarding their services and job profiles and securities they are entitled to.

The President also addressed a Janjatiya Samagam in Shahdol, Madhya Pradesh, during which she said that the spirit of sacrificing everything in the interest of justice has been the speciality of the tribal society. "The history of freedom also includes several streams of struggles by the tribal communities," the President added.

India Will Not Rest Till Terrorism is Uprooted: PM Modi at 'No Money for Terror' Conference

Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi has emphasised that the world needs to unite against all kinds of covert and overt backing of terrorism as certain countries support terrorism as part of their foreign policy. He said this while addressing the third 'No Money for Terror' ministerial conference on counter-terrorism financing in New Delhi. He stressed that there must be a cost imposed on countries that support terrorism. While asserting that India will not rest till terrorism is uprooted, the PM said it is well known that terrorist groups get money through several sources and one source is state support. 450 delegates from over 70 countries, and multilateral organisations, met at the two day conference to deliberate on crucial issues including global trends in terrorism and terrorist financing, use of formal and informal channels of funds for terrorism, emerging technologies and terrorist financing, and international co-operation to address challenges in combating terror financing.

India's First Privately Built Space Rocket Launched Successfully by ISRO

The Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) has successfully launched the country's first privately built rocket (satellite launch vehicle), heralding a level-playing field for cost-efficient satellite launch services by disrupting the entry barriers. Vikram-S, designed and developed by Hyderabad-based space tech startup Skyroot Aerospace as part of its Prarambh Mission, was launched from Satish Dhawan Space Centre, Sriharikota, on 18th November 2022. The 6-metre tall launch vehicle Vikram-S is named after Vikram Sarabhai, the father of India's space programme. The rocket carried three payloads from Space Kidz India, Bazoomq Armenia and N-Space Tech India. Prarambh is the maiden mission Skyroot Aerospace which has the support of ISRO as well as the Indian National Space Promotion and Authorisation Centre (INSPACe).

UGC Asks Higher Educational Institutions to Engage Industry Experts as Professors of Practice

The University Grants Commission (UGC) has asked higher educational institutions to initiate necessary steps to engage professionals and industry experts as Professors of Practice in their institutes. In a letter addressed to the Vice Chancellors of Universities and Principals of Colleges across the country, the UGC has observed one of the recommendations of National Education Policy 2020 is to impart holistic and multidisciplinary education in higher educational institutions and this may require the participation of experienced practitioners, professionals and industry experts in the teaching-learning process.

In a First, Women Candidates to Join Defence Services Staff College

For the first time in the history of the Indian Army, six women candidates have cleared the examination for the prestigious Defence Services Staff College, Wellington. At the college, candidates are taught and trained for crucial aspects of military staff service like tactics, law and military history. The completion of the course enables the personnel for staff appointment to Lt. Col. rank and also gives them an advantage in the promotions to the rank of Colonel, which takes place via selection. This is yet another step that ensures women officers have the same opportunities as their male counterparts to grow in ranks and structures within the Army. The Indian Army had granted permanent commission to women officers for the first time in 2021.

India Bags EXCELL Award for Leadership in Family Planning

In a significant development and recognition to the country's efforts in improving access to modern family planning methods, India has received the Leadership in Family Planning (EXCELL) Awards-2022 in the 'country category' at the International Conference on Family Planning held in Pattaya city, Thailand. India has made outstanding progress not only in improving access but also adoption of modern contraceptive methods enabling couples to make informed choices about family planning. These are reflected in the National Family Health Survey (NFHS) - 5 data. As per NFHS-5 data, overall Contraceptive Prevalence Rate (CPR) has increased substantially from 54 percent to 67 percent in the country, from NFHS-4. Similarly, unmet needs of family planning have witnessed a significant decline from 13 per cent to 9 per cent. The unmet need for spacing has also come down to less than 10 per cent.

India Takes Over G20 Presidency as Bali Summit Concludes with Resolve to Fight Hunger

The G20 Summit held in Bali, Indonesia, concluded on 16th November with Indonesian President Joko Widodo symbolically handing over the G20 Presidency to Prime Minister Shri. Narendra Modi. India's Presidency of the G20 officially starts from 1st December 2022. India is taking charge of the G20 at a time when the world is grappling with geopolitical tensions, economic slowdown, rising food and energy prices and the long-term ill-effects of the pandemic. During the Summit in Bali, G20 nations expressed deep concern over the challenges posed to global food security exacerbated by current conflicts and tensions and expressed commitment to taking urgent actions to save lives, prevent hunger and malnutrition. In a declaration issued after the G20 Summit in Bali, the member nations called for an accelerated transformation towards sustainable and resilient agriculture and food systems and supply chains. The declaration expressed commitment to protect the most vulnerable from hunger by using all available tools to address the global food crisis. Referring to the Russia-Ukraine conflict, the declaration said it has adversely impacted the global economy.

India Stresses on More Effective Climate Finance at COP27

India has told the developed countries that access to finance and technology to developing countries is must to protect the Earth from apocalyptic changes. Delivering India's National Statement at COP27 in Egypt, Environment Minister Shri. Bhupender Yadav stressed that the world urgently needs a paradigm shift from mindless and destructive consumption to mindful and deliberate utilisation. He said that as the world's most populous democracy and a vibrant emerging economy, India seeks to lead by example. Raising concerns over the issue of climate finance, the Minister said that the commitment made by the developed countries to mobilize US$ 100 billion from diverse sources by 2020 was a meager amount and remains unachieved till now. He added that the current needs of developing countries are estimated to be in the order of trillions. Furthermore, India has urged to developed countries not to make coal the lone villain as all fossil fuels contribute to the Green House Gas (GHG) emissions. India told the COP27 participants that selective singling out of sources of emissions, for either labelling them more harmful, or labelling them 'green and sustainable' even when they are sources of greenhouse gases, has no basis in the best available science.
